Claims Bunche Check-Up

Rep. Powell Tells Baltimore Audience Of House Group's Intended Schedule

BALTIMORE, June 6—(AP)—Rep. Powell (D-NY) said here today that the House Un-American Activities Committee is going to investigate Dr. Ralph Bunche, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize and a member of the United Nations staff.

But a member of the committee, Rep. Clardy (R-Mich), said in Washington:

"If the committee is going to investigate Dr. Bunche, it's news to me. In fact, I've never heard his name mentioned in connection with the work of the committee. I can assure you nobody has even thought about investigating him."

Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill), chairman of the committee, was not reachable for comment.

Reached at his New York home, Dr. Bunche said, "I know nothing about it whatsoever. He (Congressman Powell) hasn't contacted me."

Powell made his announcement to an audience of some 300 persons attending graduation exercises at Goppin State Teachers College for Negroes, where the Harlem Democrat delivered the commencement address.

Congressman Powell paused in his prepared text to say: "I have some shocking news. The House Un-American Activities Committee is going to investigate Dr. Ralph Bunche."

He then went on to say: "From Benedict Arnold to the Rosenbergs no Negro has ever been convicted of being disloyal."

Dr. Bunche, (Negro), is now a member of a U. N. committee investigating race relations in South Africa. He gained international fame for mediating a truce between Palestine and the Arab Nations.

There was an audible gasp from the audience at Powell's words. He did not elaborate, and left for New York before reporters could contact him after the speech.

Cornerstone Laying Opens Battles Store

The cornerstone laying of the new West Side Variety Store building, 718 West 16th, is to be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when Howard Elliott, St. Louis, the Republican candidate for governor in 1952, will give the principal address. Mr. Howard will use as his subject, "Home Owned Stores."

The program is to be opened with the invocation by the Rev. J. W. Watts of the East Broadway Christian Church. Chester L. Wolfe, city counsellor, will introduce Mr. Elliott.

The laying of the cornerstone will be by Emil Sievers, of the Sievers Construction Co., which built the building.

A style show, directed by W. M. Sweeney, is to be held with the compliments of the Fitts Dry Goods Co., Kansas City.

After the style show, Miss Jo Ann Edwards, 17, daughter of Mrs. Goldie Edwards, 2509 East Broadway, will be married to Mr. Jack Horn, 23, son of Mrs. Lee Yeater, route 3, Sedalia. The Rev. Mr. Watts will officiate at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Edwards graduated from Smith-Cotton High School in the class of 1953. Prior to coming to Sedalia she resided near Warsaw. She attended Edwards School and went one year to Warsaw High School.

Mr. Yeater attended Oak Grove School. He enlisted in the Army September, 1948 and served four years in the Ordnance Corps. Two and a half years were spent on Okinawa. He was discharged June 22, 1952.

The young couple will reside on a farm about four miles west of Sedalia.

The Rev. A. J. Brunswick, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, will give the benediction.

Sedalia's new business addition to the West 16th area was started several weeks ago. The structure was erected around the old building while business was carried on as usual, without interruption. As soon as the roof had been completed for the new structure, and over the old, workmen then began tearing out the old building.

The business is a result of the growth from a small building in which many hours of hard work were put in for the past several years by "Dick and Freda," Mr. and Mrs. Richard Battles.

Pettis Countians Give 228 Pints Of Blood

Pettis Countians contributed 228 pints of blood Friday and Saturday at the Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria. The local Red Cross office expressed disappointment that the hoped-for goal of 400 pints could not be reached.

Donations on Friday totalled 143 pints, and another 85 pints were given Saturday. Two hundred pints each day had been expected by the Red Cross, according to Mrs. A. A. Studebaker, chairman of the blood program in Pettis County.

Stratojets Break New Speed Record Three Times In Few Hours

FAIRFORD AIR BASE, England, June 6 (AP)—Fifteen American B47 Stratojet bombers wooshed across the Atlantic with clockwork precision today and shattered the infant U. S.-British speed record three times in a few hours.

The last of the six-jet planes to land made the best time. It completed the nonstop flight from Limestone, Me., in five hours 22 minutes—an average of 575 m.p.h.

That sliced six minutes off a record set only 24 hours ago by two other Stratojets and which already had twice been bettered earlier today.

Today's flights completed the three-day transfer of the wing's 45 planes from MacDill Field, Fla., for 90 days of duty at this American airbase nestling in sleepy Gloucestershire.

Mrs. Fagan's Roses Receive Top Awards

Her Friends Entered Flowers After She Refused to Do So

The woman who was too reluctant to enter her roses in the Rose Show held Friday afternoon and evening at the Little Theatre, sponsored by the Sedalia Rose Society, received the gold certificate from the National Rose Society for her rose, Mirandy, chosen the queen of the show. She is Mrs. Oscar Fagan and the roses from her garden were brought to the Rose Show by friends who just cut them and brought them after she couldn't be talked into entering them herself.

Not only that, but Mrs. Fagan also received the silver award for the second best rose, Peace.

The bronze certificate was awarded Mrs. P. L. Strole, Sedalia, on her rose, Cedric Adams.

Each year a silver bowl trophy is presented to the person having the largest number of points for horticulture in the show and a pair of silver candlesticks to the person having the largest number of points for arrangements.

The winner of the silver bowl this year was Ed Brummet, who had 94 points. Mrs. H. C. Sammons, with 31 points, won the candlesticks.

The bowl and candlesticks will be kept by the winner until next year when they are passed on to the next winners. This is the fourth year for the bowl, with John Schlaffer receiving it the first year, Perry L. Strole, the second, and Mrs. Herbert Seifert the third.

It is the second year for the candlesticks and Mrs. Seifert also won the candlesticks last year, giving her use of the entire set for the year.

The judges of the show were Mrs. Lester B. Satterlee and Mrs. H. L. Robison, both of Kansas City, who were high in their praise of the show and particularly of the arrangements which were very unusual in a rose show of this size.

The most outstanding arrangement of the show, according to the judges, was the one entitled, "Winter Rapture" of evergreen and small bright red roses. The evergreen was in the shape of a Christmas tree with the small roses as decorations. The arrangement was made by Mrs. H. C. Sammons.

The second place arrangement in the show was "Autumn Splendor", with yellow roses in a brass

Aims At Settling South Koreans' Bitterness Toward Allied Truce Plan

BULLETIN

SEOUL, Sunday, June 7 (AP) — President Syngman Rhee ordered a "semi-emergency alert" today and directed his defense minister to recall all Army officers now in training in the U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—President Eisenhower sent a message to President Syngman Rhee today in a move to prevent South Korea's bitter opposition from disrupting an imminent truce in Korea.

Highly placed officials consider that full agreement on the long-deadlocked prisoner of war issue is at hand and that all other matters may be cleared away and an armistice actually end the fighting in a week or ten days.

The most serious threat to this highly optimistic prospect has arisen from South Korean declarations of opposition to an agreement which would leave Korea divided. Leaders of the South Korean government have warned that they will fight on alone for a unified country if they have to.

Eisenhower conferred for an hour today with Secretary of State Dulles, Assistant Defense Secretary Frank Nash, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, and other advisers on the South Korean problem and subsequently dispatched his message. There may be some official announcement regarding this message in the course of the week end, since Rhee has made public various statements and proposals of his own, including a request for a defense pact with the United States.

The President and his diplomatic and military policy makers charted action to block South Korean disruption of a truce if at all possible and the message was designed to serve that purpose although there was no official announcement concerning it.

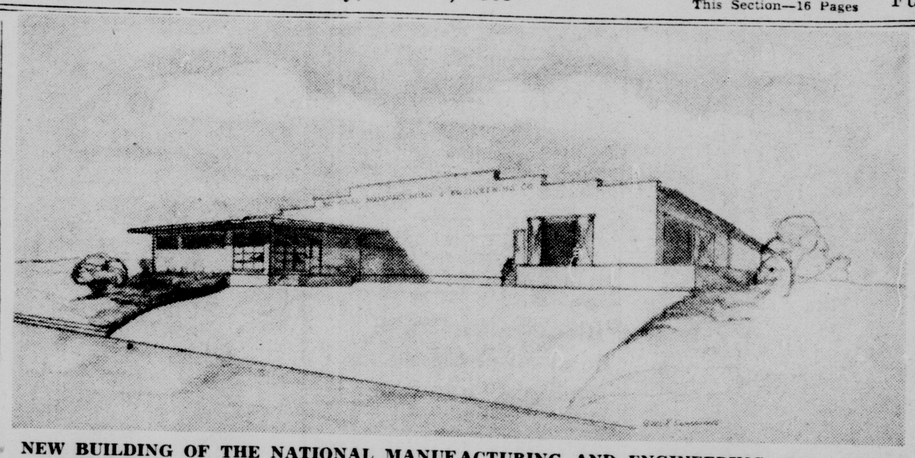
Secrecy covered the White House deliberations, but it seemed almost certain that the United States would offer President Syngman Rhee's South Korean government fresh new guarantees of American support against any renewal of Red aggression after an armistice.

That the next few days of the truce negotiations and the South Korean reaction are crucial was indicated by the fact that Secretary of State Dulles canceled a commencement address Monday at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., where he also was to receive an honorary degree. Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) will make the commencement address instead.

President Eisenhower is reported to have asked Cabinet members to stand by for conferences on the truce situation.

Knob Noster School To Get Federal Aid

A. C. Teague, superintendent of Knob Noster Schools, has announced that Knob Noster R-VIII will share in the federal funds and will receive $1,500 as first payment on pupils, who are federally connected with the local Air Base. This sum will be received immediately and final payment will be based on average daily attendance.



NEW BUILDING OF THE NATIONAL MANUFACTURING AND ENGINEERING CO., which will be constructed at 16th and Lamine by the Sedalia Improvement Co., from funds now being invested by local businessmen and firms. The 194x148 foot structure will face on 16th Street and is expected to cost, with the land and improvements to the site, about $110,000. A contract for the concrete block walls and concrete slab floor has been let to the Patterson Bros. Steel is being ordered under another contract and a third contract will be for the installation of the roof. Under terms of the lease by the association to the company, which will manufacture fans and cooling equipment, the firm will pay a total of $96,500 in rent over a ten year period and will also pay the property taxes, insurance premiums and the necessary upkeep and maintenance work. Breaks Tie-Up On Reciprocal Trade Stretch

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Rep. Daniel Reed (R-NY) today broke the bottleneck holding up legislation to extend the reciprocal trade act, upon administration assurance the bill would not be used to continue the excess profits tax.

Reed's decision, announced in a statement today, was to call up the trade act for consideration next Tuesday by the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee he heads.

Reed has maintained militantly that the excess profits tax on business should be allowed to expire on schedule June 30 and that a 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes should take place then, also. The income tax cut is not due by law until Dec. 31.

Despite assurances by Senate and House leaders that his fears were ill-founded, Reed had bottled up the trade act on the theory that it might be amended on the Senate floor to extend the excess profits tax. His adamant stand put the trade agreement law in jeopardy since next Friday is its expiration date.

But he announced today he had secured what he considered adequate safeguards, saying:

"At my request, I have now received air tight assurance of the White House, from the Senate and the House leadership that they will oppose any attempt which might be made to amend trade agreement legislation with an extension of the discriminatory and unfair excess profits tax."

President Eisenhower and other administration leaders have agreed with Reed that the excess profits tax is unfair. But they say revenue from the tax can not be spared in their attempts to balance the budget, and that the levy should be extended for six months.

The reciprocal trade agreements act gives the President authority to negotiate lower tariffs on foreign goods coming into the U. S. in return for trade concessions to the U. S. Eisenhower, in calling for a one year extension, has said the law is a necessary tool in his efforts to stimulate free world trade.

Postmaster Will Quit After 18 Years On Job

ST. JOSEPH, June 6 (AP)—Ernest Buehler, postmaster of South St. Joseph, has applied for optional retirement, effective July 31.

He is a Democrat and has held the postmastership about 18 years.

Rev. David M. Funk Begins New Pastorate Here June 10

The Rev. David M. Funk, Manley, Ia., has been called as the new pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Tenth and Osage, and will come here on June 10 to begin the new pastorate. His first services at the church will be conducted next Sunday, June 14.

A native of Johnston, Pa., the Rev. Mr. Funk has been serving as pastor of the English Lutheran Church in Manley since May, 1949. He has been a minister since 1922 and in the 31-year period has ministered to several congregations and has held numerous positions in synods of several states.

His first parish was in Oakland, Md., where he went in 1922 and remained until 1925, building a parsonage while there. He was student pastor from 1925 to 1929 at Morgantown, W. V., and went from there to Newport, Ky., where, during a 13-year pastorage, the church completed the second $30,000 unit of a building program and made itself debt free in depression years. He was at Muscatine, Ia., from 1942 until going to Manley in 1949.

Some of the conference offices he has held include: secretary of West Virginia Synod, 1923-29; secretary of Kentucky-Tennessee Synod 1934-38, then president of the same synod 1938-40 and returning to the secretaryship for 1941-42; secretary of Iowa Synod 1943-47; and president of Eastern

Rev. David M. Funk

Conference of Iowa Synod 1942-48.

The Rev. Mr. Funk is married and has two children: Mary Virginia, now at home in Fairfield, Ia., and David Funk Jr., whose home is in Muscatine, Ia.

Wife Won't Prosecute Husband In Shooting

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 6 (AP)—Roy B. Crull, who reportedly fired a shotgun blast at his wife yesterday, was released by the office of the prosecuting attorney today when his spourse refused to prosecute.

Mrs. Crull said her husband was not himself when he shot at her as he had just had four teeth pulled.

Only a few of the .410 pellets struck her and she was released after receiving treatment at a hospital.

Police used tear gas to get the 62-year-old Crull out of his house after his wife had been shot at.

Icelander Will Speak To Rotarians Monday

Gnobgairtur Gunnarsson of Iceland, one of the Rotary International students at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg will be the speaker at the noon meeting of Rotary at the Bothwell Hotel Monday.

Program chairman for the day will be Ernest Freyman.

Family Has Three Suicides In Year

PARIS, Mo., June 6 (AP)—Less than a year ago, J. B. Hobbs was found hanging at his home near Perry, Mo.

Last Thursday, Hobbs' son, Orville Hobbs, died of inhaling carbon monoxide fumes through a hose attached to the exhaust of his car.

Early today, Hobbs' daughter, Mrs. Ernest Elliott, 33, was found dead in the smokehouse at her home near here. Prosecutor Tom Proctor said she was the victim of a self-inflicted 22-rifle wound.

Boy Hides Under Car, Is Crushed To Death

TRENTON, June 6 (AP)—Jerry Allen Triplett, 6, died today in a Trenton hospital of injuries received while playing near the Alpha Church.

Jerry was crushed beneath a motor car while he was playing hide and seek yesterday. The car passed over his body. One report was that older children released the brakes on the car while another report was that the children were pushing it to get it started.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Triplett of Alpha.

South Korea Threatens Total Truce Walk-Out

MUNSAN, Sunday, June 7—(AP)—Embittered South Korea threatened a total walkout from the Panmunjom truce talks as Red and U. N. Command teams meet today to iron out narrowing differences barring an armistice in the bloody, three-year Korean War.

An informed source said there was a possibility at today's session that the Reds would accept a key proposal of the Allies—to refer final disposition of 48,500 Red prisoners unwilling to go home to the U. N. General Assembly.

The Communist and U. N. delegations were due to convene at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. Saturday, CST).

But the mounting hopes for a truce were interlaced with tension in Seoul and Washington caused by South Korean opposition.

In Washington, President Eisenhower met for more than an hour Saturday (U. S. time) with military and civilian chiefs, reportedly over a Korean embassy statement that present truce terms were not acceptable.

The Korean Ambassador, You Chan Yang, declared "we feel we are being sold down the river."

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, June 7 (AP)—Allied and Red truce delegates held three brief sessions today on the Korean armistice and then recessed by mutual agreement at 12:24 p. m. (9:24 p. m. CST, Saturday) until tomorrow.

South Korea's 78-year-old President, Syngman Rhee, appealed to President Eisenhower either to accept a South Korean counter-proposal or to allow his country "to continue to fight" the Reds."

Pyun Yung Tai, acting premier and foreign minister of South Korea angrily denounced Allied truce moves as "nothing but a manifestation of defeatism of the free world."

Moves Out Belongings

The South Korean truce delegate, Maj. Choi Duk Shin, who has boycotted every Panmunjom session since May 25, moved his belonging out of the Munsan base camp of the Allied truce team.

Choi's aide, Capt. Oh Ki Chang, said he also would no longer attend the truce sessions and that Col. Lee Soo Yun might follow suit. That would leave the Allied delegation completely without South Korean representation. Lee has been a liaison officer on the Allied truce staff since the start of negotiations nearly two years ago.

An informed source said that the remaining "minor points" in dispute over truce terms could be ironed out by Red and Allied truce delegates at Panmunjom within a matter of a few days at the latest.

The negotiations themselves and the exact terms remained officially secret as they have since May 25 when the Allies offered a compromise plan. Choi broke the secrecy unofficially by announcing points which he denounced as amounting to "surrender."

His main objection was the plan would leave Korea divided with Chinese Reds on Korean soil.

Rhee Offers New Terms

President Rhee made public Saturday a message to President Eisenhower saying the Allied May 25 proposal was unacceptable to South Korea. Then he countered with this proposal:

1. Withdraw Allied and Chinese troops from Korea.

2. Assure immediate and automatic U. S. intervention if South Korea is attacked again.

3. Supply South Korea's armed forced with adequate arms and ammunition.

4. Continue U. S. air and naval force support until South Koreans are able to take over.

"If this proposal is unacceptable," Rhee told Eisenhower, "we must be allowed to continue the fighting . . . We can no longer survive a stalemate of Korea's division."

Rhee's demands for unification and the withdrawal of Chinese Reds were viewed by the Allied command as matters to be taken up at a peace conference on a high political level following a truce.

Carriers Close Convention Here Today

Business sessions, which will include the election of officers, will be held by the Missouri State Association of Letter Carriers and the Ladies' Auxiliary here today as their 52nd annual conventions come to a close.

The men are meeting at the Court House, while the Auxiliary meetings are being convened in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell Hotel. They will join in a religious service this morning at the Court House to hear the Rev. David M. Bryan, pastor of the First Christian Church.

The business meetings of the two groups are to be this morning and again this afternoon, with officer luncheons at noon.

Last night the convention banquet was served at St. Patrick's School and the speaker of the evening was Jerome J. Keating, vice president of the National Letter Carriers' Association, Washing, D. C. He made a plea for members and the Auxiliary to work together for improved postal service for the public, for better working conditions for the carriers and for increased salaries for the men who daily deliver the mail in cities and towns across the nation.

Mr. Keating said the present administration appears to be interested only in reducing the Truman budget and for that reason it does not seem likely that action will come toward providing some of the things which the carriers' group has been seeking, such as the restoration of two deliveries of mail daily in residential districts.

In his remarks, Mr. Keating said the postal service has been on the decline for several years and that the pay increases of postal workers have not kept pace with the cost of living index.

Several other speakers were introduced by the toastmaster, Peter T. O'Brien, Sedalia, who was presented at the opening of the banquet by Donald C. Truman, president of the Sedalia branch of the carriers. The invocation was by Fred Brummet of Sedalia.

The others who were introduced and who spoke briefly included: Maurice Hogan, Sedalia postmaster; Gary Freelin, Moberly, state president; Mrs. Margaret Green, St. Louis, Auxiliary state president; Mrs. Ailsa Waggoner, Indianapolis, Ind., member of the executive board of national ladies' auxiliary; Mrs. Helen Burrows, Coffeyville, Kan., a national officer; James K. Langan, Pittston, Pa., member of the executive board of the national association; and Howard M. Nicol, member of the board of trustees of the carriers' national insurance group, of Cuyahoga, O.

A dance at the Legion Hall followed the banquet.

Saturday morning the opening business sessions of the two groups were held at which several state officers spoke. The ladies had a luncheon at the Old Missouri Homestead at noon. A concert by the St. Louis Letter Carriers' Band was presented in front of the Bothwell Hotel Saturday afternoon and the band played again in the evening on the lawn of St. Patricks' School as members assembled for the dinner meeting.

Fireworks Explode, Killing 2, Leveling Factory Building

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 6 (AP) — An explosion leveled the main building of a fireworks factory near here today, killing two of the three men in the plant.

The blast broke windows a mile away and demolished an unoccupied house-trailer near the scene.

Police identified the dead as the factory owner, Albert Benjamin, 43, of Schenectady, and Anthony Sisario, about 43, of Amsterdam, an employe.

Injured was Vincent Barbuto Jr., 18, of Schenectady. He suffered second degree burns of the back, arms and face, and he was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Engineer Head Dies

KANSAS CITY, June 6 (AP)—Gordon V. Nelson, Sr., 56, senior partner in the Nelson, Beggs & Edison Company, consulting engineers, died last night.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

'Tis odd how minor personal experiences cause one to change opinion about important matters.

Recently a prominent Sedalian was talking about the possibility of eliminating the Liberty Park lake and converting it into a monkey pit because of the expense of maintaining the lake as a result of disintegrating leaky retaining walls.

Although a bit facetious, the monkey-pit idea might have caught on except that the other evening I participated in a family picnic at the park and witnessed the rapture with which 5-year-old grandson and 6-year-old granddaughter caught their first fish.

So . . . no monkey pit; let's just keep the lake as is, albeit it might cost a bit to repair the sides.

One day grandpa feels piscatorial pride in his grandson for catching a fish; the next day he has excessive exasperation when he discovers the youngster dancing on a freshly laid concrete foundation for an outside oven in the backyard. Grandchildren are enigmas to grandpappies! But how we love 'em.

Three Thousand Children's Tickets Are Offered Free

Rodeo Brings Champion Bronco Busters to Fair Grounds

From the sand hills of Nebraska comes one of the largest rodeo companies of all time—the LLL Bar Rodeo—which will give performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon at the Missouri State Fair grounds.

Sponsored by the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce, the rodeo promises to be the best of the three annual shows given for Central Missourians since 1951 in front of the grandstand on the fair's race track.

Some $2000 in prize money is being offered in the five events of the world championship rodeo and it is expected that more than 100 cowboys will be here to try and grab some of that cash and to amass points toward the cowboys' national championship awards.

Bull dogging, bronc busting, steer riding, calf roping and bareback riding will be the main events, but there will be many special attractions and the clowns will be on hand to keep fans at the edges of their seats between the big, main events.

Three thousand children's children's tickets are being offered free of charge for the first performance, on Thursday night. They are available from merchants who have sponsored the program for the show.

In addition, all servicemen in uniform will be admitted to this first show free of charge, the Jaycees have announced.

The three night performances are scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock with the Sunday afternoon show set for 2 o'clock. Dhill exhibitons by the State Fair Saddle Club, Otterville Boots and Saddle Club and Versailles Saddle Club are to be presented each night and on Sunday.

Ray Kilgore, leading money winner at last year's rodeo, is coming back this year. The Sallisaw, Okla., rider thrilled crowds here in '52 with his great riding and calf roping.

The George Stichka Company, owners of the ranch where the rodeo has its headquarters, has 20,000 acres of land in the southern part of Cherry County, Nebr. Not all of the ranch is used for rodeo stock, but it takes a large portion of the acreage to handle the 400 head of bucking horses which run wild until the rodeo season begins.

These horses have been bought from other companies as well as having been gathered from the Indian nations of North and South Dakota, where some of the greatest bucking horses of all time have been found. In 1953 two different bucking horse try outs have been held at Mullen, Nebr., and Hutchinson, Kan. George Stichka is constantly searching for more and better bucking horses.

This company originated in October of 1949 when George Stichka, president, of Seneca, Nebr., decided to add a rodeo division to his company. He made a deal with Les Winget of Inman, Kan., who had been producing rodeos for the past ten years. At this time the big job of putting together a top flight string of rodeo stock was begun. It was also necessary to obtain outstanding acts, personnel and equipment.

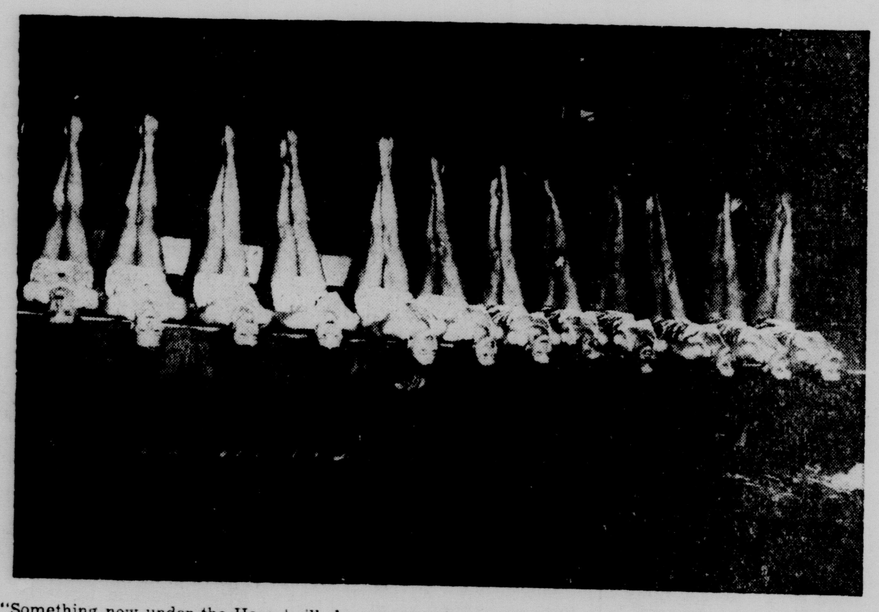
In 1953 they will produce around 25 shows throughout the midwest. Their season opened with the famous Guymon, Okla., Pioneer Day Rodeo. Their itinerary consists of shows in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota.

This string of rodeo stock has become known as the Triple L Bar Rodeo as all of the rodeo stock carry this famous brand—one of the oldest in the State of Nebraska.

CROSS FIRE JUMP, being demonstrated here, is one of the sensational acts the Murphy Troupe of Wisner, Nebr., will present at the rodeo here this week. A roman ride and fire jump are other parts of their special rodeo show. In the cross-fire, a woman and a man ride black and white horses in a cimultaneous jump over a new convertible.

BULL DOGGING—One of the most dangerous and spectacular evenst of any rodeo, will be one of the main attractions at the World Championship Rodeo here this week. Here the cowboy has just left his horse and is grabbing for the steer's horns in an attempt to wrestly the steer to the ground.

Sam Howard's Aqua-Thrill, a Big Water Carnival, at State Fair



"Something new under the Heavens" — that's Sam Howard's Aqua-Thrill — the big water carnival that will be shown for the first time this year at the Missouri State Fair, right out in the big open.

"This new show, I believe," said Rollo E. Singleton, Secretary of the Fair, "is one of the most sparkling bits of entertainment ever presented at this fair." Added to the long list of special events that have been assembled this year are several new features which will round out a program of entertainment that will have features for every member of the family.

The new show, "Aqua Thrills" will be presented at the Fairgrounds in 17 performances, beginning with two shows Friday night, August 21, and three shows daily from Saturday, August 22, through Wednesday, August 26, with shows at 3, 7 and 9 p. m.

Headlining the show are three first place World's Champion High Divers — Sam Howard, Barney Cipriani and Ross Collins who in order listed, finished first, second, and third at the Championship contests held in Nassau, Bahamas.

In addition to these internationally known artists and some forty more performers skilled in various feats in the water; a group of Novelty acts will add color, comedy and thrills; together with the gorgeous beauty of the Water Ballet with special music and lighting effects. This unusual combination, seldom seen at any Fair, will appeal to all who seek something new and different in the highest standards of entertainment.

Competing for aquatic honors with performers of the "Aqua-Thrills" will be "Sharkey" the world's greatest seal. Unanimous opinion of famous columnists and ace sport writers is that he is the most intelligent and highly trained sea lion the world has ever seen.

He's an actor, mimic, acrobat, juggler, musician and swims at a speed of 40 miles an hour. He's the only seal that can hurdle, "talk", and retrieve.

Former Sedalians' Son Is Honor Graduate

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goin, 1007 Holloway, Rolla, former Sedalians, have been informed that their son, Paul, has been graduated with top scholastic honors from the Naval Aviation Ordnance School at Jacksonville, Fla.

In a letter to his parents, the company officer of the organization said, "Paul's accomplishments should be a source of pride to you for the course included many difficult phases of instructions such as publications, electricity, small arms, machine guns, aircraft munitions, aviation fire control equipment, aircraft turrets, operational problems. He has been a credit ot this school and it was a pleasure to have him on board", the letter to the parents concluded.

Paul is a grandson of Mrs. Minnie Goin, 418 East Fifth.

'Bloomer Girl' Will Be at Muni Opera

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — "Bloomer Girl", the hilarious and tune-filled Broadway hit show, will begin a week's run at St. Louis' famed open-air Municiapl Opera, Monday evening, June 15. It was presented previously at the Municipal Opera in 1949. Harold Arlen contributed the music and E. Y. Harburg the lyrics. Such well-known tunes as "Evalina" and "Right As The Rain" sprang from the show.

AT FT. BLISS—Pvt. Russell W. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Mitchell, Houstonia, and husband of the former Bernadean Anne Coffelt, also of Houstonia, is receiving his basic trainging at Ft. Bliss, Tex. He was inducted into the Army May 19.

Yudin Named Deputy Red In East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — The official East German news agency announced today that Pavel F. Yudin, who came to Berlin five weeks ago as political adviser to Gen. Vassily Chuikov, has been appointed deputy to Vladimir Semyenov, Soviet high commissioner to Germany.

Yudin, a member of the Russian Communist Party's Central Committee, took over the advisor post with the former Soviet control commission at the end of April as successor to Semyenov.

His appointment today followed the closing down of the control commission under Chuikov who was recalled yesterday as commander-in-chief of Soviet occupation troops in Germany.

20 Miles from Town, They Operate Own Boarding School

(Editor's Note: Philip M. Carden, AP news staffer in Nashville, Tenn., is a man of varied talents. When the Cardens and their brood of six little Cardens moved into a farmhouse 20 miles from town, they had no telephone. Phil fixed that by stringing up his own phone line. Then because of transport problems, the Cardens decided the kids would get their book learning at home. Here's his story of the Carden Academy.)

NASHVILLE, Ten., June 6 (AP)—They call me Prof. Carden these days because I'm headmaster—in my spare time—of Carden Academy.

This institution is a small boarding school 20 miles from Nashville whose student body consists of five little Cardens and a mascot—the littlest Carden.

The faculty consists of me, my wife and Bud Rowland. Rowland, who runs the farm on which we live, teaches such important subjects as corn planting, tractor driving, cow milking and perch fishing.

The idea for Carden Academy was a long time developing but burst into full bloom at 7 o'clock one morning in the spring of 1952. That was the hour the kids were supposed to have caught their school bus. They missed it.

We enrolled everybody but the baby for correspondence courses from Calvert School starting last September. Calvert is the private Baltimore day school which is the source of book earning for many children of isolated missionaries, diplomats and soldiers from Alaska to Zamboanga.

The courses arrived as advertised, complete with everything we needed except desks, chairs and brains. Cardeh Academy was in operation—with Ruth in kindergarten, Jarvis in first grade, Mark in the second, John in the fifth, Paul in the seventh and the baby in our hair.

We plowed into home education ful speed that first morning—and quickly found ourselves spinning our wheels.

I was working then from midnight to 8 a. m. and the schedule for my pupils—the two older boys—called for classes from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. But when time came for papa to hit the hay for the afternoon, neither Paul nor John had finished half his work.

Mama's troubles were different. Her pupils weren't having lesson trouble but they were too often idle while mama changed a diaper, fixed lunch or tried a new toy to keep the baby quiet.

Then came the truant officer. It seems Tennessee had never had such a case as this and nothing would straighten the matter out but a judge's decision.

The judge indicated he thought we might be a bit off our rockers, wasn't legal.

I'm far from being a born teacher, but gradually the kids learned how to handle me. We picked up speed as I learned to keep my big mouth shut when the boys were getting along well enough on their own steam.

They'll be till July making up for lost time, but they are now covering more than the required lessons each day—and scared to death they may have to catch another 7 a. m. school bus if they don't make the grade.

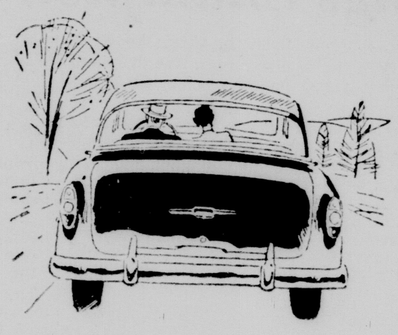
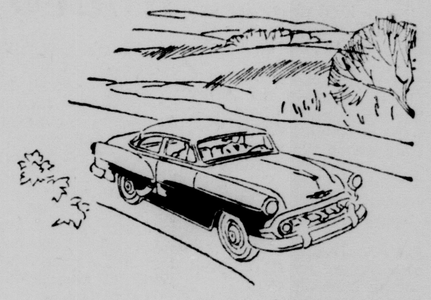
RECORD-BREAKING GAS MILEAGE

for the driving YOU do!





This year's Chevrolet brings you the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And it's the kind of everyday economy that saves you money wherever and however you drive!

CHEVROLET

TUNE IN THE DINAH SHORE SHOW ON NBC

Radio—Every Monday and Friday Evening

Inch along through heavy traffic. Roll up the miles in steady highway cruising. Long trips or short errands, byroads or boulevards, you get far more miles per gallon in this great new Chevrolet.

New high-compression power is the reason. Both the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine in Powerglide* models—and the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine in gearshift models—deliver more power on less gasoline. Acceleration and hill-climbing ability are much greater, fuel consumption much lower!

This is the kind of economy that counts the most—important gasoline savings for the driving you do, together with lower over-all costs of upkeep. And along with it, you enjoy all the other advantages that only the new Chevrolet offers you. Come in and drive this car—prove it for yourself!

*Combination of 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine and Powerglide automatic transmission available on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models only.

Mrs. A. R. Beach Presents Voice Students' Recital

Mrs. A. R. Beach presented her students in a junior voice recital at the First Baptist Church at 8 p. m. Friday.

Baskets of emerald green, rose colored lamps and burning candles formed a beautiful setting for the young singers.

The invocation was by the Rev. T. W. Croxton.

The following program was presented to a large and appreciative audience:

Organ and piano — "Praise and Glory", Lorenz; "Finlandia", Sibelius, by Marilyn Kelley and Larry Owen.

"Where My Caravan Has Rested", Lohr; Bob Chambers.

"A Brown Bird Singing", Haydn Wood, Judy Burns.

"The Lord Bless You and Keep You", Meredith Wilson, Anne Heffernan.

"Smiling Thru", Penn, Betty Jeanne Tucker.

"Bless This House", Brahe, Gloria Williams.

"The Lord's Prayer", Mallette, Barbara Leiter.

"Panis Angelicus", Franck, "Where Ere You Walk", Handel, Dickie Shoemaker.

"Only A Rose", Friml, "At Starlight Time", Speaks, Joyce Burke.

"The Second Minuet", Besley, "From The Land of The Sky Blue Water", Cadman, Rosalie Moore.

Piano solo — "Hungarian", McDowell, Dickie Shoemaker.

"The Little Damozel", Novello, "Morning Wind", Branscombe, Sandra Baker.

"The Greatest Wish In The World", Del Riego, "My Lover Is A Fisherman", Strickland, Bernice Bacon.

"My Heart Is A Silent Violin", Fox, "I Saw A Star Tonight", Stickles, Ada Louise Durrill.

"Coming Home", Willoby, "The Good Shepherd", Van De Water, Connie Brandhorst.

"Velvet Shoes", Thompson, "Thy Beaming Eyes", McDowell, Judy Rissler.

"Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes", Old English, boys' quartet—Larry Owen, Don Hofheins, Charles Brady and Norman Griswald.

"Without A Song", Youmans, "Kushmiri Song", Woodford-Finden "I'll Walk Behind You", Billy Reid, John Brooks.

"Invickus", Bruno Huhn, "I Believe", popular, Chester O'Bannon.

Mrs. A. R. Beach was the accompanist.

Candlelighters were Sandra Gates and Janet Homan, and ushers were Charles Brady, Don Hofheins and Norman Griswold.

WOOL SEWING WINNERS—Elinor Van Dyke, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, Smithton, winner of the junior division of the Southwest "Make It Yourself in Wool" contest held this past week in Clinton. She will compete with district winners from over the entire state in the state finals which will be held at the Bothwell Hotel in Sedalia the latter part of this month. Charlotte Houston, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Houston of Sedalia, rated second in the junior division of the district contest and Ruby Silsby, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Silsby, Sedalia, was a runnerup in the junior division. All three girls are students at Smith-Cotton High School and the instructors are Mrs. Mary Maddox and Mrs. Louise McKee, who went to Clinton with the girls. Mrs. George Fichter, district chairman, and the mothers of the girls, also were in Clinton for the contest.

Conn Reelected Tipton's Clerk For 32nd Year

TIPTON — With the unanimous re-election of J. A. Conn as city clerk at the council meeting Monday night, he has broken all records for longevity in Tipton city office.

Mr. Conn is entering his 32nd year as city clerk. A few months back he was tendered a plaque by businessmen for his faithful and efficient service.

Other city officials were reappointed as follows: V. F. Williams, water superintendent-street commissioner; O. J. Stratman, treasurer; Dr. J. F. Potts, physician; Frank J. Quigley, attorney; Will R. Schmidt, night marshal; Vincent Hecht, fire chief.

Henry Akin was appointed deputy night marshal to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William Lutz.

All of the city officials were present at Monday night's meeting.

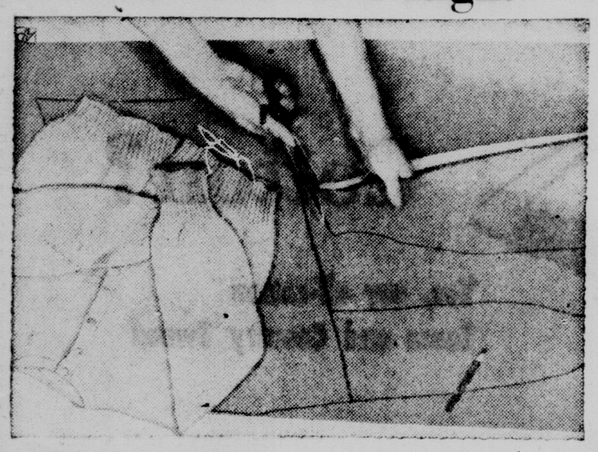
It Takes Care and Know-How To Wash a Sweater Right



BLOCKING A SWEATER . . .First trace outline on stiff cardboard, then cut out, snipping off sleeves of frame so that it is in three pieces, for easy handling.

AFTER WASHING . . . Carefully insert cardboard frame in the still damp sweater, body section first, then sleeves. Smooth with hands so that sweater exactly f its frame.

AP Newsfeatures

How often have you ruined an expensive sweater by trying to wash it at home? This tragedy is repeated many times a day in thousands of homes and it's quite unnecessary.

It's easy to do a professional job of washing and blocking your finest sweaters if you take a little time and care. Here's how:

Before you wash the sweater, lay it flat on a large piece of stiff cardboard and carefully trace its outline. Then cut out the pattern, snipping off the sleeves so that you have three parts. This will be your blocking frame.

Now fill the wash basin with luke-warm water and prepare a rich suds with mild soap flakes or granules, or a detergent that is guaranteed safe for woolens. Dunk the sweater and squeeze the suds gently through it for about a minute. Do not rub and do not let the sweater soak before washing.

After two rinsings in luke-warm water, roll the sweater in a Turkish towel to absorb excess moisture. While it is still wet, lay it on a flat surface and slide in the cardboard frame, first adjusting the body section, then the sleeves. Pat the sweater gently into shape, so that it fits the frame exactly.

Let it dry on a flat surface, away from excessive heat or sunlight. When dry, use a steam iron to bring up the nap. Hold the iron two inches away from the sweater, so the steam penetrates the yarn. Then while it is warm and moist from the steam, use the hands to smooth it into shape. Seams can be pressed smooth on the inside with a light pressure of the steam iron.

If the sweater has puffed sleeves insert a soft pressing mitt and press lightly with the steam iron to achieve the rounded shape the sleeves had when new.

If you follow these directions carefully, your sweater will look as fresh and smooth as the day you bought it.

FINAL TOUCH . . . When sweater is dry, use steam iron to smooth and bring up nap, holding iron two inches away from sweater until steam penetrates yarn, then smoothing with the hands. Press seams on inside.

Grandfather Ate Englishman So He's of Mixed Blood

LONDON (AP)—Notes by another innocent abroad:

London is still laughing at this coronation tidbit:

Guests at a garden party were puzzled by a short dark man whose hair hung halfway down his back and was curled at the ends. None could figure what part of the British Empire he was from.

Finally, the little man courteously explained he was a Dyak chieftain from Borneo.

"Are you pure descent?" one guest asked. The small man shook his curls in mock sadness and replied:

"No, I regret to say. Unfortunately, one of my grandfathers ate an Englishman, and therefore I am of mixed blood."

Another interesting coronation visitor was Chief Sobhuza II of Swaziland. The bearded 54-year-old chief apparently had little faith in England's ale.

He brought along two casks of his own brand of beer—and ingredients to brew in the basement of his hotel.

A visitor here is often startled by the insularity of the English, considering the length and breadth of the empire they founded. The sons of this tight island may range far and wide, but England remains the center of the universe to them.

At heart the Englishman has only a feeling of pity for other peoples who must dwell elsewhere. He is sure that everything really worthwhile is here.

This feeling is best expressed in an old nursery rhyme:

"Germans live in Germany,
"Italians live in Rome,
"Turkeys live in Turkey,
"But the British live at home."

A classic story along the same line tells how one London newspaper summarized British sentiment when a terrible storm some 50 years ago snapped the undersea cable linking England and Europe.

"Terrific storm! Continent isolated!" said the headline.

But this intense love of home, reflected in the refusal of Britons to emigrate to less settled parts of their empire, is building a mighty problem. The population is steadily growing in a small land already crowded, one that cannot raise enough food to feed the people here now.

The greatest crop raised in Britain is courage, but the task of British statesmen for the rest of the 20th Century will be to find something besides that for the people to feed on.

The average Englishman likes the average American, when he gets to know him. But he has an unshakable conviction that any American government is just a schoolboy when it comes to world politics, and that such matters are far too deep for any mind born outside Britain.

The English man in the street also enjoys an absolute and profound ignorance of American geography. If he has a friend in Los Angeles, and you come from Milwaukee, he can't quite understand why you don't know his friend, too. He has a vague fear you are pulling his leg.

An unexpected burst of sunny weather has stirred a new interest in love, a subject which most British feel can best be safely left to poetry. A debate is going on in the press over which men make the best lovers.

The Irish have been getting quite a few votes, but here is the way two girls from Coventry summed it up in a letter to a newspaper:

"Greatest lovers, the Irish? We think they are rough brutes.

"The few Americans we have sampled were terrific. They were generous, very attentive and considerate.

"Englishmen are nicely mannered, rather mean with their money, and much too fond of beer."

Well, you can't argue with ladies, and in this oase who wants to?

The keeping of pets is almost universal among men in various parts of the world.

Small Group Of Yanks Mark D-Day Plus 9

OMAHA BEACH, France (AP)—A Little knot of American officers and soldiers gathered in a stretch or Normandy beach Saturday to commemorate the ninth anniversary of the greatest amphibious landing in history.

The men were from the U. S. First Division, now stationed in Germany, which swarmed ashore by the thousands on June 6, 1944 to begin the liberation of Europe.

Seven officers and 15 enlisted men, led by Lt. Col. John C. W. Finke, commanding officer of the Second Battalion, 16th Infantry Regiment, paid homage to the dead of the First Division, known then as now as "the big red one."

This particular stretch of the Normandy beachhead was described by the code name of "Easy Red." The bunkers from which German guns spewed death nine years ago now are covered with sand and cobwebs. A herd of cows grazed nearby.

Edmond Ovion, mayor of nearby Colleville-Sur-Mer, who witnessed the invasion, addressed the First Division's representatives. "We have adopted your men who sleep here," he said. "They have become our children."

Following the white-haired mayor's speech, Col. Finke laid a wreath at the base of the American war monument which overlooks the beach.

"We must be prepared," he said, "to safeguard the freedom for which we have fought. Our responsibility if tremendous towards those soldiers who are not with us now."

In another ceremony, Master Sergeant Samual Grogan of the 26th Infantry Regiment laid a wreath on the grave of Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., assistant commanding general of the division who died near Cherbourg.

Would Change Name Of Infamous Dachau

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A movement to change the name of Dachau, site of an infamous Nazi concentration camp, was reported underway today.

The Munich Merkur said Dachau officials were once more considering a change and added: "It is unbearable that peaceful citizens of a small town should have to atone forever for the sins of other people."

Dachau has a population of 20,000. The adjacent camp, where 70,000 prisoners were exterminated during the war, shelters 2,000 East German refugees.

11 Years Late, Cafe Owner Gets His 65c

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — Gus Kaknis, owner ofa Winchester restaurant, had almost forgotten the man who came to dinner—at government expense.

The date was Sept. 7, 1941, when a serviceman identified as Joseph William Showalter had a 65-cent dinner at Kaknis' restaurant. Showalter paid for his meal on Selective Service Meal Ticket 363329.

At long last, Kaknis has been paid. The other day he got the government's check — more than 11 years and eight months later—for 65 cents.

'Jake' Hirsh' Who Grew Up Here, Is Aide to Governor of Arizona

Back in his younger years it was "Jake" Hirsh to his friends in Sedalia for Jacob Hirsh, son of Mrs. Rose Hirsh and the late Harry Hirsh, but he is "Jack" now, to the governors of Arizona. He is, and has been serving the governors of Arizona for the past eight years, as the governor's aide.

Jake was born in Sedalia and received his education here. He worked for his father up until 1928 when the family moved to Arizona for Mr. Hirsh's health. Mr. Hirsh returned to Sedalia for a short time, but then went back to Arizona, but Jake remained there.

In Sedalia the Hirsh family resided at 510 West Sixth and their last residence was 1004 West Third. Mr. Hirsh for many years was associated with the late Henry and Lawrence Laupheimer in the Hide and Wool business, known as Laupheimer and Hirsh. He also had other interests here before moving out west.

Jack went to work for a brother-in-law in Phoenix, later went into restaurant business for 13 years. He sold out, took a vacation, went to work for the Arizona State Highway Patrol in 1943 and two years later was named governor's aide. He has since served under three governors, Governor Osborn, Governor Garvey and now Governor Pyle.

The following is a story which appeared in "The Messenger", an Arizona newspaper published in Phoenix:

Busy, bouncing and gregarious, Jack Hirsh likes his job, likes his boss, and probably doesn't have an enemy in Arizona.

Hirsh, aide to Governor Howard Pyle, is many things to many people both in the capitol building and throughout the state.

As governor's aide, he learned the job in this state from the beginning, because he is the first aide in Arizona history. A member of the State Highway Patrol since 1943, he has been aide to former governors Osborn and Garvey, and has served Gov. Pyle since his election.

It is typical of the vigorous, greying aide that he liked both former governors, and is devoted to Pyle.

"He (Pyle) is a wonderful fellow to work for; he couldn't be better to me," Hirsh says.

Born in Sedalia, Missouri, in October, 1901, Hirsh attended public schools and business college in the "show-me" state, and moved to Arizona in 1928. In Missouri he had been in the hide and leather business with his father. In Arizona, he worked first for a welding firm with a brother-in-law, and then went into business.

Jack and his wife, Lillian, operated "Jack and Lil's" restaurant on West Van Buren for 13 years and in addition to working for a steady 18 hours a day, he seems to have met just about everybody in Phoenix. Jack is the kind of man people like, because he likes people.

"There hasn't been much change in the capitol building since I came here, but there has been lots of change in Phoenix. There were only 32,000 people here when I first came out to Arizona," he said.

After watching Phoenix grow for 13 years, Jack and his wife sold their business, and took a long over - due six months vacation in 1942. In 1943, he joined the Highway Patrol.

Before becoming Gov. Osborn's aide in 1945, he pulled a wide variety of assignments. During the war years, secret convoys, shipments of planes, and visiting dignitaries all got escorted by Hirsh. When Warner Brothers and Walt Disney Studios groups came to Arizona to shoot films, Hirsh was assigned to assist them. One young buddy who remembers and still writes Jack is Bobby Driscoll, who was boosted to stardom in one of the Disney films.

A hunting and fishing enthusiast, Jack likes to pursue the ducks and geese in season, and fishing in Lake Meade. He used to like to attend pistol competitions, but time hasn't permitted in recent years.

"I've never had any trouble with anyone since I've been on the Patrol, and have never had any trouble since I became governors aide," he recalled recently. He adds with satisfaction that he has never had to draw his gun in line of duty.

"I'm not a bodyguard," Jack explained, though he wears a small bone - handled revolver. "Governor Pyle," he continued, "doesn't need a bodyguard."

When he isn't accompanying the governor on trips, making arrangements for reservations, or performing other duties for the chief executive, he serves as an Arizona publicity director. Hundreds of letters pour in from school children asking for information about Arizona, pictures, and autographs, and many adults write the governor for information about the state. Hirsh handles that vast correspondence, and reads many of the letters with enjoyment to whatever friends are around at the time. Time prevents his writing personal replies, but he does always include something special for each request: a pamphlet, a copy of the state seal, or whatever is appropriate.

His job, set up by the Highway Patrol Merit system Board, provides him with a succession of meetings with great, famous, and the unusual. He escorted Lady Astor around the Valley, and commented that the famed caustic wit was very agreeable. "We had a fine time," he said.

Jack has escorted President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and former President Truman. He gives the same careful attention to children who come to the capitol to see the statehouse in operation, or display their pets, as he gives the VIPs.

"What would you want to do if you ever relinquished this job as aide?" we asked.

OBITUARIES

L. A. Spencer

L. A. Spencer, 61, well known Sedalia business man was found dead in his apartment at the Terry Hotel shortly before 8:45 a. m. Saturday, by James F. Dickman, 1815 East Seventh. Dickman, who has been operating the Hamm Sales Co., 111 East Main, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, went to the Spencer apartment and found Mr. Spencer in the hallway.

Dr. John Rodeman, acting coroner, was notified and went to the apartment. Dr. Rodeman, after examining Mr. Spencer, said that he had apparently died of a heart ailment several hours before he was found. Dr. Rodeman said an inquest would not be necessary.

Mrs. Spencer was at their cottage on the lake and was notified of her husband's death by Mrs. James F. Dickman and Mrs. Robert Reuter who drove there from Sedalia.

Mr. Spencer and Mrs. Spencer have been well known in Sedalia, having come here in 1920 from Kansas City to enter business and have been in business continously since that time. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer had planned to dispose of the Hamm Sales Co., July 1, to retire and spend their time traveling about the country and staying at their cottage on the Lake of the Ozarks, south of Stover.

When they came to Sedalia they purchased the tobacco business of the late Clemens C. Honkomp, 119 East Third. Later they purchased the building on the northwest corner of Third and Lamine and moved there. After a few years in this location they moved to 227 South Ohio and were here until they sold out, and the Uptown Theatre was built at this location.

After selling their last tobacco store, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer took over the distributorship in this area for the Theo. Hamm Brewing Co., of St. Paul, Minn., and have operated this business for the past 16 years.

Mr. Spencer was born at Glasgow, Howard County, May 19, 1892. As a young man he moved to Kansas City where he was employed by the American Tobacco Co., as a salesman. In 1917 during World War I, he enlisted in the United States Navy and served with the medical corps at Philadelphia, Penn. After the war he returned to Kansas City, resumed his duties with the tobacco company, and remained there until coming here in 1920.

On Dec. 11, 1917, he was married to Miss Grace McCoy of Kansas City.

Surviving him are his widow; one brother, E. B. Spencer of Kansas City, and several nephews.

Upon learning of the death of Mr. Spencer, Mrs. Spencer's sister, Mrs. D. A. Beatty, her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hamilton, Richmond and Mrs. Dorothy Yonke, Kansas City, immediately came to Sedalia to be with Mrs. Spencer.

Mr. Spencer was a member of the Masonic lodges in Kansas City, Ararat Temple of Shrine in Kansas City, of the Sedalia Lodge No. 125, B.P.O. Elks, Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, and the Sedalia Moose Club.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel, where it will remain until Monday morning. The body will then be taken to Kansas City to the Stone-McClune Funeral Home, where funeral services will be conducted at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The pastor of the Westport Presbyterian Church will officiated. Following the services, the body will be cremated and the ashes buried at the Mt. Moriah Cemetery in Kansas City.

Robert L. Bohon

Robert L. Bohon, life long resident of Pettis County, died at his home on route 5 at 12:10 a. m. Saturday.

He was born Oct. 6, 1868, the son of James M. and Polly Ann Gibbs Bohon; who were among the earliest settlers of this community. On March 5, 1890 he married Serilda G. Roberts.

Surviving are: his wife; one sister, Mrs. James M. Burch, St. Louis; and a number of nieces and nephews. Three sisters and three brothers preceeded him in death.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at McLaughlin's Chapel, conducted by the Rev. Frank Hood. Mrs. Glenn Miller is in charge of the music.

Pallbearers will be George Cook, Emery Meyers, Herbert Young, E. L. Bohon Jr., Don Clifford and Maurice Clifford.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at McLaughlin's Funeral Chapel.

Carl L. Ragar Services

Funeral services for Carl L. Ragar, 50, well known real estate agent and auctioneer of Green Ridge, who died at his home Friday morning, will be held at the Presbyterian Church in Green Ridge at 2 p. m. Monday.

The Rev. Ralph E. Hurd, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, and the Rev. J. G. W. Kirschner, pastor of the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church, will officiate.

Mrs. Lawrence Beach will be in charge of the music.

Pallbearers will be Vic Ward, Lawrence Beech, Clarence Purchase, Allen Hendricks, W. F. Hallenbeck and Walter Hoehn's.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body will be taken from the Ewing Funeral Home to the family home in Green Ridge at 10 a. m. Sunday where it will remain until the hour of the service.

Mr. Ragar was a member of the Green Ridge Lodge, 425, A. F. and A. M., Green Ridge Eastern Star, and the Order of Scottish Rite.

He is survived by: his wife, Mrs. Ercil DeJarnette Ragar; his mother, Mrs. Alice Ragar, Green Ridge; and one brother, Allen Ragar, Green Ridge.

He was preceded in death by his parents, a son, Edward, and a daughter, Mrs. Mike McKenzie.

Funeral services are to be held at the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member, at 3 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. J. G. W. Kirschner, pastor, will officiate.

Music will be by Mrs. Lawrence Beach.

Pallbearers will be Emmett Ruffin, Roy Chaney, Clifford Brownfield, Robert Carlson, Asa Gordon and William Arvieux.

Burial is to be in the Green Ridge Cemetery.

The body was taken to the Parker-Moore Funeral Home and Saturday evening returned to the family home in Green Ridge to remain there until time for the services.

Mrs. Bell Regan McVey

Mrs. Belle Regan McVey, wife of George Walter McVey, former Sedalian, and a sister of Mrs. Lawrence Barnett, 423 South Park, died early Saturday morning at her home in Parsons, Kan. Although she had been ill about a year, her death was unexpected.

Mrs. McVey was born in Covington, Ky., and came in 1904 to Sedalia, where she made her home with her aunt, Mrs. R. A. Stanley, until May 1906, when she was married to Mr. McVey.

Surviving besides her husband are: three children, George McVey, Wichita, Kan., Robert McVey, Winston Salem, N. C., and Mrs. Dorothy Gaffey, wife of Troy Gaffey of Caracas, Venezuela; six grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Barnett, Sedalia, and Mrs. Clifford Smith, New York; and two brothers, J. A. Regan, Covington, Ky., and Albert Regan, Newark, Ohio.

Mrs. McVey was active in the Baptist Church at Parsons and in civic affairs. She was an officer in the Eastern Star and was prominent in the Kansas Baptist missionary work.

The McVey family has lived in Parsons for a number of years.

Funeral services will be held in Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett left Saturday for Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stanley and grandson, Robert, will leave for there today.

John W. Witzke

John W. Witzke, 71, died at 11:45 a.m. Friday at his home in Latham. He had been ill for some time and had been a patient for five days at the Charles E. Still, Hospital, Jefferson City, until three weeks ago.

He was born near Latham June 17, 1881, son of the late Henry and Helen Witzke. On March 8, 1905, he married Miss Martha Jane Russell. He spent his entire life near Latham and lived on a farm until two years ago when he moved to Latham.

He is survived by: his wife; two children, Mrs. M. T. Henry, Tipton, and Merida Witke, Latham; four grandchildren; one brother, Sam, of Sedalia; and one sister, Mrs. M. P. Dillon, Cole Camp.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Latham Christian Church with the Rev. J. L. Freeman, Versailles, officiating.

Pallbearers will be Ed Hays, Charlie Pat McBroom, Lenley Fulks, James McDonald, Warren Pettigrew and William Vogel.

Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

The body was taken Saturday afternoon from Richards Funeral Home to the family home, where it will remain until the hour of services.

Ice Cream Social Is Planned, Too

Buena Vista to Have Open House

The lawn at Beuna Vista is spacious and beautiful, but there just aren't enough lawn chairs for all the people who live there to sit out and enjoy the great outdoors. There are other little things needed that the $50 old age pensioners receive and the allowance from the county court just won't reach far enough to buy, after food, clothing, medical supplies and other things are paid for.

The Beuna Vista board has never asked for help before, but they think that the people of Sedalia would like to help but the things to make it more homey and comfortable.

Every year they have open house but not enough people come out. They would like for everybody in Sedalia and community to come out and see the home. So ice cream social in conjunction with the open house.

The open house and social will be held from 3 to 8 p.m. on Sunday, June 14.

The men and women at the home have a nice time together and they think it is a real beauty spot. It is paricularly pretty now with the new white fence recently put up by the county court.

They love to have company and they have plenty of it, too, but they feel if people would just once come out and see them they would come again and they just never have too much company.

May has been a nice month, filled with activity.

One of the nicest things that happened in May was on the very first day when the fifth grade Girl Scouts of Mark Twain School, accompanied by Mrs. Phil McLaughlin and Mrs. Harry Lambirth, went out to Beuna Vista and took lovely little May baskets. The May baskets were filled with spring flowers, cookies and candy and the little girls didn't miss a person. They visited even those who were bedfast or confined to their rooms.

The girls gave a program, too, and sang Girl Scout songs.

On May 5, during Music Week, Mrs. T. E. Gasperson and Mrs. Homer Hall went out and entertained with a program. They sang songs, a wide variety of songs, sacred, popular and semi-classical.

Mother's Day was a big day at the home. Mrs. F. O. Neidholdt made homemade candy for each person there, not only just the women, but the men, too, and packaged it so each could have their own candy. There was more candy, too, because a local store sent boxes of chocolates.

The Mother's Day service was conducted by the Rev. Bird Campbell and his group and they brought with them white carnations—a white carnation for everybody at the home.

On May 19, TEL class of the First Baptist Church took out a group of G. A. girls who put on a program of music and readings and served ice cream and homemade cookies.

On May 17, the people at Beuna Vista entertained the board members their wives and guests, the county court, Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Snavely, and representatives from the welfare office at the annual fried chicken dinner. Most everything served has been produced right there on the Beuna Vista farm, chickens and all.

Then some of the people at the home had something extra special, that is, all who were able to go. Mrs. Mary Hamm, a nurse, took a group out to Liberty Park for a picnic. They really liked that. They cooked their supper right out there at the park ovens.

Memorial Day they had a picnic supper on the lawn of the Beuna Vista Home and everybody had such a good time that they plan to have lots more such suppers this summer.

Mrs. M. E. Green, superintendent, knows that if people just knew how much their visiting the home means to the old folks that there would be more and more from Sedalia and community go out to the home—that is the reason she hopes everybody will make it a point to attend the open house and maybe stop awhile to be served at the ice cream social. A visit to Beuna Vista is worth anybody's time.

Mrs. Fagan's Roses Receive Top Awards

bowl, also by Mrs. H. C. Sammons.

The third, "Springtime", with pink roses in a shallow crystal bowl—with the roses reflecting in the water—was by Mrs. C. L. Carter.

Honorable mention went to Mrs. P. L. Strole for her madonna.

The ten best roses of the show were on a lace covered table, honor guard for the queen of the rose, in this year of the coronation. The honor guard was composed of McGredy's Ivory, Charlotte Armstrong, Taffeta, and Rochester, all grown by Ed Brummet, Dainty Bess by Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, the tea rose, Peace, by Mrs. W. H. Eichholz, Crimson Glory, Mrs. Curtis Christy, Warrensburg.

In keeping with the theme of the Rose Show, "Show Me" Roses in Missouri, the Highway department donated new Missouri maps to be given to guests at the show.

All afternoon and evening a large crowd viewed the roses and the register showed visitors from Tulsa, Okla., Topeka, Kan., Houston, Tex., Sacremento, Calif., Keokuk, Ia., and from all of the communities around Sedalia.

The awards were announced by the president of the Sedalia Rose Society, Victor Gill.

Mrs. Herbert Seifert was chairman of the show with Mrs. H. C. Sammons as co-chairman. Committee chairmen were: Mrs. Sammons, schedule; Mrs. Ed Brummet, entries; Oscar DeWolf, staging; Gilbert Jones, advertising; Mrs. P. L. Strole, publicity and Mrs. W. F. Koenig hospitality and information.

There were 306 entries, 284 award winners, 62 blue ribbons 63 red ribbons, 55 yellow ribbons, four white or honorable mention and 122 non-winning entries.

Lawrence Ward Heads Sedalia Underwriters

Lawrence Ward was elected president of the Sedalia Underwriters Association at a meeting held at noon Saturday at Bothwell Hotel. Other officers elected are: Everett Lansdowne, vice-president; Mrs. Lily Thomas, secretary-treasurer.

The association voted not to have a meeting during the summer months and the next meeting will be held in September.

Regains Consciousness

Ronald Simmons, 4½ year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simmons, Hughesville who was struck on the head when a tractor wheel fell on him. Monday, regained consciousness Thursday. His condition remains critical but he is showing signs of improvement.

England's automobile manufacturing center is located at Coventry, 90 miles from London, where 13 makes are produced.

GM Motorama Opens In KC; A 'Great Show'

General Motors' Motorama of 1953 opened Saturday in the Exhibition Hall of Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium and for the next eight days, including today, the public will see the latest models of the five cars produced by the firm. There too, will be many experimental models and some automotive innovations which will likely not be put on standard passenger cars for several years.

The giant show, which represents an expenditure of more than 100 millions of dollars in engineering, design, equipment and display, is making its last of a series of seven showings in cities across America. Free to the public, the Kansas City show is the only one where facilities have allowed the display of everything planned for the Motorama.

A member of The Democrat's news staff attended a preview showing of the event Friday, along with other representatives of the press, radio and television, and business and civic leaders.

So varied in scope, the show has something to offer almost everyone. There are the regular models of the stock cars of Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac. Then there are the special models — one of a kind being all that have been made — that show the cars of the future.

These include the Chevrolet Corvette, a low - slung sports model that will go into limited production later this month and will be the only one of the experimental models to be offered the public.

Also there are the Pontiac Parisienne, which has a foreign appearance. The Oldsmobile Starfire, Buick Wildcat and Cadillac Le Mans are all long, wide, roomy, low built sports models that are "out of this world" with their futuristic designs.

In entering the Exhibition Hall, the crowd is greeted by the sports models of the five makes. They are on a large stage, each car on a revolving disc, with many spotlights playing upon them.

At the other end of the hall is another stage, on which the variety show is presented. An orchestra and a chorus furnish the musical background as the history of transportation is portrayed in dances and acrobatics.

Then, at the end of the show, one new model of each of the five cars is displayed by a beautiful New York fashion model. The models wear dresses exclusively designed by some of America's foremost designers especially for this show. The dresses match the cars in color.

Around the two stages, on the main floor, are many of the new cars, and the five featured experimental models.

On the balcony surrounding the hall are many smaller displays featuring research, new engineering features, Fisher body styling, Frigidaire and many displays of the companies who furnish parts for the GM cars.

There, too, for the aviation minded visitors, are real jet engines including one cut-away model that shows the mechanism of the jets.

Since it breathes atmospheric air, the electric eel must have access to the surface of the water two or three times a minute. Eels have been drowned when they accidentally were submerged for only ten minutes. They can, however, withstand periods of 72 hours out of water, as long as their mouths are kept moist.

Medieval cathedrals, as centers of public interest, generally were surrounded by shops, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

K. C. Detectives Take Escaped 'Con' Easily

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Capturing an escaped Iowa convict wasn't much trouble for two Kansas City detectives.

Just a few minutes after scanning wanted circulars picturing Warren Bianco, 32, who walked away from the Iowa prison farm May 18, the officers entered their car at police headquarters.

Before driving from the parking lot, Detective Mark Ruckel paused to let a pedestrian pass on the sidewalk.

"Will you look at that!" exclaimed Ruckel to Sgt. William Burch.

The pedestrian looked like Bianco.

The officers stopped him and asked for identification. He had none.

"That's all," he said and admitted he was the wanted man. Bianco, serving a life term for murder, said he arrived here May 21.

"If I'd known that was police headquarters I wouldn't have been within six miles of it," he said.

St. Louis Attorney M. U. Commencement Speaker This Afternoon

COLUMBIA (AP) — George C. Willson, St. Louis attorney, will be principal speaker at the 111th annual commencement exercises at the University of Missouri Sunday afternoon.

At services today, some 250 university military graduates will be commissioned as reserve officers in the Army, Navy and Air Force.

President Frederick A. Middlebush will confer the degrees Sunday. He also will announce winners of various prizes and honors.

Views Conflict On Guardsmen Being Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army and Selective Service told apparently conflicting views of the draft liability of some members of the National Guard.

An Army manpower officer said today that a man who enlists in the National Guard after he has reached 17 years of age and before he becomes 18½ is exempted from the draft if he serves actively in a recognized guard unit for eight consecutive years.

A Selective Service spokesman, however, said that most National Guardsmen, except those with prior federal service, will be subject to induction until their 35th birthday.

Both viewpoints are based upon the same law, the Universal Military Training and Service Act of 1951.

The Army interpretation cites a section which permits the National Guard of any state, upon the governor's proclamation that it is not possible to maintain the guard strength otherwise, to enlist guardsmen before they are 18½ years old. This section of the law states that such guardsmen will be deferred from induction.

Selective Service bases its statement on another section which says no person may be inducted after he has attained age 26 "except that persons deferred remain liable for induction until age 35."

A Selective Service spokesman said the law was perfectly clear on this point and that he knew of no modifying directive.

Apparently the divergence of opinion has not been tested. The 1951 act provided that men who were members of Organized Reserve or guard units on Feb. 1, 1951, were deferred from draft duty so long as they continued to be active and satisfactory members for eight consecutive years. The test may be delayed until 1951—eight years after the act went into effect, unless the law is changed.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Hannah recently proposed a tightening of the act to end the temporary deferment of men who voluntarily joined the National Guard before they became 18½.

This proposal was referred to the military services for comment and recommendations. So far no decision has been reached by the Defense Department as to whether Congress will be asked to make this change.

In all races of mankind, more girls than boys are born.

ROYAL SERVICE— Mrs. Louise Cochran excitedly telephones friends in Houston, Tex., to tell them that her cablegram to Queen Elizabeth II paid off. Mrs. Cochran decided belatedly to go to the Coronation. Her friends gave her the horselaugh. "You'll never find a room," they said. Mrs. Cochran cabled Queen Elizabeth asking her to get her accommodations. A palace secretary cabled that a room awaits her at a London hotel.

Presbyterians Relax Re-Marriage Rules

MONTREAT, N. C. (AP) — Proposed changes in church rules on divorce and re-marriage were approved today by a committee of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. (Southern).

The changes would give ministers more discretion in deciding whether divorced persons can be re-married by the church.

The committee turned down objections that the changes would "water down the standards of the church" before voting to recommend the new rules to the General Assembly, in session here.

If the General Assembly approves, the new rules would be submitted to the church's 84 presbyteries for a vote.

One valet took care of 500 changes of dress in the wardrobe of King George V, of England.

RADIO STATION KDRO Reviews the NEWS...

Reported By BOB YOUNGER, News Staff KDRO.

The long battle is just about over, or maybe it is just beginning, at any rate Sunday will be an important milestone in the journey of Dick and Freda Battles down life's highway. Howard Elliott of St. Louis will lay the corner stone of the new West Side Variety Store. South and West Sedalia will benefit from the faith Dick Battles has in the West Sixteenth Street area. Dick who believes, that the secret to keeping Sedalia dollars in Sedalia, is to have the things Sedalians want, is doing everything he can to give the people of Southwest Sedalia just that. The new store is three times the size of the old. In fact the new store was built around the old, and Dick continued to operate all during the construction of his new building. Now that the rear portion of the new store is nearly completed he has moved into it and now they are tearing down the old store and taking it out the front door of the new. Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. the dedication ceremonies will get under way and it should be a gala affair. The highlight of the opening other than the laying of the corner stone, will be a wedding. The lucky couple who will be married will be getting a good start on their life of wedded bliss, they don't have to worry about the liscense, the preacher, the photographer, or anything. That has all been arranged as has a wedding shower, even groceries for the new bride to demonstrate her cooking prowess. The ladies will be interested in the style show that will be going on Sunday afternoon. Dick is stocking ladies ready to wear and will even carry formals. The fashion show will be directed as far as the models are concerned by Miss Onis Robinson, who is head of the modeling department of the Fitts Dry Goods Company. Modeling the summer and fall dress up, sports and play clothes will be Mrs. Jim Hicks, Mrs. Jack Coffelt, Nancy Pace, Emily Dick, Mrs. Dale Whitfield and Mrs. Wayne Alexander. The decorating scheme of the ladies ready to wear section is being done by Mrs. H. C. Dennis, art instructor at Smith-Cotton High. The walls are being decorated with huge hand painted magnolias which might be an indication there is just a bit of rebel blood in Dick's veins. Dick is just a bit of a rebel when it comes to adopting a defeatist attitude about Sedalia, particularly southwest, Sedalia. He believes in his home town, he believes it is growing and he wants to get in on the growth, and tomorrow will show an amazing growth in the store. Your hosts tomorrow when you visit the store will be A. L. Bohling of Central Business College, Ernest Baker, former secretary of the State Fair, Ray Greer of Smith-Cotton, Herb Brandes from KDRO, Ora Edwards from Missouri Pacific, J. H. Green, Pettis County Clerk, Raus Sprinkles, Sievers Construction Co., Bryan Howe, Circuit Clerk, Jimmie Keck of the Sedalia Democrat, Lester Long of Fitts Dry Goods Company, Basil Plumler of Stephens Hardware, Harry Rogers of M.K.&T., John Sagar of Butler Brothers, and Emil Sievers of Sievers Construction Company. Everyone will be doing all that is possible to make your visit to the West Side Variety a pleasant and enjoyable one. Dick and Freda Battles have gone a long way to making a little shopping center out on West Sixteenth and are justifiably proud of their accomplishment and are extending the cordial invitation to everyone to visit them this afternoon. Again here is proof that a little confidence, a lot of faith, and even more hard work goes a long way."

Labor Today An Uncertain Wary Giant

DETROIT, June 6 (AP)—Organized labor in America today is a wary and uncertain giant.

Taken as a whole, the unions were never stronger. They have men and money in the millions. Their record, especially since 1933, shows an impressive list of legislative and economic gains, won in Washington and across the bargaining table. They claim to have created, as a base for future action, "a more enlightened public opinion." The quote is from John L. Lewis. They are cheered by recent settlements in the all-important auto industry.

But the unions also are on new and less familiar ground. The tide of events has made radical changes for them. As George Meany, new president of the AFL phrased it: "The workers face a most trying situation . . . these are pretty tense days."

Their problems are emerging mainly in these areas:

1. Political — Organized labor made its greatest gains in the 20 years of Democratic administrations. What lies ahead now, in terms of growth, power and position under the Republicans?

2. Legislative — The November elections destroyed labor's hope for immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. The law may be amended now, but in which direction? How will it be interpreted by the various agencies in this administration? Will the federal government step even more positively into the field of industrial relations? Or will it restore the greater authority to the individual states, some of which have labor laws more restrictive than the Taft-Hartley Act?

3. Economic — Employment and production are very high. Earnings are up. "Soft spots" have appeared in only a few areas of industry. Yet there has been recession and depression talk, and superimposed over the whole picture is the question: What happens if deep cuts are made in spending for defense?

Nothing on the horizon, not even the actions in Washington, so obsesses organized labor as the specter of another depression. Labor executives assert that, in 1929, depression came because consumer buying power could not keep pace with production.

It can happen here again, they say.

Thus, in April, Walter Reuther, new president of the CIO, wrote President Eisenhower a letter which said in part:

"For months past, economists have been predicting a return of largescale unemployment . . . This gap between production and consumption is the most compelling challenge our free economy faces. It is the most basic unsolved problem your administration and the Congress must meet.

"Depression is wholly unnecessary. It can be avoided, but not by leaving the outcome to chance."

Reuther urged a conference to draft plans for maintaining full employment and production. He also asked the President to implement the Employment Act of 1946.

A week later, Eisenhower replied in part:

"I intend to see that every useful measure, private and public, is taken to create conditions that foster economic stability and a rising standard of living for our people."

The Employment Act, the President continued, "reflects a determination on the part of the American people to see to it that the stupidity of mass unemployment never again visits this land. I firmly subscribe to the principles of that law."

Not long before this exchange of letters, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey addressed the annual Associated Press luncheon. Apparently aware of the same speculation, his first words were, "There is no reason to fear peace. We are not headed for a depression."

The burst of applause was more eloquent than any words.

In fact, the economic dials are spinning at record speeds. The White House says the total output of goods and services for the first three months of this year was at the rate of 363 billion dollars a year. That was an increase of three billion over the previous three months.

The highs are reflected in figures on employment. For example, General Motors hit an all-time peak during the first quarter of 1953, exceeding the high set in the year of 1943.

The bright picture was somewhat streaked by conditions in the coal and textile industries and, to a lesser degree, in steel. These fields seemed to be the exceptions.

What appears to have launched the fear of recession was the supposed effect of a reduction in government spending for military materials. The figures, naturally, are classified so that the proportion of civilian and defense production in, say, Ford or Chrysler, could not be divulged. If they were publishable, the figures would have an important effect on public worrying.

Actually, in the automobile industry, executives told this reporter they would welcome a respite from government contracts. They say they can use the men, machines and factory space for production goals they would like to achieve this year.

Businessmen made two points in discounting depression talk:

1. As a result of the excess profits tax, vast sums were put into research. Out of that has come a multiplicity of new machines, new materials, new products, ready for the civilian market. But they won't appear until the work on government contracts is finished.

2. This generation of business leaders knows, by experience, what happens in a depression. The men who are now at the top of American corporations were mostly beginning in 1919 and 1920 when the first world war ended and the great dislocations took place. If similar problems come storming onto the scene again, they feel they have the know-how for meeting them.

Uranium for tomorrow's industrial atomic energy can come from present deposits of fertilizers and oil shales. The world's uranium supply now comes from high grade, comparatively small, pitch-blende veins and carnotite ores.

"WHAT'S A MILLION?"—This is a million—a million pennies. They're there becaues a pupil of Otto Burich, Woodruff, Wis., high school teacher, wanted to see a million of something. It gave Burich the idea of collecting a million pennies. So he started the Million Penny Parade, fund-collecting promotion. It snowballed and he received pennies from every U. S. state and from abroad, too. Photo shows pennies, being poured into a 20x26-foot "corral" at Arbor Vitae-Woodruff High School, for exhibition, after which they were donated to the building fund of the Lakeland Memorial Hospital in Woodruff. Left to right are: Clarence Woods, of Woodruff; Samuel McGinnis, of Milwaukee; Donna Behn ("Queen" of the Penny Parade), Burich and Mark Rusch.

SHE WEIGHS 6048 PENNIES—Judith Arlene Jennrich, 4, of Chicago, Ill., is the 10,000th youngster to open an account at a branch of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association and is told her weight in pennies. Morton Bodfish, chairman of the bank, shown with her, advertised that the 10,000th youngster to open an account would get either his weight in pennies or 10,000 pennies, whichever was more. Judith took the $100.

'Miracle Carburetor' Motor Myth

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — With thousands of Americans tuning up their cars and sharpening their pencils to calculate the cost of this year's auto vacation trip, the perennial motor myth is making the rounds again.

You'll hear it perhaps from your nextdoor neighbor, or milkman or even the family doctor. And it goes something like this: "They are suppressing a revolutionary carburetor that could double, or maybe triple, the miles your car could get from a gallon of gasoline. And just so they can keep making a buck."

No one is quite sure who "they" are. Oil companies, maybe. Or automotive manufacturers, or some mechanical genius who has been paid off to keep his invention under wraps.

The proof of the myth, supposedly, is that fleet of foreign autos that get 30 or 35 miles to the gallon.

But a check of the U. S. Patent Office in Washington shows no patent held on any revolutionary carburetor. It is more than unlikely an inventor would fail to patent such a gas-saver.

Even the U. S. Government, empowered to commandeer any mechanism in emergency, did not have any such revolutionary carburetor during World War II.

The man who repeats this "old husbands' tale," however, is not concerned with pending patents. He sees only the little foreign car that makes much fewer trips to the gas station.

Engineers at Shell Oil Co., who have been exploring the myth and the reasons behind it, point out that the average motorist does not stop to think of the difference between miles per gallon and ton-miles per gallon. After all, a motorcycle gets phenomenal mileage. But its two cylinders could hardly pull the average 3710-pound American car.

Judging by foreign car sales in the U. S., few Americans are willing to swap their 110-horsepowered, 17 - footer for a four - cylinder, 24-horsepower continental job.

Although such a European car gets 35 miles per gallon, even under ideal road conditions, it gets only 27.2 ton - miles. That's considerably less than a standard U. S. car gets in harried city driving.

Meanwhile, in America, there are hopeful signs that miles-per-gallon is on the rise. In the past 40 years, stepped-up compression ratios and improved quality of gasoline have increased mileage.

In addition, most oil companies are deep in research to make driving less expensive.

One company has been running experiments to investigate the theory that a car can switch from high to low octane gas and operate just as efficiently. Test autos equipped with two fuel tanks and two carburetors switch fuel supplies at various speeds. Object: economy through lower priced gasoline.

Another oil company is currently experimenting with a device that injects fuel without a carburetor, much as Diesel fuel is used.

Still another outfit runs annual mileage marathons — contests among all laboratory employes — to spur individual research. One of the contestants took first place in a 1924 Chevrolet that hit nearly 169 miles per gallon.

Such fantastic mileages, however, are possible only on a special course with special procedures like coasting and accelerating at very low speeds.

These tests don't try to duplicate average driving. Nevertheless, researchers say, they are pointing the way to future modifications in auto design for economy.

American oil companies have some 156,000 miles of pipelines to move crude oil and finished products. Movement by pipeline is the cheapest form of land transportation.

Madame Tussaud's Crowns the Queen In Wax

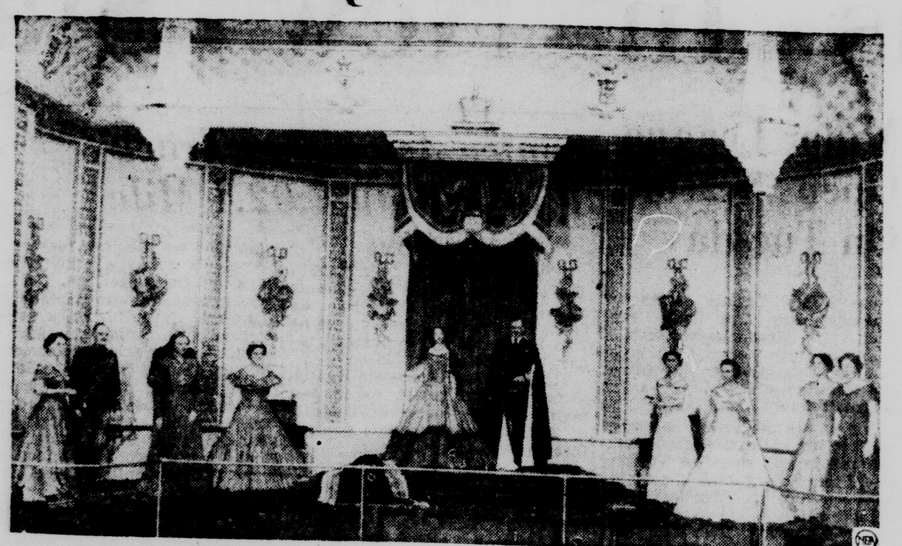
By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON — If you missed the Coronation, just go to Madame Tussaud's. The most famous collection of waxworks in the world now has a reproduction of the Throne Room at Buckingham Palace, showing Elizabeth II in her resplendent Royal Robes.

Few sightseers who come to London miss a visit to "Madame Tussaud's." It ranks second after the Tower of London in popular appeal. Last year more than a million people passed through the turnstiles, and more than double that number are expected this year.

In 1812, when George III was crowned, Madame Tussaud reproduced the Throne Room at Carlton House, then the King's residence. This was a great success. An excellent business woman, diminutive Marie Anne Tussaud even in those days was aware of the necessity of concentrating on people "in the news."

Last spring the present management of Madame Tussaud's decided to follow that example and commemorate the crowning of Elizabeth II. Nineteen members of the staff set to work to construct the background for the effigies of Royalty, as near as possible like the present Throne Room in Buckingham Palace.



PALACE THRONE ROOM IN WAX: People who never got to Westminster Abbey for the Coronation can still see what it's like in the Throne Room at Buckingham Palace. Here's the reproduction of it at Madame Tussaud's famed London waxworks, showing (left to right) the Duchess of Gloucester, Duke of Gloucester, King Haakon of Norway, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, Queen Mother Elizabeth, Queen Elizabeth II, the Duke of Edinburgh, Queen Ingrid of Denmark, Princess Margaret, the Duchess of Kent, and the Princess Royal.

To construct the Coronation tableau took nine tons of plaster, 100 feet of timber, and 600 feet of tubular scaffolding. Its cost, including the dresses and uniforms, is more than $30,000. Everything was ready for the weekend following Coronation.

The ornate decorations of the Throne Room were modeled from photographs. Even the reproduction of the crimson carpet with the Tudor rose pattern was made possible after the makers had been traced and the original loom card found in their possession.

To the existing models of members of the British Royal Family, models of the King and Queen of Denmark, King Haakon of Norway, were added. Queen Juliana was already there. The model was made three years ago when Bernard Tussaud, great-grandson of the founder, and Reginald Edds, a director of the establishment, were granted an audience at the Dutch Summer Palace.

Space makes it impossible to show more than 500 figures in all at Madame Tussaud's. So the choice of celebrities has to be deliberated with great care.

Each new figure replaces one which is sent to the melting-pot—usually people who have faded from public interest or sporting champions who have been superseded.

Good sculpture is the basis of a realistic wax figure. This is where Tussaud comes in.

"In recent years we have measured and photographed celebrities in palaces, Government offices, star's dressing rooms and locker rooms on sports grounds," he explained.

First Tussaud uses several pairs of calipers to obtain from 25 to 30 face measurements, while Edds shoots an average of 40 pictures from every possible angle. Body measurements are also taken while lengthy notes are made of color and texture of hair, color and size of eyes and detailed description of complexion.

Both men traveled 3000 miles last year to Scandinavia to do the Royal heads, and just recently went to SHAPE, outside Paris, to interview and measure General M. B. Ridgway, who was then Supreme Commander.

The Hall of Fame includes famous Americans, too — Lincoln, Washington, William Penn and Benjamin Franklin, besides many presidents of the U. S., including Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Mustang Explodes, Crashes Into a House

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — An Italian Mustang fighter plane exploded in the air today and plunged in flames into a Naples apartment house. A woman was killed and 11 persons were injured.

It took firemen and U. S. Air Force and naval personnel hours to rescue some of the victims from the debris of the four-family apartment. Nine of the injured required hospitalization.

The plane exploded just after it took off from Naples Airport. The Pilot, an Italian Air Force officer, bailed out. He suffered a broken leg in landing.

South Carolina's coastal plain is called the "low country" and its piedmont the "high country."

RECEIVES ADVANCED RATING — Charles James Rouchka, son of Joseph Rouchka Sr., 1600 East Broadway, who is serving aboard the USS Newport News, has just received an advanced rating. He is now a boilerman 1/c. For the past several months Seaman Rouchka has been cruising in the Mediterranean area and just recently spent several days shore leave on the French Riviera.

Federal Employees Suggest Ways to Save Taxpayers'

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)— Every day around 500 suggestions are made by government workers who think they know ways to save the taxpayers money.

Government officials have been so impressed with these ideas they paid out more than a million dollars last year to the thinkers who thought them up.

Most of the ideas in the government's incentive awards program, to use its official title, aren't spectacular. How to change printed forms . . . how to rearrange a filing system . . . that sort of thing.

But some of the suggestions are more unusual. Let's step into the office of Charles Parker of the Bureau of the Budget and have a look at a few examples.

Item No. 1: The Army wanted to increase its high frequency radio circuits. Army officials figured they needed 11 more at $219,510 each.

Clifford D. May Jr., of Washington, a veteran of World War II and the father of six, went to work on the problem. He found a way to make six circuits do the work of 12. The Army used May's method, which, it said, saved a startling $1,700,000. May got $1,780 for his idea.

Item No. 2: A Navy transport ship, the Sgt. Charles Mower, had its propellers knocked out of alignment.

A private shipbuilding company figured the ship would have to be taken apart completely—at a cost "in excess of a million dollars." William F. Willits, a government shipbuilding inspector in San Francisco had an idea. Why not take advantage of what we know about expanding and contracting metals, he said, and sort of shrink the ship into line?

The private company was so dubious about it all that it agreed to do the job only on two conditions: (A) Willits was to supervise it, and (B) the company would assume no responsibility for the results.

So Willits took over. The job was done. The Sgt. Charles Mower went back to sea, and has been going strong for a year and a half.

The cost of the repair job estimated "in excess of a million" came to $32,294. Willits was pushed ahead three grades in pay, a raise of $600 a year.

Item No. 3:

A girl in a Denver induction office was miffed because of an X. She wrote the government printing office here that she had to make an X on a medical chart to show whether the answer was Yes or No.

The trouble was, the blank for No was directly below the blank for Yes. Since there were eight or nine carbons to make, she had to check each carbon to make sure the paper hand't slipped, thereby changing the answer completely. Why not, she asked, forget about the X and simply make it yes or no?

Parker checked with the medical experts. Good idea, they said.

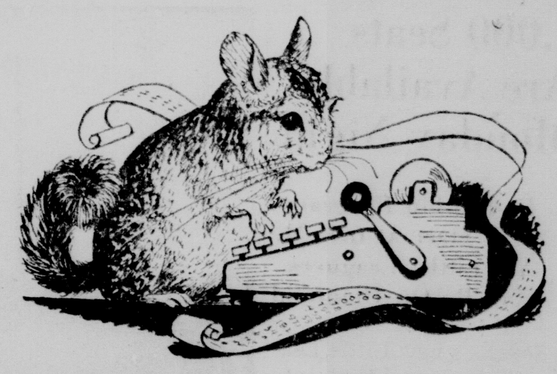
"I don't remember her name," Parker said, "but I think she helped a lot of stenographers in a lot of induction centers save a lot of time.

"I hope she got something for her idea."

In South America, giant snails lay eggs larger than those of a robin.

A few hours after their birth, baby zebras can run almost as fast as their parents.

First steamship in regular transatlantic service was the Great Western.



Is your income mostly outgo?

Is there a business that you can operate profitably in your spare time, in your own home, with a comparatively small initial investment?

Thousands of people are boosting their incomes, as chinchilla breeders, with the help of Allied Fur Industries, the world's largest live-fur sales organization. More people have turned to Allied because it's a business built on confidence and quality.

Little League Opens In New Stadium

1,000 Seats Are Available Monday Night

Dedication Program Will Start At 6 P. M. All Little Leaguers Will Be On Diamond

Sedalia's new Little League Stadium and Park is to be dedicated at ceremonies to be held at 6 p.m. Monday. The official opening of the Little League season for 1953 will be at 6:30 p.m. when the National League plays its first two games. The American League will open its season on Tuesday night.

The League which was first started in Sedalia in 1952 with only four major league teams and four minor league teams, created such interest that both were doubled to eight Major and eight Minor league squods. Thus it was necessary to find larger and better accommodations than were had at the Housel Park.

Housel Park First Home

Housel Park was the first home of the Little League, and it has been turned back as the recreational facilities for the people of Northeast Sedalia, who so generously gave way to the youngsters in that first year. Now, as a result of the move, Housel also has a light baseball diamond.

The new Little League park, located on the northeast corner of the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Recreation area, is one of the finest in the midwest. The new stadium through donations of money, materials and labor, is outstanding and will give better seating facilities to those who desire to watch these youngsters eight to 13 years old play ball.

A brief program of dedication has been arranged. Mayor Herb Studer will give a welcome address with the Rev. D. Warren Neal, president of the Little League, will respond.

Team Introduction

Introduction of the teams will be held as the youngsters line the baseball diamond.

The National Guard color guard will raise the colors on the flag pole in center field.

The ceremonies will be closed with the invocation being given.

Then "play ball" will be called and the Jaycees and Elks play the first game. The second game will be played between the Rotary and Kiwanis teams.

The Trustees of the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Foundation will participate by handling the first ball for the opening game. The pitcher is to be elected as is the captain and the batter at the plate.

Managers And Coaches

The Major League team managers and coaches are:

National League

Kiwanis Club — George Ray, manager and Leo Richards, coach.

Jaycees — Cliff Barr, manager and Glenn Lower, George Gibbs and Sonny Settles coaches.

Elks—Jack L. Lobaugh, manager, Ed. Barnes, assistant, and Ronnie Dirck and John Craig, coaches.

Rotary — Cecil Dump, manager and Chuck Alden and Bill Morgan coaches.

American League

Lions Club—Emery L. Ellsworth, manager, and James E. McNeil, Harry Goldberg and Frank Deady, coaches.

Optimist Club—Fred Arbogast, manager and Clyde McKenzie and Cecil Glenn, coaches.

Adco — Earl Spiller, manager, and James Cowsert, Andrew Greywich, coaches.

Sedalia Democrat-Capital—Paul R. Mines, manager, and Bud Wickliffe, Paul Schultz and Bob Lane, coaches.

Redlegs Top Pirates With Eight-Run Rally In 9th Inning, 15-7

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP) — An eight-run rally in the ninth inning enabled the Cincinnati Redlegs to break a 7-7 tie today and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 15-7. The Redleg surge came after the Pirates had scored six runs in the last of the eighth to tie the score. Relief pitcher Frank Smith was credited with the win—his fourth of the season. Homeruns by Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple helped the Redlegs to victory.

Kansas Wins Big 7 Freshman Track Meet, Oklahoma Places 2nd

KANSAS CITY, June 6 (AP)—The University of Kansas won the annual Big Seven freshman telegraphic track meet, Reaves Peters, conference secretary, announced tonight. The young Jayhawkers' points totaled 127½.

Oklahoma placed second with 89. Following the Sooners were Missouri 79⅓; Iowa State 66 5/6; Nebraska 40, Kansas State 39 and Colorado 23⅓.

In the telegraphic meet, the frosh athletes compete in the full slate of events at their respective schools. The times, distances and heights are recorded and sent to the league office here for compilation.

Cards Sign Working Agreement With Club In Class D League

ST. LOUIS, June 6 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today signed a working agreement with the Dothan, Ala., club in the Class D Alabama-Florida League.

The Cardinals now have 17 minor league teams with eight operating in Class D. leagues.

August A. Busch, Jr., president, said, "we found it necessary to augment our farm system to accommodate the young ball players who are signing professional contracts with our organization.

Hodges' Homer Puts Dodgers In First Place In National

BROOKLYN, June 6 (AP) — Gil Hodges' three-run homer in the ninth inning, his second of the day, gave Brooklyn a decision over the St. Louis Cardinals today, 5-4, to send the Dodgers into first place in the National League by one percentage point.

Gil Dodds Hopes Wes Santee Isn't Pushed Too Quickly

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 6 —(AP)—The man who held the record for the fastest competitive mile by an American until last night, said today he hoped Wes Santee, University of Kansas track star, wasn't being brought along "too quickly."

Gil Dodds, now coach at Wheaton College, ran the mile in 4:05.3 in 48, the fastest competitive mile by an American until Santee was clocked at 4:02.4 last night in Compton, Calif., in an invitational.

"That was great time for Santee," Dodds said, "but I hope he won't be burned out.

"You check back through the records and you'll see that the milers who last are the ones who have the maturity and the ability to punish themselves.

"I was 30 years old," he continued, "when I ran my 4:05.3 mile in '48 and when Glen Cunningham was timed in 4:04.4 in his paced mile at Dartmouth in '38, he also was around 30."

Dodds figures that at the rate Santee is running today, he has about two more years of good competitive running.

"He has the speed, but I don't think he's achieved the maturity which provides the stamina," said Dodds.

The elder track star explained he never went below four minutes 20 seconds before he was 20 because his coach refused to hurry him.

"I ran a 4:9.7 mile, the only time I went below 4:20, when I was 20" he added, "and when I was 26 years old I was laid out of competition for two years.

"When I came back I was much stronger. I had the ability to punish myself and that's what it takes in addition to good competition."

Dodds will run an exhibition half-mile next week in Atlantic City.

Betsy Rawls Maintains Eight-Stroke Lead In Women's Golf

READING, Pa., June 6 (AP)—Defending champion Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., fired a five-over-par 77 today to hold an eight-stroke lead over her nearest rival going into the final round of the 72-hole Women's Eastern Open golf tournament.

Miss Rawls third round performance left her even with par 216 for 54 holes. Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., carded a 74 for a 224 total to tie for second pace with Betty Mackinnon of Dallas who shot a third-round 73.

Those two were the only ones within shouting distance of Miss Rawls for the final round tomorrow over the Berkshire Country Club course.

Marilynn Smith of Wichita carded 81 for a 235 total.

Sports Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

LITTLE LEAGUE opens its season Monday evening in its new home stadium located west of the big baseball park on the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Recreation area. Not quite but almost complete is the park, but complete enough to open the season and some 350 to 450 boys from 8 to 12 to enjoy themselves playing ball.

The National League will open the season with the Jaycees-Rotary meeting and the Kiwanis and Elks crossing bats. The Nationals will play on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Tuesday night the American League opens the season and they will play on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The Adco and Democrat-Capital clash in the first game with the Lions and Optimists in the night cap.

My ramblings last Thursday night did not seem to have much effect on some 300-odd fathers who have boys in the program, as only a few made their appearance last Thursday and Friday nights. The Little League officials are hoping that they will be among the workers this week. There is still plenty of work to get out of the way.

George Ray, for whom the park should be named, has done wonders and is acting as foreman of the job. If you want to work, report to him at the park. He'll find something for you to do.

WARSAW LIONS are making a bid to push the upper end of the Lake of the Ozarks back into the water sports. The Lions are sponsoring a boat racing program Sunday, June 14 near the U. S. Highway 65 bridge and have already announced more than 150 boats for the big day.

W. N. "Puny" White, we call him "Puny" because he is a great big fellow bubbling over with energy and desiring to do lots of work and we just know him by that, says it is going to put Warsaw back in sports on the water. White recalls when the Lake first came into being and Warsaw was one of the spots where Kansas Citians always went for their water sports.

In recent years the sport wasn't pushed too much, and now the Lions have decided to bring it back. The Lions are desiring to put Warsaw right back where it belongs on the lake as one of THE PLACES to go.

The St. Louis Outboard Racing Association is coming with its members to swell the entry list. The races have been sanctioned by the National Outboard Association, so it is going to have the best in the sport skipping over the waters of the Lake of the Ozarks at Warsaw.

Arrangements have been made to handle the crowd and see that everyone has a good vantage point to see the events. This location will be White Branch Resort, beautiful, attractive and a place which will make you love to visit Warsaw and the resorts in that area.

LOOKS as if Ralph Hall may get the breaks in pouring of the large supports for the new Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium in the west section of Liberty Park. Hall predicted if he got any kind of a break he would pour one a week. To date he has kept pace, four being completed this past week.

Rain slowed him earlier in the spring, but he was able to get his forms ready and started making hay while the sun shines.

With four up there are seven to go. There's no doubt the actual slabs for the stadium will be taking shape in not too distant future. The stadium should be and is expected to be completed by the time the football season opens in September.

There's a good crop of blue grass on the football field and with care and treatment it should be in excellent condition for the coming season.

THIS week is on us and do you realize the Junior Jaycees are bringing to Sedalia the annual State Fair Championship Rodeo, starting Thursday through Sunday. The events on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday are night affairs while Sunday it will be in the afternoon.

Real cowboys will be on hand from all over the country contesting in the bareback riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling and bull riding. These five major events are not just a show but the real thing in contest, a real sport of the west.

The Jaycee members have been working hard to promote the Western sport, and deserve the support of the community. As one told be sure to see the first performance—you'll not miss the next three. He's right. If you love thrills, spills and plenty of excitement of breath taking events, then see the Rodeo.

Minor League Opens Season On Tuesday

The Minor League teams are scheduled for one game each night. The Minors games start at 5 p.m. and are played early so as to have time between the Minor and the start of the Major League games at 6:30.

Due to the dedication ceremonies Monday night the Minor League season will open on Tuesday when the Rotary club meets the Adco aggregation. Wednesday the Democrat-Capital team meets the Lions; Thursday the Elks play Kiwanis; Friday the Jaycees cross bats with the Optimist.

The Minor League is not divided into two divisions as in the Majors.

Managers and Coaches

The Minor League team managers and coaches:

Jaycees—Frank Lueck, manager, and Ray Homan, coach.

Kiwanis Club—Joe Imhauser, manager, and Charles Newman, Don Harbit, coaches.

Elks—Guy Smith, manager and Ben Carson coach.

Rotary—Dick Dillon, manager, and George Lockett, Larry Cramer, coaches.

Lions—Kenneth A. Buchholz, manager, and Jack Pasley, Bernard Stanfield, coaches.

New Cardinal Pleases Stanky

BROOKLYN (AP) — Dick Scofield, the newest and youngest member of the St. Louis Cardinals, had his first big league workout Friday night and Manager Eddie Stanky liked what he saw.

The Cardinals shelled out a record bonus for them—$40.000 — for the signature of the 18-year-old shortstop following his graduation Wednesday from Springfield, Ill., high school.

The youngster reported to the Cards here and was handed the departed Vern Benson's uniform. He took part in the pre-game infield workout and showed a world of speed and a strong arm.

"I like him," observed Satnky. "He showed me he owns a fast pair of hands. I don't know whether he'll hit. After all, he's only 18. But he looks like he's going to be a real good glove man."

A real bonus baby—he looks no more than 16 — Scofield disclosed he had received offers from 13 major league clubs. The only clubs which failed to contact him were Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Scofield, under the new bonus rule, must remain in the big leagues for two years. He cannot be sent down to the minors but he can be sent to another big league club.

Alton Lake Now Has Rescue Patrol Crew

ALTON, Ill., June 6(AP)—A new rescue patrol group has been formed for a section of the Mississippi River known as Alton Lake after 11 near-drownings in the area within three weeks.

The new group, known as the St. Charles Volunteer Rescue and Recovery Crew, was formed today at South Shore Harbor, on the Missouri side of the river west of here.

Forty members of the group will patrol the "lak," formed by the Alton Dam, on weekends.

Roland Young Dies; Starred As 'Topper'

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Roland Young, London-born actor, died last night in his sleep at his Manhattan residence. He was 65.

Young, whose style of comedy was faintly fatalistic and self deprecatory, was best known for the series of three "Topper" movies.

He had appeared, however, in nearly a hundred other films during his career, which started in 1929.

Santee Astonishes Track World With 4:02.4 Mile

By BOB MYERS

COMPTON, Calif., June 6 (AP)—The phantom miracle four-minute mile may still be likened to the end of a rainbow, but as young Wes Santee of Kansas agreed today, "We are getting closer."

The likeable 21-year-old Kansan astonished the track world last night when he stepped off the mile in 4:02.4 and sent experts pouring through the record books.

They discovered that the time was the fastest ever registered in the United States, the fastest ever run by an American, and Santee may now be called the fourth fastest miler in history.

And the race itself, with Santee defeating two of the world's greatest runners in Denis Johansson of Finland and Gaston Reiff of Belgium, was the fastest three man battle in track annals. Overlooked in the applause for the Kansas cyclone was the fact that Johansson was clocked at 4:04.0 and Reiff at 4:05.7.

Santee, highly elated over breaking the great Gunder Haegg's American mark of 4:05.3, set at Cambridge, Mass., in 1943, said: "I came out to California to win the race. But I didn't expect to run it this fast. We figured on about 4:04 or thereabouts."

Then he added, "It was a tough way to run a '4-2' mile."

He meant that Reiff and Johansson set a comparatively slow pace for the first half mile, and it was left for an impatient Santee to steam up the race in the final two laps.

He did, in fractional times of 0:62.7, 2:05.2, 3:03.5 and 4:02.4.

The race — staged under ideal conditions on a cool but windless evening — was the feature of Compton's annual invitational track and field meet.

So impressive was Santee's triumph that California track writers overlooked a native son and his world record making performance. This was Parry O'Brien of Southern California, who put the shot 59 feet 2⅜ inches. It was the second time this spring that the 21-year-old giant had bettered Jim Fuchs' world record of 58 feet 10½ inches. Last month O'Brien hit 59 feet ¾ inch.

The only faster times in the mile on record are Haegg's world standard of 4:01.4; Arne Anderson 4:01.6, and John Landy's 4:02.2.

Santee and his coach, Bill Easton, naturally are eyeing the long sought four-minute mile, but neither would predict anything definate. "We have more work to do," Easton commented.

Sonja Henie Chases Barefoot After Burglars

LONDON, June 6 (AP)—Ice star Sonja Henie, a cool customer in a crisis, sprinted barefoot down a fashionable London street in a flimsy nightgown at 4:30 a. m. today in hot pursuit of burglars making off with about $30,000 worth of her wardrobe.

The burglars got away, but in their hurry jettisoned two mink creations that constituted a big part of the loot.

A few minutes before, the shapely blonde skater had snapped awake in her darkened Eaton Square apartment and found a young man staring at her from the foot of the bed.

"I screamed and jumped out of bed," Miss Henie said. "The man ran out of my bedroom into the hall, jumped over a pile of things he had taken from my closets and trunks and ran out the door."

She said he had at least one companion.

Miss Henie, followed by her cook, Carrie Roberts, dashed out into the street for the chase. But the two women, chilled and outdistanced, gave up after a few minutes and trotted back to the apartment to call police.

She reported the loss of an Aleutian mink valued at $10,000, a mink jacket valued at $3,500, an ermine coat valued at $7,000, some gold accessories and $840 in cash. Everything was insured.

Postpone Jr. Legion Game At California

The Junior Legion baseball game for Post 16 scheduled for California today has been postponed due to heavy diamond. Rains Friday night caused the diamond to be too muddy for a game. It was to have met the California reorganized school district team.

The Legion has played only one other game so far this season which was with the Post 93 Negro team in which Post 16 won by a score of 4 to 2.

The boys that have uniforms from last year are asked to contact Mr. Closser, 816 West Seventh, or the Rev. Bowers, 323 West Fourth, and turn the suits over to them.

Louise Suggs Seeks Her 6th West Open Title

ATLANTA, June 6 (AP) — Louise Suggs, the little lass with a big golf game and a bank account to prove it, will be after her fourth Women's Western Open crown when the six-day tournament begins here June 15.

The Atlanta perfectionist rates the favorite's role for two reasons: she has the high money earnings and the low stroke average among the touring professionals, and is thoroughly familiar with the 6,339-yard Capital City Club course where the tourney will be played.

But Miss Suggs, whose $5,000 first-place money in the recent Cross Country Weathervane tournament boosted her 1953 take to $15,591—a record for a woman golfer, will have plenty of top-drawer competition.

Early entries include defending western champion Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C.; four-time Western titlist Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.; last year's runner-up and former winner Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and 1952 National Amateur champion Jackie Pung of Honolulu, now a professional playing out of Glasgow, Ky.

A field of approximately 100 pros and amateurs is expected for the 18-hole qualifying play Monday, June 15. Match play over the men's par 35-35—70 course begins Tuesday and the finals will be on Saturday.

Town And Country Beats Columbia

Sedalia's Town and Country girl's softball team in its second meeting this season with the Columbia girls team, Friday night at Columbia, won 11 to 4. The game was played in the Columbia Municipal Ball Park.

In a previous game the Columbia team defeated the Sedalians on the Center Park diamond 6 to 2.

In Friday nights encounter Betty Jo Dick led the hitting with three out of the 15 hits scored by the Sedalia team and scored five of the 11 runs. Horton was the leading hitter for Columbia with three out of four trips to the plate.

Walz was on the mound for the Sedalians with Olson catching. Bremmerkamp and Horton served as the Columbia battery.

It was the first game played in the new Town and Country uniforms.

The score:

Sedalia	230	230	1—11
Columbia	000	120	1— 4

Pressure On Chiefs Tonight At Boonville

Victory Put Chiefs Into A League Tie With The Lions

The Sedalia Chiefs, Friday night, had easy sailing in their game with the Recreational Team from Marshall, when the two met on the Liberty Park diamond. The Chiefs batting slump was knocked over the fence as they came through to win 16 to 2.

The Sedalians jumped into an early lead and coasted the rest of the contest. In the sixth inning Carl Miller, rookie catcher, who worked his first full game put himself high in the admiration of his fellow players. Miller got two hits in the "round-robin" inning, a double with the bases loaded and a triple with the sacks filled to bat in a total of five runs.

Newkirk And Delph

Scotty Newkirk started on the mound for the Chiefs and pitched shutout baseball for four innings. Donnie Delph took over in the fifth and gave up four hits for two runs, in a "warm up" session, but at no time was he in any trouble of letting his lead get away. Delph sent ten bats back to the bench vit the strikeout route in his five innings.

Higgins and Bennett led the Chiefs in hitting getting three hits for six trips to the plate while Fox catcher for the Marshall team hit two of his team's four hits, out of his four times at the plate.

The Chiefs hit safely 14 times for 16 runs and the baseball playing was perfect, not an error being made by any player. The whole squad saw action sometime or another during the contest. Marshall however hit safely four times and their players had six errors.

Complications Tonight

Today the Chiefs meet complications when they travel to Boonville. A victory over the Lions will put the two teams into a tie in the Central Missouri League, a loss will give Boonville undisputed hold on the top spot.

Twice the Chiefs have defeated the Lions in practice games, once the strictly all-Boonville team, to the tune of 26-9, while the second meeting was after the Columbia B. J. players were recruited to Boonville after Columbia failed to get a sponsor for the team. The score of this second meeting was 8 to 7 in a 10 inning affair.

The local players will meet at Cal Rodgers garage at 6 p.m. tonight from which place they will depart for Boonville. Players are expected to be at the garage by 5:45 p.m.

Manager George Thompson has elected Bobby Brown to start on the mound with Larry Mines in the receiving slot.

Hogan Sees Outsider Winning National Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—Ben Hogan, labeled the man to beat for the 53rd National Open golf championship next week at Oakmont, warned today the title is very likely to go to a rank outsider who can't break par.

"I don't believe anybody is going to whip this course for four rounds," the painstaking little killer of the links, himself a three-time winner, said. "I figure a score of 292 will be good enough to take it.

"Who do I think has the best chance? Well, maybe Sam Parks again. Who knows? I'm not kidding. It'll be somebody who can play these tricky greens. It could be Parks or any outsider."

Sam Parks, Jr., a 200-1 shot at the time but now a spreading steel executive in Pittsburgh, won the open in 1935, the last time the blue ribbon event was played at Oakmont. His score was 299—eleven over par.

The tournament was held at Oakmont also in 1927 and that time Tommy Armour, the silver scot, won with 301, the great Bobby Jones finishing 12th with a score of 312.

The cold and calculating Hogan, and the ogre of Oakmont—a par 72 layout measuring 6,916 yards—are the twin perils for 299 golfers who begin two days of qualifying for the big championship Tuesday.

Oakmont's 37-35—72, par, bulwarked by blind holes, saw-teeth traps and lightning greens, has never been humbled in competitive medal play, although numerous national tournaments have been staged here. The record is 294, set by Willie MacFarlane in the Pennsylvania open in 1934.

Treacherous Oakmont, however, will carry only half the lead in the 36-hole qualifying Tuesday and Wednesday. Players will go 18 at Oakmont and 18 at the nearby Pittsburgh Field Club, a 6,712-yard, par 71 course with tight fairways and energy-taxing hills.

The low 149 shooters in these two rounds will qualify to join defending champion Julius Boros in the 72-hole championship proper Thursday through Saturday. As titlist, Boros alone didn't have to qualify.

The mild - mannered champion from Mid Pines, N. C. is almost the forgotten man in the star-spangled field headed by the masterful Hogan and including nine other past champions.

Hogan, open victor in 1948, 1950 and 1951, zoomed back into the linelight by winning his second Masters tournament at Augusta this spring with a record score and then adding the Mexican Pan A-M and Colonial titles to his list.

Intent on capturing his fourth championship before taking his first shot at the British Open next month at Carnoustie, the little Texan has been here since last Tuesday meticulously polishing his game.

Instead of playing practice rounds, he has been placing the ball in trouble spots—in the rough, in traps and in awkward positions on the greens—and making recoveries. He seems to be taking mental notes—for future reference—of every shot he makes.

NCAA Reports It Has 14 Cases Of Violations

KANSAS CITY, June 6 (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association reported today it had 14 cases of alleged rules violations pending before its subcommittee on infractions.

The report was made by Walter Byers, executive director, and an ex-officio member of the subcommittee which completed work on three cases today. He added five of the 14 cases were in the preliminary stages of inquiry.

Byers declined to reveal the nature of the cases or the colleges involved in the three cases investigated during the committee sessions here. The findings will be submitted to the membership committee which meets July 17 and 18 in Chicago. This committee, in turn, submits its report to the 17-member governing council which will meet Aug. 15, 16 and 17, also at Chicago.

The NCAA secretary said it was the policy of the NCAA to make nothing public on such matters until action had been taken by the council.

Death Thins Ranks Of Great Athletes Of The Century

(By The Associated Press)

Death, the grim reaper, is cutting down the greatest athletes of the century far more quickly than their sports opponents were able to defeat them in their competitive days.

The death of big Bill Tilden, finest tennis player of his era, in Hollywood Friday night brought to four the death toll of the ten individuals voted best of the half-century in the poll conducted by the Associated Press in 1950.

Tilden's death, apparently due to a heart attack, came only a few weeks after the March 28 death of Jim Thorpe from the same cause. Thorpe was voted the greatest athlete of the half-century, as well as the greatest football player.

Babe Ruth, greatest baseball player from 1900 to 1950, had died in 1948 and Man O'War, the greatest racehorse, died a year earlier.

Besides those cut down by death, golfer Bobby Jones and Babe Didrikson Zaharias have been seriously ill. Jones has been unable to play golf of any sort for several years because of a spinal ailment affecting his motor nerves and wears a brace on his right leg as a result. Mrs. Zaharias, still recovering from an operation in April to remove a rectal malignancy, talks of playing golf again but has not been able to do so yet.

George Mikan, voted the greatest basketball player, is the only one of the top athletes still active in competition. He started his climb to basketball fame in the mid-40's, long after the other athletes had called it quits.

Others in the poll who are still going strong are Jack Dempsey, greatest fighter; Jesse Owens, greatest runner; and Johnny Weismuller, greatest swimmer.

Rizzuto Scores Lead Run, Bombers Take Ninth Straight, 6-2

ST. Jimmy Carter Meeting Test With Araujo

NEW YORK June 6 (AP)—Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter, fresh off a stunning 10-knockdown defense, faces a stern challenge from young George Araujo of Providence, R. I. Friday night in a 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Early odds make Araujo a slight 11 to 10 over the 29-year-old champ who bounced Tommy Collins off the figor like a ping pong ball at Boston, April 24.

The fight, first championship bout in New York in almost a year, will be beamed across the nation in customary Friday night style by radio (ABC) and television (NBC) starting at 8:00 p.m. CST. There hasn't been a title fight in town since Joey Maxim and Sugar Ray Robinson sizzled in the Yankee Stadium steam box last June.

Carter, a workmanlike fighter normally generates no great enthusiasm while winning or losing. Suddenly he found himself in the middle of a bitter controversy after the Collins fight. Nobody blamed Jimmy but the Boston referee took a heavy blasting for letting the fight continue until Carter dropped young Collins 10 times. Carter just happened to be the guy doing the pitching at a china chin.

The Araujo fight has been in the making a long time as the Providence kid moved up in class while compiling a 49-2-1 record for 52 starts since 1948. Only 22, he has impressed as a speedster with a good boxing style and a solid punch.

As Araujo said when they signed the contracts, "The difference between me and Collins is—I've got a chin." He never has been stopped.

Queen Watches Her Horse Lose Epson Derby

EPSOM, England, June 6 (AP)—The Queen of England today saw the king of jockeys beat her out of British turfdom's top prize—the Epsom Derby.

Although disappointed, Queen Elizabeth II took it like a good sport. She had a big smile and congratulations for the winning jockey, Sir Gordon Richards, who piloted Pinza to a four-length victory in the historic mile and a half race for three-year-olds.

The queen's horse, Aureole, finished second.

On five days earlier the Queen had bestowed a knighthood on the stumpy, 49-year-old jockey, who has won more races than any other man in the world during his 33-year career.

It was the first time Sir Gordon had come in a winner in the derby in 28 tries.

But was the Queen annoyed? Not at all.

"The Queen said how delighted she was," Sir Gordon reported after being received in the royal box.

Accompanied by her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and other members of the royal family, the Queen traveled by train to Epsom—after being cheered by 30,000 persons as she left Buckingham Palace in London.

She arrived at the famous old Epsom course in brilliant sunshine. And as she drove down the course—heading a procession of nine cars—the 500,000 spectators cheered themselves hoarse.

Came the third race of the program — the 174th running of the derby—and the big question: would the Queen become the first reigning monarch to win 'he event since her great grandfather turned the trick back in 1909?

Elizabeth tried to keep her queenly dignity but when Aureole made his bid it was obvious she was as excited as the humblest of her subjects who had placed a modest "bob" (14 cents) on Aureole in the sentimental hope that coronation week would be topped off with a Queen's victory.

When Pinza flashed home ahead, she called Richards, Pinza's owner, Sir Victor Sassoon, and the trainer to her box to show them there were no hard feelings.

When the royal party left the grounds, the Queen was still waving and smiling—a good loser in the best British tradition.

National Hard Court Play On Next Week

SALT LAKE CITY, June 6 (AP)—The sixth annual National Hardcourt Tennis championships open here next week with an international flavor.

Lorne Main, Canadian champion, and Charles Hare, former British Davis Cup player, now of Chicago, are among the latest entranst, Dave Freed, secretary of the sponsoring Intermountain Tennis Association, said today.

Others previously signed up include Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, United States hope for regaining the Davis Cup from Australia, Tom Brown, San Francisco, former national finalist and the ninth ranked player in the nation, and Harry Likas, San Francisco, former National Intercollegiate champion and 10th ranked in the United States.

Another entrant is Oscar G. Johnson of St. Louis, champion of the American Tennis Association, a Negro organization.

Bill Tilden Dies Of Heart Attack In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, June 6 (AP)—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Big Bill Tilden, "Mr. Hennis" of the 1920s and early '30s and generally considered the greatest player of them all.

The 60-year-old tennis master was found dead, full clothed and lying on his bed in his modest apartment yesterday. His bags were packed; he was scheduled to leave today to participate in a tournament at Cleveland.

Dr. Alex Griswold, county autopsy surgeon, performed an autopsy and said Tilden died of coronary thrombosis. The surgeon said he found the coronary muscle slightly damaged from arteriosclerotic heart disease.

Cubs Lose 6th In Row, This Time To Giants, Getting Only Two Hits

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Jim Hearn and Hoyt Wilhelm teamed up in near 90-degree heat today to blank Chicago with two hits for a 3-0 New York Giants' victory. It was the Cubs' sixth straight defeat and their sixth shutout of the season. Hearn tired and was replaced by Wilhelm in the eighth after he walked a pinch hitter although he had pitched no-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings. Both hits off Hearn came in the first.

Two MU Grid Stars To Phi Beta Kappa

COLUMBIA, June 6 (AP) — Two University of Missouri football players were among 15 university seniors who were elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honor scholastic society, yesterday, and initiated today.

They were Robert Castle of St. Joseph, co-captain of the 1952 varsity, and George Ekern of Mexico, whose knee injury kept him down with the B teamers last season.

The society also chose Guy A. Thompson, St. Louis lawyer, as its 1953 alumni member.

Warsaw Lions Speed Boat Races June 14

Speed Boat racing is to be resumed on the upper end of the Lake of the Ozarks, Sunday June 14, when the Warsaw Lions Club sponsors a program of eight major races. The race program has been scheduled to get underway at 1 p. m. Cooperating with the Lions is the St. Louis Outboard Racing Association which group has promised a big entry for the day of racing.

The Lions committee already reports more than 150 outboard racing enthusiasts have inquired about the program and indicated their intentions of being on hand to compete.

Course Near Highway

The racing course has been arranged near the U. S. Highway 65 bridge, with the crowd to gather at White Branch Resort to watch the activities and see the entrants as they prepare their boats for each event. Arrangements have been made by the Lions to handle an exceptionally large crowd and the bigger the better.

Contestants will be racing for a total of $650 in prize monies.

Funds obtained through the event will be used by the Lions on their Youth Program, which is one of the big projects of that organization. Much work is done by the Warsaw Lions on this program.

Races Are Sanctioned

The races are sanctioned by the National Outboard Association. The fact the National organization has sanctioned the races is attracting three national champions from St. Louis in Walter Glotter, Steve Canter, and Bill Seebold.

Sixty Warsaw men have joined with the Lions in arranging for volunteer traffic control. These men will be instructed at a school by the State Patrol on Saturday in handling traffic and every measure of safety will be followed.

Boston Clips Tigers For Nixon's First

DETROIT, June 6 (AP) — Boston righthander Willard Nixon posted his first victory of the season, spacing seven hits for a 6-2 victory over the last-place Detroit Tigers in the first game of a doubleheader today. Sammy White, with a single and a 380-foot home run, paced the Red Sox' 11-hit attack against loser Ray Herbert and three relievers. It was the Tigers' 13th straight game without a victory.

ELIZABETH the Queen

Former Governess to Her Majesty

XXVIII

QUEEN MARY broke through much of the red tape which surrounded a woman of the Royal Family. Queen Elizabeth has followed in her grandmother's footsteps and gone a good deal further.

At the age of 16 she insisted on being allowed to join the ATS, and there obtained a valuable insight into the lives of other women, a knowledge she could never have picked up from a lifetime of tours and inspections.

From the first she has been interested in the problems which confront people outside palace walls. She has a deep concern for the underprivileged.

She hates to think of people suffering, or being denied sustenance or comfort.

Although as Queen she must remain above politics, it is certain that she will always keep an eye open for the rights of the individual.

Then, after those invaluable months in the Army, where for the first time the public read of a Princess lying on her back in oil-stained overalls, tinkering with the engine of a lorry, she married Prince Philip.

That was a love match comparable with any in fiction. It is a beautiful and wonderful thing that Queen Elizabeth should have found in the man she loves a new and refreshing source of contact with the kind of people she will rule over.

The Duke of Edinburgh's life has not been led behind cloistered walls. He has lived always among men of action, whose thoughts and feelings he can translate to the Queen, giving her an insight she would never have been able to gather in any other way.

There is no doubt that the position of the Throne has undergone great development and expansion in the past 50 years. Britain's Royal Family have gone through some hard times in the history of the past few centuries. Never have they been so loved and so much part of their people's lives as they are today.

WHEN they visited South Africa on that triumphal tour of 1947, such was their charm that even the Republican critics who most keenly attacked them, were silenced by it and completely won over.

Queen Elizabeth has that natural dignity so necessary to a position which makes her the center of all eyes wherever she goes, she has the charm and personality which make people warm to her as a person regardless of her rank, and she has a profound background knowledge about the meaning of her position in the world.

I often used to think, as I watched Princess Elizabeth leading a long line of dancers round the Palace ballrooms during those informal evening parties she so enjoyed, that this was an entirely new view of Royalty.

Not for her the distant dignity which makes the Throne a thing of awe, and sometimes terrifying. She prefers that human approach more in keeping with the times and her own modern temperament.

Queen Victoria loved to dance herself, and certainly did so with her beloved Prince Consort, but can you imagine her so throwing off the solemnity of her position as to lead a cheerful romp of that nature? I cannot. In every way Queen Elizabeth's nature proves her to be a Woman of Her Time.

She insisted that her husband should be allowed to rejoin the Navy and continue the career he loved rather than stay at home and help her with her manifold duties.

It would not be hard to visualize Queen Elizabeth as Mrs. Montbatten, an entertaining sort of person, easy to please, ready to laugh, invariably considerate of the feelings of others. I see her as an excellent housewife and mother. Whatever she does, she does well.

And then, with a humanity which warmed many hearts, she flew out to him as soon as she could to catch for a little while the delight any wife takes in her husband's presence.

All this places her in an entirely personal position in British hearts. No one can feel about her that she is just a figurehead. She is too alive, too warm, too vital ever to be thought of in that way.

There are many State duties on the highest level which the Queen has to perform. All State documents must be signed by her. It is part of the law of the land that no Statute passed by Parliament is legal until signed by the Sovereign.

AND though the Queen cannot refuse to sign she will no doubt exercise the power of advice and suggestion so often used by her Royal ancestors.

Each sovereign in turn, from his permanent status and his long knowledge of affairs of State, commands a wide area of experience.

Crises have come and gone and our Kings and Queens throughout the years have known how to deal with them.

A distinguished South African said, after observing Princess Elizabeth throughout the Royal Family's tour of the dominion: "If there are still Queens when she comes to inherit the Throne, I think she will make the greatest one of all. . . ."

And this, to me, is Elizabeth, the Queen of our time.

Poems For Today

SISTER'S WEDDING
By Hazel Lang

My sister's getting married
Said Captain Jinx one day,
O, Boy! I'd like to be the guy
To give that girl away.
I think of all the useless things
A fellow can possess
A grown-up sister is the very Uselessest, I guess;
I'm always in the way, it seems,
When sister is about,
If I am playing in the house
She's sure to run me out;
If I am playing outside
I'm sure to hear her call
She's always got an errand
Just when I'm playing ball;
She's always 'fraid I'll break a dish,
She's 'fraid I'll mar a chair,
My sister's getting married,
And say, don't think I care.
I'm feelin' awful sorry
For Alfred, that's her beau,
But Gee, he's been here plenty
And I guess he ought to know.
I'll bet he'll lead a merry life
A-livin' with my sis,
It won't be also sweet and nice
And just to hug and kiss;
Gee, it's gettin' amost time
For the weddin' to begin,
I don't want to be missin' nuthin'
So I'd better be shaggin' in.
Um-um-um! Look at that food,
For goodness, gracious sake;
There's pies and tarts and cookies
And that big weddin' cake,
Sandwiches, salads and chicken
Way up there on the shelf,
I guess that I'll climb up there
And help my little self,
And maybe I'd better hurry
While I know the coast is clear
I'll stand up on the rockin' chair
Since its the one that's near,
Did you ever see such lots of food?
Say chair, now don't you rock
I'm fall--in', Oh, my gosh, the shelf
Now won't Mom have a shock,
I'm awful sorry, Mom, sure nuff,
I made this awful mess,
I didn't mean to, honest, Mom,
I'm just all bad, I guess;
I know it's your best china, Mom,
I'm sorry I did this,
I don't quite understand, Mom,
I don't deserve that kiss;
You're not a-cryin' 'bout the food
But just because you're blue,
I'm sorta cryiin', too, Mon,
'Cause I'll miss sister, too.

EVENING IN THE OZARKS
By Hazel Lang

Three tiers of broad flat rocks that edge
A lofty cliff and form a ledge
Where one may see for miles around
The fertile land with broken ground
Or growing crops in perfect rows
The ripening wheat field as it blows
And sways in rhythm with the breeze
That plays its love song in the trees.
Below the Ozark lake expands
Far to the south o'er hilly lands
Its scenic beauty on every side
Reflects in its waters at even-tide.
Away to the east and a few miles down
Is seen the outline of a town.
A bridge that crosses the water
there,
A road that leads I know not where.
And to the west the amber sun
Setting in splendor when day is done,
Its glorious coloring seems to make
A radiant rainbow in the lake;
The twilight—then the night creeps on
The visions of the day are gone,
A far cry of the whip-poor-will
The stars come out and all is still.

DAWN
By Hazel Lang

Dawn, with a rosy streak of light
Across the eastern sky;
Slowly the sun comes into sight
Kissing the night goodbye.
Quietly now the darkness fades,
Earth is flooded with golden beams.
Birds begin their serenades

DUSK
By Hazel Lang

Lower the sun in the golden west
Sinks beyond the hill,
Slowly the day now goes to rest—
Dusk, so calm, so still.
Over the world the shadows fall,
Stars come into view.
Over the world the locusts call
To bid the day adieu.

Drew Pearson's Washington Merry-go-round

Latins Somewhat Disappointed By New Crop of Diplomats

WASHINGTON — When John Foster Dulles reported to the nation by radio seven days after Eisenhower's inauguration, he promised that the new administration would not "take South America for granted."

Latin Americans hailed the statement. Foreign observers, noting the menace of Communism in neighboring Guatemala and British Guiana, hoped the new secretary of state meant what he said.

Today, five months later, the reaction of Latin-American governments ranges from hope, skepticism, to discouragement.

Particularly they are discouraged at the poor calibre of ambassadors the Ike administration is sending them; also at the discriminatory tariff treatment slapped on Uruguay, stanchest defender of democracy in South America.

Secretary Dulles also stated shortly after taking office that he would appoint 15 top ambassadors to Latin America. So far he has picked five — chiefly heavy campaign contributors or GOP playboys. Here is the roll call:

Ambassador to Brazil —Groomed for this post is James Kemper, arch-isolationist leader of Chicago Tribune Republicans, head of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co.; insurance associate of presidential crony George Allen; and sponsor of isolationist commentator Upton Close. Kemper was GOP national treasurer after the Dewey debacle of 1948, never raised much money and was eased out when Guy Gabrielson became GOP national chairman. Kemper knows little about Brazil. America's closest friend in South America, and owes his appointment to George Allen, Truman's White House jester who now manages Ike's farm in Pennsylvania. All in all, Brazilians are not happy.

Ambassador to Mexico — Francis White, was assistant secretary of state for Latin America during the bitter period when U. S. Marines landed in Nicaragua. Latins still remember this, especially Mexico, the nation to which White is now accredited. After leaving the state department, White spent 10 years as a foreign debt collector in Latin-American countries, and nobody likes a debt collector. Herbert Hoover asked that White be appointed.

Ambassador to Cuba — Good-natured Arthur Gardner, former social adviser to John Snyder, Truman's Secretary of the Treasury. His wife Susy, whose father incorporated old Henry Ford's first auto venture and got paid in stock now worth millions, would make an excellent envoy. Arthur will work hard, accomplish little, offend no one.

Ambassador to The Dominican Republic — William T. Pheiffer, his chief qualification for the job is the fact that he is law partner to White House Secretary Tom Stevens.

Ambassador to El Salvador — Best of the L.A. appointees is Michael McDermott, old-school, cautious career diplomat who's been in charge of State Department press relations since the days of Frank B. Kellogg.

Tariff on Democracy

Latin Americans are sensitive people. Long considering themselves neglected because of the Marshall Plan's focus on Europe, Latins resent getting run-of-the-mill or low-grade diplomats.

They also resent the countervailing duty slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops by the administration which Dulles said would not "take South America for granted."

Last year, Sen. Joe O'Mahoney, stanch pillar of the Democratic party, begged the Truman administration to impose the same duty against Uruguay, claimed such tariff protection for Wyoming sheep-growers would mean his re-election. But Dean Acheson, wanting to protect Good-Neighbor trade, realizing Uruguay had a tough time preserving democracy alongside Argentina, said no. Uruguayan wool-tops continued to enter the U.S.A. O'Mahoney was defeated.

Now, despite a program of "trade—not aid," Dulles has permitted countervailing duties to be slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops for the first time any such duties have been imposed on Latin America.

"Let's go back," wisecrack Latin diplomats, "to the days when we were taken for granted."

Suppressed Report

The U.S. Steel Corporation has been pulling backstage wires to suppress a government report regarding last year's steel strike. So far it has succeeded.

The report refutes steel-industry propaganda that blame for the ammunition shortage and defense slowdown goes to the 1952 steel strike.

Instead, the report declares: "The strike had surprisingly little effect upon the economy as a whole. In a few industries the impact was more noticeable and in the case of motor vehicle production was very pronounced. However, contrary to many predictions, defense production was free of any serious or lasting consequences. Because of the minor effects of the strike, recovery was rapid. By the end of August, recovery was almost complete."

When this report was completed by the National Production Authority last month, U.S. Steel got wind of it. Immediately NPA's metals and minerals chief, Bennett Chapple, began pulling strings to block it. Interesting coincidence: Chapple formerly was executive vice president of U.S. Steel, is now on loan to the government for a dollar per year.

Then another U.S. Steel man, David Austin, got into the act. He is a member of the Steel Industry Advisory Committee, a group of steel moguls who advise the government on its steel policies.

In a closed-door meeting, Austin bluntly demanded that NPA repudiate its report on the steel strike. He charged that it contained "inaccurate or misleading" statements.

What particularly disturbed him, Austin said, was that the report had been distributed to the federal archives and other government agencies.

Paul Jordan, an NPA information officer, hastily assured the steel moguls that the report had been prepared "for internal use only," that only 146 copies had been printed and that outside circulation had been stopped.

Meanwhile, the committee decided to "review" the embarrassing report before taking any final action regarding publication.

Merry-Go-Round

Col. Gordon Moore, the President's brother-in-law, is not only doing well in business these days; he's also doing well at bridge. Presidential friends say Colonel Moore is a star at lengthy White House bridge sessions. . . . Clayton Fritchey is trying to get the first edition of the Democrats' new pocket-sized monthly magazine—Democratic Digest—on the newsstands late in July. He's shooting for a million circulation. . . . The Democrats still owe almost $40,000 to Chicago firms for last year's convention. Dwight Palmer, head of General Cable, resigned as Democratic treasurer because these bills, despite money he raised, were not paid up.

In Tunis, You Can Hire a Killer for $10

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

TUNIS, French North Africa — You can have a man killed in this town for $10.

Terrorists among those seeking to evict the French, including Communists, take good advantage of these cut-rate prices.

From the moment you taxi into Tunis from the Mediterranean airstrip — past burdened camels with their lumbering, drunken walk — you sense the story of all French North Africa today: Terror.

Terror in Morocco, in Algeria, in Tunisia. Terror walks the quiet lanes of beautiful Casablanca; terror strikes along the caravan routes of the Touggourt Desert.

A rugged soldier eyes you as you enter your hotel.

Later you stroll along the broad boulevards of the European section. Ever parading before you, some on careful, heavily - armed watch, some merely vacationing from desert outposts, are the most colorful collection of troops this side of a three-dimensional technicolor splash.

There are square-chinned huskies of the French Foreign Legion, many of them Germans with Nazi swastikas tattooed in their armpits, necks toasted red in sharp contrast to their white pillbox kepis; Tunisians with white turbans on white horses; brown Senegalese with British guards' mustaches; Saphis in baggy embroidered knickerbockers, like yards of lacy curtains.

Their mission: To preserve French rule, to cork the stewing, violent, unfortunate alliance of nationalism and communism which daily makes its point in ugly little outbursts of murder, of sabotage.

Their required assignment here is our loss, for they could well be serving France in the swampy jungles of Indo - China.

You pass more police, more troopers as you go through arched gates cut in high Beau Gete walls ringing the Medina, the ancient Arab section.

Here you fiind the full, temming, semi-hysterical fury of the East in snaking alleys that could be stuffed by a stalled jeep.

Sales tables are laden with a crazy quilt of wares. The spicy odor of cooking foods soaked in odd herbs—and sanitation dating back to the Turkish Empire — worry your nostrils.

After your first qualms you feel no fear. But you see papers full of a roundup following the murder of Chadly Kastally, vice president of the city council; of an attempt to slay the Minister of Commerce, Ben Rais; of shots pegged at a police inspector; of the mayor of a nearby village rubbed out on his own doorstep; of a caravan leader cut down as he slept beside his dromedary.

Then you take a milky green pernod outside a fan - cooled cafe with a friend old and wise in these parts.

The next table seats several Arabs in gorgeous robes, avoiding alcohol, as prohibited by the Koran, and sipping American colas.

Your friend exhales a cloud of Tunisian cigarette smoke, fragrant as a roasting tire, and says:

"It's hard to see—the trouble is concealed like squirming worms under a flaky pie crust.

"Two hundred have been killed since the troubles began; surely there will be more. At least one bomb a week is delivered, and heavy stones are hurled against passing cars.

"Over there, the restaurant, see the black mark, the torn wall? A bomb was thrown, four women were badly ripped, poor things. The proprietor had no care for politics.

"These bombs, many, are for the newspapers — to show the world all is not so fine in Tunisia.

"But, off, we are ready. Although it is hard to protect a man marked. It is the wise official who sleeps with a cocked Colt under his pillow, who answers not his doorbell.

"In Tunis every main block has a machine gun tucked carefully in a high building. And in the countryside, with forts, with planes, with rapidly running armored cars, with camels, we can — in two hours — crush any movement.

"Like the Mau Maus in Nairobi, the terrorists strike mainly at their countrymen who are with us. You are safe . . . tourists are safe . . .

"To make this killing they hire others—that is easy in the East. The word assassin comes from hashassin — hashish eater. Hashish is the strong drug of the bazaar.

"Here, living in the streets, so poor, so hungry, are many with but 400 francs (about $1) each week.

"Give them 4000 ($10) and they'll kill — in any way you want. Give them 500, that is all, and they'll deliver a bomb."

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

The cherry tree in the backyard of one Sedalia home is loaded with cherries that are starting to color and the birds are watching it wishfully — what a feast they will have a little later.

But watching it also is a quaint old lady and maybe she doesn't see a thing — she probably doesn't —but the birds see her and stay out of the cherry tree — at least the woman who owns the cherry tree hopes so.

The quaint old lady is concocted out of an old dress form, an old box in which there had once been soap powder and a woman's hat, rather large, at a dizzy angle. She is a rare sight, but she never stops in her work. She was put there to watch that cherry tree and that is what she does day and night. She is Mrs. Scarecrow — or Mrs. Scarebirds — maybe, and she is taking the care of the cherry tree while her husband is working someplace else, probably in a cornfield.—H. E.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Two of four honorary degrees of doctor of law, conferred at the 86th commencement of the University of Missouri, went to former Sedalians: Dr. Walter Dandy, associate in surgery at Johns Hopkins University, graduated at M. U. in 1907 with an A. B. degree, and Theodore Gary, former chairman of the Missouri State Highway Commission.

1928

John Rudd VanDyne, son of Mrs. J. R. VanDyne, just graduated from Kemper Military School, Boonville, received three letters, one for football, another basketball and a third for baseball. He was to enter the University of Missouri in the fall of 1928.

1928

C. F. Scotten, county superintendent of schools, left for Columbia to take a summer course in the graduate school of the University of Missouri.

1928

An exceptionally large audience heard Dr. Charles M. Sheldon speak on "The Outlook For a Warless World" at the First Baptist Church. The author of the widely circled religious book, "In His Steps", came here in connection with the campaign of the Federal Council of Churches in interest of international peace.

FORTY YEARS AGO

In an endeavor to make church going popular during the hot summer months, the First Methodist Episcopal Church completed arrangements for open air services each Sunday evening. A location was secured on Fourth Street, north of the Court House. Orchestra music was provided and the preaching was from a platform erected for the purpose. Benches were provided for comfort of the worshippers.

1913

Reece Hinton, residing northeast of the city, accepted a position as salesman at the D. H. Smith Hardware Company's store on South Ohio.

1913

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shelton, St. Louis, who had been visiting relatives at Hughesville and looking after their farm properties near there, were in the city on their way home.

1913

"Dave" M. Dodge, former Sedalian, more recently general agent at Kansas City for the Louisiana Railway & Navigation Company, was here on business and to visit friends.

Pretty Hard to Swallow

Hal Boyle's Column—

In London He Finds, of All Things, a Laughing Britisher

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON (AP)—We have a mystery on our hands today. It is the strange case of the laughing Englishman.

When I set out from America for London town, I had two goals: to see fair Queen Elizabeth get her crown, and to try to catch an Englishman giving a real, roaring belly laugh.

So far as I could find in the history books, the last time an Englishman laughed out loud in public was during the first Elizabethan era, nearly 400 years ago.

There was a doubtful case in the provinces in 1889, during Queen man re-established his social stand man re-establishe his social standing by explaining it wasn't a laugh at all. He was merely indulging in a dry chuckle, which was perfectly allowable under the British ground rules for humor at that time, when suddenly he got a frog in his throat and coughed explosively. His friends let him off with a reprimand to be more careful.

But London was in such a mood of mellow happiness over the coronation, I felt sure the stolid reserve of one of John Bull's sons would crumble, and he would break out laughing. There might not be another chance like this for centuries.

When I told an old British acquaintance of my quest, he said:

"Really, old boy, you ruddy Americans are always looking for the impossible. Mind you, I don't say you won't hear a loud laugh in London. But if you do, I wager it will be an Irishman, a Scot, perhaps even a Welshman.

"But an Englishman? I must say I doubt it. One does have one's traditions, after all, doesn't one? But if it should happen—and, mind you, I don't believe it will at all —it would happen in a pub. They made the ale for the coronation a bit stronger than usual, and one cannot tell what any man will do if he gets too deep in his cups, can one?"

So I went into a pub—the Pink Griffon. Like many British taverns it is divided into two sections, the public bar and the saloon bar. The working man and his old lady drink and play darts in the public bar, and there is a partition to protect them from the rude noises and leers of the upper classes who foregather in the saloon bar.

As the average British working man earns less than 25 dollars a week, which doesn't give mhi much cause for laughter, I entered the saloon bar.

Bert, the barman, and his wife, Grace —he calls her "gryce"— made me at home at once. As a special gesture toward Anglo-American unity, Bert put a finger-nail-sized chunk of ice in my class of milk. Over here a bartender ordinarily doesn't make ice. He inherits it, and tries to keep it intact in his own lifetime so that he can pass it on down to his oldest son, when he takes over the business.

Bert looked shocked when I asked whether any of his patrons ever broke out laughing.

"We're a chuckling folk at most, and I must say now and again a chuckler wanders in," he admitted, and then turned to his wife. "Gryce, 'ave you 'eard any blokes laughing out loud in 'ere?"

"Well, I 'ope not!" she said indignantly.

There was only one other customer—a tall Englishman in a pinstriped suit at the far end of the bar. He had a straw mustache and a pipe and was, staring moodily into his beer mug.

"'e's our regular stranger, that one is," volunteered Bert. When I looked mystified, he added:

"Don't you 'ave regular strangers in America? A regular stranger is a bloke who keeps coming to the same pub, and nobody knows 'oo 'e is. Our regular stranger has been coming 'ere at the same 'our every day for years. He always 'as a pint of mild and bitter, and never says a word."

A moment later we heard a sound as of a rusty gate, creaking on a long-unused hinge. We looked and there was no doubt about it—the regular stranger was staring in the mirror and laughing. Laughing out loud.

Then, as Bert's mouth dropped open in disbelief, the man emptied his mug, put his pipe in his pocket, and silently stepped out. I started to follow him, but Bert stopped me.

"If 'e spoke to you, sir," he said, "'e wouldn't be our regular stranger any more, would 'e?"

Well, that is the strange case of the laughing Englishman. Who he was, what made him laugh aloud, history will never know.

"Yes, I 'ave to admit he did laugh," Bert said, and added pleadingly:

"Look, guv'nor, 'ave a gin and tonic on me. But don't blow it around, what you just saw 'ere, will you? I don't want my plyce to get a bad nyme."

Tipton St. Andrews School Graduates 16

TIPTON — Graduation exercises for the 16 eighth grade graduates of St. Andrew's School were held in church, Sunday, May 31, at 2:30 p. m.

The ceremonies began with the closing of the May devotions at the Altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The boys were then received into the Holy Name Society, and the girls into the Blessed Virgin Sodality, after which the children renewed their baptismal vows. The Rev. Breit, who presided, addressed the class and awarded the diplomas to:

Diane Fischer, Alphonse Hainen, Joe Ed Hartman, Kenneth Hartman, Donald Hoff, Edna Mae Imhoff, Cecil Knipp, Peggy Knipp, Della Koechner, Stanley Luebbering, Ronald Orschein, Daniel Oligschlaeger, Shirley Salzman, Rita Verlinden, James Wolf, Paul Wolf.

The ceremonies closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

Bunceton Farmer Found Dead Under Trailer

BUNCETON, Mo. (AP) — Will F. Wolfrum, 70, was found dead yesterday under an overturned trailer on his farm east of here. He had been hauling dirt to fill a low spot.

The farmer's wife found the body when Wolfrum did not come in to lunch at the usual hour.

It is believed the earth-filled trailer overturned when the farmer unhitched it from a tractor.

State Gasoline Tax In March: $2,832,296

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The state's 3-cent gasoline tax brought in $2,832,295 during the month of March, the State Highway Department reported today.

The figure brings the total for the first three months of 1953 to $8,258,968 on net sales of 275,288,090 gallons of gas. In the first three months of last year total gallons were 276,788,515 with the tax then only two cents per gallon.

Total March collections were $3,140,944, but $208,648 was refunded under farm and other exemptions.

"It Pays to Play"

A Small Down Payment Can Make You A Home-Owner!

And sometimes we can help to arrange for that small payment. A home of your own will make an inheritance for your children; will make you independent in your old age; will give you a basis of credit in time of need.

So, today, invest in a home where you can enjoy possession while you are paying for it. Sedalia is certain for a large growth in the months to come. Several industrial plants are now seeking locations here. Be wise...be thrifty...and you'll be a home-owner!

See my listings of homes and farms in my regular ad on the real estate page of this edition.

TELEPHONE OPERATORS NEEDED For Work in ST. LOUIS COUNTY

Good paying permanent jobs are now open for girls at the telephone company offices in Webster Groves, Kirkwood, Overland and other suburbs of St. Louis.

Few women have more important, more interesting work than that of the switchboard operator. No experience is necessary — we pay you while you learn.

You'll earn $174.00 a month during your initial training period of two to four weeks. Imediately after training, you can earn as much as $192.00 with regular increases to $257.00 monthly including premium payments.

Drop in and talk with Mrs. Watson, our chief operator at the Sedalia central office. She'll be glad to tell you more about these fascinating, well paid jobs.

COUNTY COURT PETTIS COUNTY
By J. V. KESTERSON,
Presiding Judge.

"I, the undersigned county clerk of Pettis County, hereby certify that the foregoing was approved by the county court of said county by an order of record on the 4th day of June, 1953.

"In Testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said county this 4th day of June, 1953.

(Seal) J. H. GREEN, County Clerk.

RESOLUTION NO. 105

A RESOLUTION declaring it necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Sunset Drive for the purpose of constructing and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of Sunset Drive from the north curb line of West Broadway, thence north to the south curb line of West Fifth Street, all public streets within the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, finds, deems and declares to be necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Sunset Drive from the north curb line of West Broadway, thence north to the south line of West Fifth Street, for the purpose of and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of said Sunset Drive from the north curb line of West Broadway, thence north to the south curb line of West Fifth Street, all public streets within the said City of Sedalia, according to the plans and specifications to be prepared by the City Engineer of said City, and to be on file with the City Clerk of said City on or before the 8th day of June, 1953.

SECTION 2. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the curbing and guttering herein provided for shall include all curb and gutters and all returns of said curb and gutter at all intersections of streets and alleys, if any.

SECTION 3. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City Engineer of said City of Sedalia shall prepare plans and specifications for said work and improvement together with an estimate of the cost thereof, and shall file the same with the City Clerk of said City of Sedalia on or before the 8th day of June, 1953.

SECTION 4. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the cost of said improvement shall be paid by special assessment against the lots and lands fronting or abutting on either side of said part of Sunset Drive, a public street within said City as aforesaid, to be so improved and on said improvements being completed, special tax bills shall be issued against said lots and lands chargeable with the cost of said improvement, and that the cost of bringing said part of said Sunset Drive to the established grade shall be included in the special assessment for the paying for and bringing of said street to the established grade and curbing and guttering all that part of said Sunset Drive in the City of Sedalia, in manner and form as herein set forth.

SECTION 5. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution be published for seven (7) consecutive insertions in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, a Daily newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said City of Sedalia, Missouri.

PASSED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, on this 18th day of May, 1953.

Missouri History—

Shopping Was Easy When The Store Came to the Farm

THE PEDDLER could bring forth from his wagon something to interest every member of the farm family.

The hooves of the peddler's horse clattered over the cobbled streets from warehouse to warehouse along the St. Louis waterfront. Behind the horse was drawn an ancient squeaking wagon, soon to become a shining store of brooms, pots, pans, medicines, trinkets and calico for sale to Missourians in the back country where there were as yet few stores.

The arrival of this wagon and the picturesque Yankee peddler was an exciting event to the people on the farms and in the villages of the interior, for the peddler offered a welcome interlude in the monotony of country life.

Missourians enjoyed bargaining with these strangers, though peddlers were sometimes characters of suspicion, being accused of all sorts of chicanery, especially by the more settled village merchants. Farmers on isolated homesteads were eager to buy goods and to hear the latest news from other regions. When trade lagged in one locality it was a simple matter for the peddler to move on to greener fields.

Traveling merchants of the early 19th century did much to further the settlement of Missouri by furnishing the few necessities and luxuries desired by settlers before the influx of immigrants made permanent stores profitable.

The peddler needed only a horse and wagon and a few dollars ready cash to buy merchandise on credit and begin his trek to the West. He could travel perhaps six to twenty miles a day and often took an entire summer to cover his territory.

Another kind of peddler followed the rivers of Missouri, loading boats with a stock of bacon, flour, whiskey, furniture, and notions. These floating stores remained in one place until the stock was sold out, or, if the trade was slow, easily moved downstream to another village. When he had sold his cargo, the river peddler disposed of his flatboat too and returned home by steamer. Some of these merchants were observed as late as 1833.

When merchandising took on a more permanent form, storekeepers paid less attention to competition from the transient peddlers. They tried instead to win the itinerant's wholesale business. Kerr and Guild at Jackson, Missouri, in 1826 advertised a shipment of goods recently purchased in the East and invited peddlers in the southern part of the state to call and examine the stock.

The wave of immigration after the 1820s spelled doom for the roving peddler and his wagon full of trinkets. In more thickly populated areas the settled businessman had the advantage because of his larger stock of goods, his greater willingness to grant credit and to take farm products in exchange for merchandise, and his better acquaintance with the people of the neighborhood.

Office Beauty

Save Pin Curls For Homework

By Alicia Hart
NEA Beauty Editor

Career girls, don't you agree that something shoddy is done to a girl's looks when she makes a beauty parlor of her desk? Girls who wear pin curls, even when supposedly hidden under a kerchief, apply nail polish, or in any other way attend to their grooming at their desks, are doing their looks no favor.

It is, after all, not only the final impression one makes after beautifying that counts. It's how well we keep these things hidden. A glamorous girl never brings her grooming routines out in the open. She gives an impression of being effortlessly lovely.

Furthermore, this office primping detracts from the attractive feminine atmosphere that career girls, in a crisp, refreshing way, can bring to the offices in which they work. Each career girl who does it contributes to the dissolution of this atmosphere.

By all means, keep as complete a beauty kit as you need at your office. But when you're ready to use it, take it to the ladies' room. Pin curls, however, are best done at home, since you can't stay long enough in the ladies' room for them to dry.

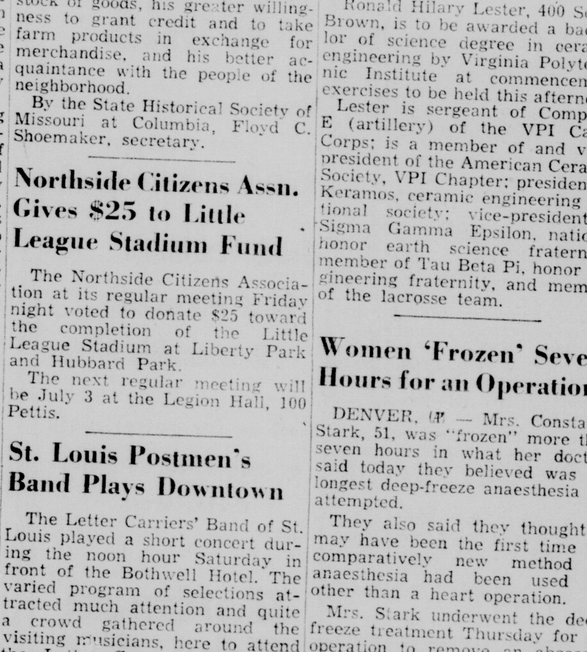
Women 'Frozen' Seven Hours for an Operation

DENVER, (AP) — Mrs. Constance Stark, 51, was "frozen" more than seven hours in what her doctors said today they believed was the longest deep-freeze anaesthesia yet attempted.

They also said they thought it may have been the first time the comparatively new method of anaesthesia had been used for other than a heart operation.

Mrs. Stark underwent the deep-freeze treatment Thursday for an operation to remove an abcessed portion of liver. A saddle horn horse fell on her Feb. 15.



YOU SMOKE THAT THING?—Yes, that is a pipe, and a prize winner at that. Mrs. Elizabeth Weistrop, New York City, the housewife sculptress, won $1000. The pipe was entered in a national contest sponsored by a pipe manufacturer. The bowl of the pipe is in the rooster's puffed-up chest and the stem runs along the tail feathers. The prize money will be used to buy a home in the country for Mrs. Weistrop, her two children and her husband, an ex-G.I. working his way through law school.

Some Believe Reuther May Be President

WHEELING, W. V. June 6 (AP)—Walter Philip Reuther, expert machinist and product of the machine age, is as implacably efficient as a piston.

To the many worlds where he now moves, Reuther looks chrome-bright, tireless, tough and unswerving. He has driven at an early age to a pinnacle of American labor, the presidency of the CIO. He also is president of the United Automobile Workers.

His biographers, friendly or hostile, seldom fail to weigh the possibility that some day he may be sitting in the White House. In the boiling arena of organized labor, he is admired in many quarters, ridiculed in a few, feared in some, respected in most. In none is he ignored.

All this impresses his parents very little, if at all.

When you ask Valentine Reuther how he felt when he heard his son had been elected prsident of the CIO, he says quietly:

"Why, I was rather pleased about that."

The Reuthers are warm, friendly people, tall, vital and sturdy. They are very German. Their pride in the children spreads equally over the four sons and one daughter. They still live in the big frame house on the hill, outside Wheeling, where their children grew up.

The family album snapshots of Walter are a slow-moving story about an intensely normal boy . . . in a bathing suit with his brothers at the beach . . . a prideful youth in the ice cream pants of the '20s (Reuther is 45 now) . . . in a basketball jersey, sticking his chest out . . .

Any girls? No, no girls. "He said they were too much bother." What did he like to eat? His parents rocked with laughter. "Everything—he was just like a goat."

"He was a pretty good student, but so was Victor. They all got books out of the library."

Still, they said, Walter was no bookworm. His mother wouldn't let him play football but he was good at tennis, basketball and baseball. "And he was mischievous. He and Roy were always getting into something."

Only one or two incidents seemed to foreshadow the hard-driving man who presides today over Solidity House in Detroit.

Reuther heard that an apprenticeship was soon to open in a Wheeling factory. He told his mother he wanted to quit school to take the job. She reminded him he had only a little more than a year before graduation.

"By that time," she says he answered, "the chance will be gone. I can't wait. I've got to get started."

The young man is still in a hurry.

Valentine Reuther is a veteran trade unionist, imbued with the Socialist traditions of Europe. While his boys were still young, he was organizing, holding meetings, pushing union theory.

"So naturally they got interested in some of those ideas," the father says. "They used to argue among themselves. I told them that if they were going to argue anyway, we might as well organize it—two against two—and I would be the judge."

Reuther today is a facile public speaker. What's more, in rough-and-tumble exchanges, he is as quick as a cat with answers and counterpoints.

There is a story that Reuther left Wheeling and went to Detroit because of his craving to be a labor leader.

"He went there," said his father, "because the wages were better. He put himself through college with what he earned." Reuther also sent his parents $50 a month, they said.

He was fired several times for union activity in the plants. He and his brother Victor went to Europe, bought bicycles, worked their way into the Soviet Union. They got jobs in Russian factories. Walter was made a foreman. He said what impressed him most was the intense interest of the Russian workmen in social and economic problems.

It was in the early '30s when the Reuthers came home. The tides of unionism ran swiftly those days, hastened by the first Roosevelt administration.

A photograph shows Reuther and his boss, Richard Frankensteen, disheveled and bloody, after the "Battle of the Overpass." The two were beaten up in a fracas at the Ford plant. (A motor executive says, "Some of it may have been blood, but there was a lot of catsup used to build up that picture.")

Frankensteen left the CIO in 1946. He now is vice president of a Detroit steel company.

Of Reuther, he says, "I respect and like him. We are good friends."

Reuther, he says, "has an insatiable ambition. He had to fight his way to the top, every step. He started a lot of fights in the union, and as long as necessary he kept them going."

Frankensteen calls Reuther a master salesman.

He contrasts Reuther with the late Philip Murray:

"Phil Murray was a conciliator. He commanded great affection. He was respected in such a way that few would ever want to challenge him. He seemed to have no personal ambition.

"Walter Reuther is a completely different type. He's a fighter. He's sharp as a razor, and he's ambitious. You don't have to like or dislike him, but everybody has to respect him."

Murray was what is known as a "bread and butter" labor leader. That is, he was primarily concerned with the immediate considerations of the working man—wages, hours and conditions.

Reuther is a type of "labor statesman." He has issued pronouncements on every known national issue, however remote from the immediate interests of labor.

For example, in the General Motors strike of 1946, Reuther argued that the company could increase wages without raising its prices on cars.

One of his aides says Murray sharply told him: "You get the increase in wages. That's your job. What the company does is none of your business."

Reuther never concedes this. He argues, constantly, that labor cannot profit at the expense of the rest of the people. He says, "We must progress with the community."

He works an average of 16 hours a day. His luncheon, in the office, is a bowl of fresh fruit and a glass of milk. He does not smoke and seldom drinks, except for a rare glass of beer. He seldom relaxes. The nearest thing to it for him is woodworking.

To meet, he is the soul of affability. He seems to enjoy kicking around arguments over economic and social theory. Words gush out, effective and to the point.

He seems not to be a dictator in his methods. An aide said Reuther will concede, and make a change, if he can be convinced. He is working more closely with the other top officers in the CIO than Murray ever did.

He is married and has two small daughters. Mrs. Reuther, like her husband, has red hair but not as vivid as his.

He has regained almost complete use of the arm that was shattered by a shotgun blast. You can feel some stiffness when you shake hands with him.

His assailant shot him in his home in Detroit, firing through the kitchen window. The house is now guarded.

The man who pulled the trigger has never been caught.

First Ford Made 50 Years Ago This Month---

Sedalians First to Take Ford to Europe

Dr. Asa Heaton and Emil Bichsel Sent By Henry Ford to Tour Europe in 1914, Introducing American Car on Continent

By W. D. Agee
(Member of The Democrat News Staff)

In the early days of the country becoming motorized, the late Dr. Asa H. Heaton, who died Jan. 9, 1951 at the age of 89, at his home on West Broadway, was one of the most enthusiastic Missourians in automobiling. He was credited with bringing the first Ford automobile to Pettis County. In fact, he was one of the earliest car owners to get Sedalia and surrounding area familiarized with the automobile and its advantages in transportation.

His first car was secured in 1901 and his endeavors in furtherance of motor transportation were such that they reached far and wide and Henry Ford, automobile builder of Detroit, Mich., over a decade later taking cognizance of his promotion, arranged a European trip of several capitals and countries abroad to introduce the new Ford.

Dr. Heaton's Ford goes on board ship for the tour of Europe. This photo was taken as the car was being hoisted aboard a ship at New York.

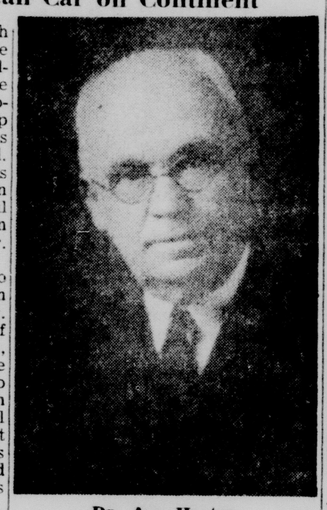
"Touring Europe in a Ford" was the slogan adopted by Dr. Heaton and his traveling companion, Emil Bichsel, who went abroad on an all-expense tour paid for by Mr. Ford.

Dr. Heaton was not familiar to any great extent with foreign languages so he arranged with Mr. Bichsel, member of the firm of Bichsel Bros., (Emil and George),

The Ford assigned for their use watchmakers and jewelry firm, to accompany him on the trip, which was made about 1914. Mr. Bichsel was a linguist, being conversant with several languages, and his selection, aside from being a friend and affable traveling associate, was as an interpreter.

was hoisted aboard ship and sent across the Atlantic's wide expanse at the time Dr. Heaton and Mr. Bichsel sailed and was in readiness for their tour on their reaching a foreign port.

Arriving abroad, the two Sedalians started their introductory round-up. Besides the capitals of England, France, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland, they visited other large cities, villages and chateaus as well as many of noted resorts and watering places. They would roll leisurely along over cobblestones and ancient roadways, through mountains, valleys and countryside, as they were in no rush trip — their purpose being to extol the Ford as a convenient, efficient and long distance transportation method.



Dr. Asa Heaton

At all stops, crowds would surround them and quizzicaly interrogate them about the car and its capabilities, cost of purchase and upkeep, which was then, and even now, an important factor. The onlookers were amazed and much interested. Their cordiality was spontaneous.

Now small cars, limousines, station wagons, buses and huge trucks clog the highways most everywhere and from the outlay of a few hundred dollars for a used car well into the thousands for classy convertibles, sports models, or heavier types of passenger cars, one may roll across the paved ribbons of highways reaching into even remote regions that years ago were considered waste lands.

They, too, carry owners to and from cities, large and small, and at not too enormous an outlay.

In their European tour Dr. Heaton and Mr. Bichsel, of course, met obstacles at times but they were undismayed and with little delays ran well on schedule over their outlined journey.

After numerous countries were visited, Mr. Bichsel found opportunity was at hand to return to America on the maiden voyage of the later ill-fated, Lusitania, a majestic and luxuriously furnished steamer of the Cunard Line that then was considered the finest vessel afloat. On May 17, 1915 this ship, bound from New York to England, was attacked and sunk by a German submarine off Old Head of Kinsale at the southeast tip of Ireland.

Mrs. George Bichsel, 624 West Fourth, sister-in-law of Emil Bichsel, had several pictures of the tourists while they were on their journey and states Mr. Bichsel visited all the countries contemplated except Scotland, giving up his trip there to take passage on the Lusitania.

After months of touring, the Ford was left in Europe. The Ford in which the trip was made was a four cylinder car with 12-horsepower motor.

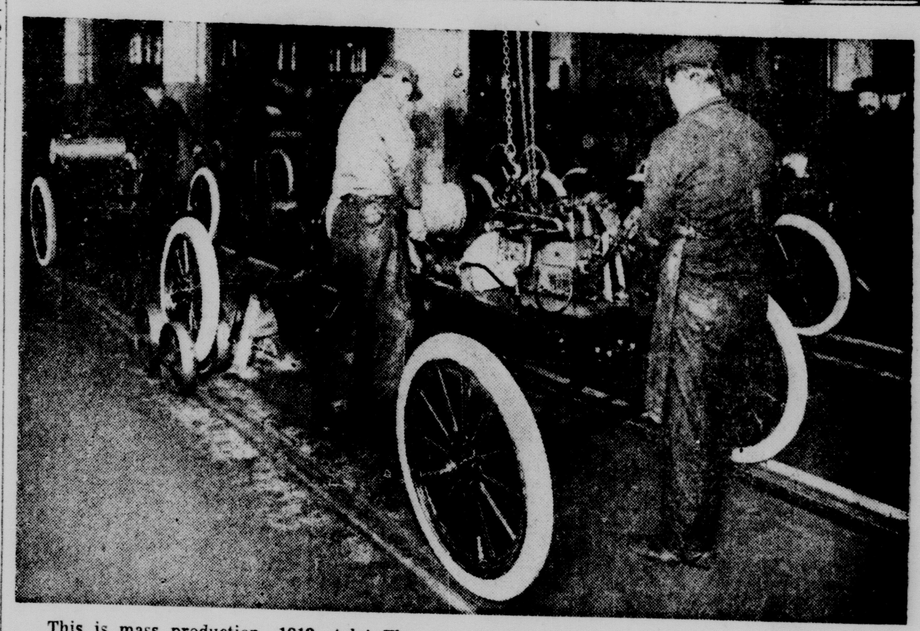
Dr. Heaton, in later years, had several different makes of automobiles but consistently had words of praise for the Ford.

Among Ford dealers in Sedalia will be recalled Dr. Heaton, then Coleman Bros., Henderson Motor Co., Ed. Bosserman, Cameron Motor Co. Fred M. Ross, Phil Russell, Harriman Motor Co., John Ryan, and Henry Engle, and on up to the present agency, W. A. Smith Motors Inc.

Mr. Smith, native of Warrensburg, came to Sedalia five years ago from Kansas City since which time he had conducted the Ford agency.

Just before they sailed for Europe, Dr. Heaton and Mr. Bichsel posed for this picture, while seated in their Ford, in front of the office of the New York Herald.

The Model T was born Oct. 1, 1908, and when the last of more than 15,000,000 was produced 19 years later it had become the most famous car in history. Henry Ford's specifications were simple: the T was easy to operate and repair, low priced and durable.



This is mass production—1913 style! The moving assembly line, basis of mass production, was introduced by Henry Ford that spring. In August, the principle was applied to the chassis assembly. One month later, when this photo was taken at Ford Motor Company's Highland Park, Mich., plant, Model T assembly time had been cut from 14 hours to 93 minutes

Ford Company Observes Its Golden Anniversary

DETROIT (AP) — One of the most fabulous family - owned industrial empires the world has known — the Ford Motor company — observes its golden anniversary this year.

It was in the spring of 1903 that a middle - aged man with a "crazy idea" begged friends and acquaintances to join him in a new business venture. Most of them laughed at him, but twelve were persuaded to put together $28,000 of a proposed $100,000 capitalization. In the next fifteen years they collected 100 million dollars in dividends.

The man with the "crazy idea," of course, was Henry Ford, an obscure 40-year-old mechanic destined to become one of the world's most renowned industrial figures.

Today the company he organized has assets in excess of 1½ billion dollars. Its destinies are directed by a third generation of the Ford family. Henry Ford II is president of the company; two other grandsons, Benson and William, are active in administration of the far-flung empire.

Highlights of a series of events planned to commemorate the company's fiftieth anniversary will be dedication of a 50 - million - dollar engineering and research center in near-by Dearborn, Mich., June 16, the date the company was incorporated in 1903. Company dealers throughout the United States will hold open house in June.

Miss Anita Parks, Kenneth Farley Are Wed Sunday

Miss Anita Louise Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Parks, 1615 South Carr, became the bride of Mr. C. Kenneth Farley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farley, 1601 West Ninth in a double ring ceremony at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, May 31. The wedding took place at the First Baptist Church before a setting of two candelabra holding 16 pale blue candles and bouquets of white gladioli and blue daisies. The Rev. T. W. Croxton, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. C. C. DeLozier at the organ played a program of wedding music and accompanied Mr. Ed Brummet, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Viebrock, cousin of the bride, wore a pale yellow suit with navy accessories and carried white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue suit, navy accessories and a small white hat. She carried a white Bible which was adorned with a white orchid and shower streamers.

Mr. Raymond Bailey served Mr. Farley as best man and ushers were Mr. J. B. Crain, Mr. Charles McMullin, Mr. Fred Viebrock and Mr. Bill Booth.

Mrs. Parks chose for her daughter's wedding a light colored suit mingled with navy complimented with navy accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Farley, was attired in a two-piece silk shantung dress with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining room. The table was covered with a white net cloth and centered with a square four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Miss Rose Marie Reed was in charge of the guest book and gifts.

Those serving at the reception were: Mrs. Irvin Parks, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Rose Marie Reed, Mrs. Robert Sims and Mrs. Jerry Iuchs.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Smith-Cotton High School.

A rehearsal dinner was given for the wedding party Saturday evening at the home of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. A. H. Bratten, 512 West Fifth, preceding the rehearsal.

The dinner was served buffet style. Mrs. Bratten was assisted by Mrs. John Schulte, Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Herbert Pittmueller, Chicago, both aunts of the bridegroom.

Mrs. C. Kenneth Farley who, before her marriage last Sunday afternoon, was Miss Anita Louise Parks. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Parks, 1615 South Carr. Mr. Farley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farley, 1601 West Ninth.

Your Wardrobe

by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

Are you taking a MID-SUMMER vacation? Just don't have enough fresh clothes to take. Most any place you go, you can use an unlined summer suit. Make sure the skirt is well fitted so it can double as a separate with a chic blouse and straw belt with matching shoes. A printed voile or nylon dress with shoes dyed to match some color in the print and a bunch of flowers high on your shoulder will go to afternoon cards, to dinner and dancing too. A dark broadcloth sun dress with jacket can go from lunch until midnight. Have plenty of summer jewelry to help change your costume. A full skirt, either gathered or flared, with a peasant blouse is perfect for a casual afternoon and a picnic supper. Concentrate on these items plus your swim suit, shorts or whatever clothes you'll need for sports. You will have a complete wardrobe—yet you will be traveling light, which helps make any trip a pleasure.

Miss Zulauf Exchanges Vows With H. Bell Jr.

Miss Zelia Orne Zulauf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Zulauf, Tipton, and Mr. Howard L. Bell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Bell, Sr., Independence, were married at the First Baptist Church of Tipton, on May 28, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Elwood G. Kelley read the double ring service before curved arches of burning tapers and a background of greenery and large pink satin bows.

Mrs. Stanley Palmer played a program of piano music as the guests assembled. She also accompanied Mr. Willis Pettigrew, Raytown, who sang "I Love Thee," by Greig and "If I Could Tell You," by Firestone.

The tapers were lighted by Miss Carolyn Jane Zulauf and Miss Marian Zulauf, Brookline, cousins of the bride. They wore identical floor length dresses of white organdy over pink taffeta.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with an overskirt of Chantilly lace, a fitted bodice, long sleeves and a full floor length skirt. The yoke of illusion was outlined in the pattern of the lace. The long sleeves were pointed over the hands and buttoned with tiny satin buttons. Her tiered finger tip length veil fell from a Juliet cap of lace matching her gown. She carried a white Bible covered with a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Mary McElhaney, Appleton City, maid of honor, wore a gown of white organdy over pink taffeta. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Ann Zulauf, cousin of the bride, and Miss Nola Lee Christian, Windsor, wore identical dresses of pink organdy over pink taffeta. They carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. John L. Bell, Independence, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Eugene Johnson, Greenridge, Mr. Don Spencer, and Mr. Charles Pippenger, Raytown, Mr. Charles Harrison, Independence, all fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Zulauf chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue dress of silk shantung. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of navy blue crepe. Both wore corsages of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church annex. Music was furnished during the reception by Prof. Marion Davies, piano, Prof. Hugh B. Williams, violin, and Miss Barbara Utt, cello. Professors Davies and Williams are faculty members of the music department of Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

For traveling the bride wore a silk shantung suit of navy print and after a short honeymoon spent on the Lake of the Ozarks, the newlyweds will be at home at 205 East Grover St., Warrensburg.

Miss Loretta Miller Becomes Bride Of Tom Colantonio In Church Ceremony

Before an altar setting of orange blossoms, red roses and large green ferns, Miss Loretta Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Miller, of Tipton, became the bride of Mr. Tom Colantonio, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Colantonio, North Kansas City, Saturday morning, May 30 at 9:30 o'clock at St. Andrew's Church in Tipton. The Rev. Benedict Harter performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sheer white nylon tulle and imported French lace over wedding ring satin, fashioned with a wide curved neckline, edged with a narrow band of lace and a tiny row of pleated tulle. The fitted basque type bodice of tucked tulle and lace fastened down the back with tiny satin buttons. The long smooth fitting sleeves tapered over the hands and were edged with lace and pleated tulle. The very bouffant skirt of gathered layers of tulle over the satin was worn over hoops and crinoline and edged with a wide dust ruffle of pleated tulle and lace and swept into a full aisle wide train. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a close fitting lace shell trimmed with irredescent sequins and seed pearls. She wore pearl earrings and a single strand of pearls. Her arm bouquet was of white roses.

Mrs. Bill Moss, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of pink nylon net and shifflie lace fashioned with a bodice of lace with a shirred net stole. The bouffant skirt of lace was fashioned redingote style with rows of dainty ruffles down the front. She wore a matching tulle half hat with a dainty nose veil.

Mrs. Jim Boulware and Miss Ruth Bock, were bridesmaids and wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor in aqua. They all wore pearl earrings and a strand of pearls which was a gift of the bride. They carried identical arm bouquets of roses.

Flower girls were little Misses Lynne Moss and Janice Miller, nieces of the bride, and wore floor length gowns of yellow net over taffeta and hats to match. They wore tiny seed pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride, and carried little white baskets filled with rose petals.

Mr. Frank Nowak, of Iron Mountain, Mich., uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Mr. Bill Moss, the bride's brother-in-law and Mr. Jim Boulware were groomsmen.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress fashioned with a stole and with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories and her corsage was an orchid. The grandmothers wore corsages of red roses.

Bobby Miller and Jim Veulemans were mass servers and Mr. Arnold Miller, Mr. Tom Knipp, Mr. Norbert Knipp and Mr. Al Forgotte acted as ushers.

At 11:00 o'clock a breakfast was served to the wedding party at Crystal Cafe and at 12 noon a dinner was served to about 125 relatives and friends at St. Andrew's hall. The hall was decorated with colors of the wedding party. Lighted tapers and bowls of yellow rose buds decorated each table.

Supper was served at 5 o'clock and a dance was held at 9 o'clock at Kueper Center.

Relatives and friends attended from Iron Mountain, Mich., Liberty, Kansas City, Pilot Grove, Otterville, Syracuse, and Sedalia.

After a two week's trip Mr. and Mrs. Colantonio will be at home in Kansas City, Mr. Colantonio being with the Ford Aircraft Company there.

Answer Roll With One Dish Meal Recipe

Use wire clothes hangers to make novel wall decoration for a bedroom, nursery or kitchen.

The hangers bent in the shape of butterflies, then painted soft rose color and tacked on the pale blue or pink wall of daughter's room gives added interest whether the walls are painted or papered.

Circus animals can also be fashioned in outline with the hangers, painted bright colors and arranged on the nursery wall.

Sunshine Minstrels Enjoy Picnic at Park

The Missouri Pacific Sunshine Minstrels held a picnic at Liberty Park Thursday night, June 4.

The picnic was for families of the minstrel group who have just completed a very successful season with their benefit show.

The tables were loaded with fried chicken, baked ham and other picnic foods prepared by the wives of the group. The supper was followed with singing by the men.

The minstrels plan to have a completely new show this fall and will be open for engagements at that time. They have one engagement yet for this year and will present their show at 8 p.m. June 12 at Smithton for the Smithton Homemakers Club.

PLANNING Your WEDDING by Pfeiffer's

THE GIFTS

Custom dictates that those who receive invitations to the wedding reception send presents, and these are sent directly to the bride. She writes notes of thanks at once, if possible. If the gifts are displayed at the reception, cards should be removed.

The bride and groom remember their attendants with gifts such as cigarette cases, compacts, costume jewelry, etc. The bride and groom exchange lasting gifts.

Pfeiffer's, your wedding florist, furnishes all the necessary items for the wedding such as: candelabra, aisle carpet, grass mats, palms, arch, kneeling bench, punch bowl, cake knife, etc.

Evelyn Taylor Recently Weds At Barnett

In a candlelight ceremony at the Barnett Union Church Saturday evening, May 23, Miss Evelyn Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Taylor, Barnett, and niece of Miss Cora Taylor, 403 East Fifth, became the bride of Mr. Gene Bellamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bellamy, also of Barnett. The Rev. Theodore Davis performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 o'clock as the couple stood before the archway banked with with green foliage and white flowers. The two seven-branch candelabra were lighted by the bride's twin sisters, Misses Arlene and Darlene Taylor, who wore dresses of light blue.

The traditional wedding marches were played by Miss Elizabeth Taylor, also a sister of the bride. She accompanied Mr. Myron Taylor, brother of the bride, as he sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white suit complimented with navy accessories and a corsage of orchid carnations.

Miss Carol Sue Taylor was her sister's only attendant. She wore pink with navy accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mr. Paul Bellamy served his brother as best man. Mr. Herbert Taylor, brother of the bride, and M. Norman Kays were ushers.

Both mothers chose navy dresses with black accessories and their corsages were red carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with 100 guests present. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Donald Rains, Mrs. Tommy Taylor and Mrs. Herbert Taylor assisted with the serving.

Mrs. Bellamy is a graduate of Eldon High School and attended Central Business College, Sedalia. She has been employed as a stenographer for the International Shoe Company at Eldon for the past three years.

Mr. Bellamy attended school at Latham and served with the armed forces for two years, one of which was spent in Korea. He is now employed at General Motors, Kansas City.

They are now at home at 3030 Tracy, Kansas City.

Mrs. Gene Bellamy who, before her marriage to Mr. Bellamy, was Miss Evelyn Taylor of Barnett. She is the niece of Miss Cora Taylor, 403 East Fifth.

Calhoun Couple Celebrates 50th Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. George Carney celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, May 31, at their home in Calhoun with open house.

Refreshments were served to 125 friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Carney are the parents of six children: Josh, Calhoun; Raymond, Lincoln; Richard, Kansas City; Mrs. Elmer Follmer, Warsaw; Mrs. Clyde Bullock, Windsor, and Mrs. Warren Nichols, New Mexico. All were present except Mrs. Nichols, who telephoned her parents.

Friends Surprise E. W. Oswalds On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Oswald, 1707 South Park, were very much surprised on May 29, their 25th wedding anniversary, when friends began to arrive at their home.

Mrs. LeRoy Horn, mother of Mrs. Oswald, had issued invitations for the afternoon, and had made a large silver wedding cake with the lettering, "Everett and Bessie."

The table was centered with a bowl of red roses on a lace centerpiece and on enther end of the table was a large punch bowl from which punch was served with the cake.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Baker, Mrs. Elizabeth Shultz, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Long, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Long, and Lewis Oswald, all of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schneitter, Warrensburg; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Roberts of Knob Noster; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Horn of Sedalia, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Shaw of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Florence Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Oswald, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Schlicting, Miss Roselee Mountjoy, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woolery, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mountjoy, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nichols, all of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sooter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Snider all of Kansas City.

Those invited but unable to attend were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Keneth Stoner, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fowler, Miss Ruth Rains and Miss Ruby Rains all of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald received many lovely gifts.

Pictures were taken during the afternoon, of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald cutting the cake.

Beauty Blend
Color Choices For Gray Hair

By Alicia Hart
NEA Beauty Editor

If you've recently had faded hair tinted a solid silver or steel gray, you may be asking yourself what make-up and clothes colors you can now wear.

The answer, in general, is to continue wearing the same colors that were good on you before your hair began to turn.

This doesn't mean the shades will be identical. You may need deeper or more intense shades of the same colors that you wore before.

Pick up your eye color more consciously than you ever did, especially for blue eyes that may have faded. Colors near your face that bring out eye beauty are the colors to look for.

Match foundation and powder to your skin tone, though blondes may wish to add a little deeper warmth. Former brunets should beware of yellowish and so-called "suntan" shades. They are wise, instead, to strive for greater clarity. Former redheads should stay with the creamy ivory they always used, avoiding yellows or pinks.

All types should avoid lipsticks containing yellow or orange. In clothes, all types should avoid reds or greens that are yellowish. Beige should not be yellowish. Grays should be really gray, not beige-gray. Black may be very depressing on you unless enlivened with an intense color that brings out your eye and skin beauty.

Pusan Thefts Troublesome

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — U. S. Army port officials say that cargo pilfering in the important southwest Korea port of Pusan is of "serious proportions." Korean cargo handlers were notified by the Eighth Army recently that pilfering is a matter of "vital concern" to the Allied command.

The statement, signed by Col. Ralph B. Garretson, commander of the Seventh Transportation Unit, answered a protest by the Korean cargo checkers union into the fatal shooting Feb. 21 of a Korean cargo handler by an American soldier.

Garden-by-Garden Report of Garden Tour Held on Thursday by Garden Clubs

Beautiful Flower Beds Seen In Day-Long Trek of Sedalia

By Hazel Lang
(Member of The Democrat News Staff)

Starting out with a list of Sedalia gardens to visit at 10 o'clock in the morning and ending up at the last garden at nearly 5 o'clock in the evening isa full day of gardens on a hot day, even for people who like gardens. In fact some of the garden lovers didn't even venture out, but they missed something by not going, even if every gardener did apologize for not having the flowers they had last week or the flowers they would have next week —it was just at that in-between time when gardens are not at their best.

The first garden visited was that of Mrs. Theodore Gardner, 721 West Fourth, whose dog greeted us first and his barking brought Mrs. Gardner to the yard. The annuals were showing themselves, each trying to outdo the other, all over the place but the radiance of her garden will come a little later. The gayest spot in the garden was the petunias that bordered the alley.

"What is that?" someone asked pointing to a low growing plant with shiny leaves.

"That", said Mrs. Gardner, who has a very appropriate name for a flower grower, "is plumbago. It is a little blue flower and very satisfactory." It is satisfactory, too, growing all over everything if allowed to do as it pleases.

Snapdragons in all colors were blooming at the side of the Gardner home, plants that held over from last year and very pretty.

The next stop was at the home of Mrs. H. L. Hodges, 1503 West Third. The beauty spot in her garden was the large clump of Crimson Glow sweet william. Along the fence the sweetpeas were blooming in all the delicate shades. Someone once told us that sweetpeas should be planted so the row runs north and south but Carrie Hodges' sweetpeas probably never heard that because they were doing just grand on a fence running east and west.

There was honeysuckle along the north and south fence, perennials in front of it, many in bloom, roses on the opposite side of the walk, Oregon hollyand crepe myrtle, but her speciality is phlox and it is not yet in bloom. A couple of weeks more and her show will be starting. She uses Chlordane to keep those funny little orange bugs away from her phlox.

We walked on down the alley to the home of Mrs. Fred Kueck, 1406 West Fourth, and went in her back gate. There were roses and delphinums, coral bells, astilbe, double poppies in all colors, geum, a bed of old fashioned flowers, the rose red flowers of the saline and the purple blue of the larkspur, columbines, really red violas, cupids darts pansies and even nasturiums in bloom. In fact there was hardly a thing that grows, especially a flower that will grow in Missouri, that is not in her garden.

At the home of Mrs. Gilbert Jones, 1401 West Fourth, (and by this time we were going from place to place in Mrs. H. L. Netherton's car instead of walking from garden to garden) was a yard that would be a good place to spend a summer vacation — that is — if rest was what you wanted—along with the beauty of the garden. In the first place it was shady, and almost as if it had been brought in from the woods was a pool built of natural rocks from the great outdoors with flowers and vines growing all around in natural effect. A fence divided the yard and on the other side of the fence, out in the sun, were the roses gay with bloom. Beside the house were huge evergreens that almost reached to the roof.

Roses stole the show at the home of Mrs. P. L. Strole, for everywhere were roses. Her home is at 618 South Barrett and a large arbor, red with Blaze roses form the entrance to the rose garden. Sure there were hybrid teas, florabundas, all kinds of roses but the unusual thing about the garden was the row of fan shaped trellises. Each trellis had a climbing rose and each climber is an everblooming rose. So the Strole's will not just have climbers in bloom now, although the first burst of roses in abundance is past, but they will have roses in bloom on their neat white trellises all year until frost. They have Thor, Crimson Glory, June Morn, Orange Everglow, Aloho, King Midas, Summer Snow and Jardin de Flores.

One of the most beautiful and most popular is the Peace rose, and the Stroles have it in three forms, the hybrid tea, the climber and the tree rose.

Beyond the arbor, between the rose garden and the house, is the picnic nook, secluded by high growing shrubs. There are all kinds of flowers growing in the garden that surrounds the picnic area and one of the flowers growing there is a clump of sweet rocket.

One day Mr. Strole hurried into the house to call his wife, "Mary, come quick," he said, "There is a humming bird in the fire cracker."

Mrs. Strole couldn't imagine what he meant but she followed him out to see. He pointed to the humming bird in the sweet rocket.

"Fire cracker" she said, "That is sweet rocket."

"Well," he replied a little taken back, "I knew it was some kind of fireworks."

Right back of the Strole home is the home of Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, 1600 West Seventh, with a garden rambling on back to a picnic area and rose garden. All kinds of flowers are growing there from roses of many varieties to wild flowers. Paths that look like they might be found in a woodland lead all through the garden and one of the things that adds to the attractiveness of the garden is the rustic rail fence, the timer of natural wood laid one upon another. Mr. Ferguson has something special — the smallest of all roses, only six inches high in red and pink.

Back of the Ferguson home were dozens and dozens of house plants of all kinds and the dining room window is a mass of African violets.

Across the street from the Ferguson home is the garden of Mrs. C. L. Carter, 700 South Beacon. In the Carter garden one of the most unusual things is the foxtail lily which grows high with a long spike of yellow blossoms. Of course the blossoms are not always yellow, they are of different colors, but this one was yellow. Here grew the swamp iris, too, and matrimony vine with its little purple flowers and berries. On the fence, too, were the pink and white American Beauty climber, and other roses, there was bittersweet and wild clematis. The wild clematis brings back memories to Mrs. Carter because she dug up the clematis when she was a little girl and had gone out to gather wild greens. Another thing that probably brings back memories is the moss rose, not many of the delicate pink roses with the moss on the buds can be found any more.

On one of the large trees is evergreen bittersweet, with the wood of the vines growing into the tree trunk.

Although Mrs. W. H. Eichholz, 1622 West Broadway is touring Europe the Garden Club women toured her garden. Delphinum and lythrum, coral bells and pansies were blooming in the front and back yards and at the side of the house the roses.

The yard of Mrs. Al Schreiner that lies behind the filling station at 2700 West Broadway is surrounded by a white wall with red brick set at an angle along the top forming an attractive edge.

Willow trees that had grown from small switches stuck in the ground making a picturesque corner. A Paul Scarlet grows upon a white wagon wheel and hardy sweetpeas bloom along the wall. There were the lilies, the umbellatum and the Peruvian lily that was brought back by a friend from Peru, there was Queen Ann's lace and the loveliest flower of all that seems to be growing around the place is the little daughter of the Schreiner's, Patty. Patty has a garden, too, but she doesn't belong to the Junior Garden Club because she goes to a rural school and can't.

The home of Mrs. C. H. Joy, 1910 West Broadway, has an array of flowers growing in the stone boxes that are a part of the house in front. In the back of the home and at the side are babybreath, delphinum, lilies and many other flowers. The smell of the honeysuckle growing along the fence fills the air with fragrance.

The first thing you see as you go up the side walk into the garden of Mrs. Harold Dean, 1401 West Broadway, is roses and yellow columbine. We were just too late to see the tree with the golden chain and just too early to see the bird of paradise which, Mrs. Dean says is the wildest looking flower she has ever seen. Mrs. Dean has a blue spirea which she says is a very deep and pretty blue and a daphne which has pink blossoms. Mr. Dean, she says, has a pride and joy of his own in the yard. it is an apple tree with six kinds of apples and they all have their own particular blooms as well as fruit.

The yard of Mrs. F. W. Koenig, 1015 West Broadway, is usually full of color and people going by stop to see it. Right now, she thinks it isn't so pretty. The roses are about through blooming, things haven't come on to replace the spring flowers and it is not so lovely now but going around the house there is a rose arbor with a rose garden beyond that is very beautiful. The garden goes a long ways back and into another section where bloom the late Mr. Koenig's bargain roses. He was always looking for bargains and if he could get four roses or three roses for a dollar he bought them.

Mrs. Koenig has another something she just wouldn't part with but what to do with it she doesn't know. Her little grandson got some seed, brought them to her house, dug a hole in the ground and announced: "I plant the beans." The beans grew and whenever he comes to her house he has to see how his vine is getting along. His vine is in the way of hers and She is stringing it as best she can to the side of the trellis.

Roses play a big part in the garden of Mrs. Herbert Seifert and giving the color is the Gloria Mundi and other vivid polyanthias and florabundas. A couple of seats back in the shade make a wonderful place to ust sit and look at the well kept, beautiful garden.

When we first arrived and sat down for a few minutes a blond cocker came up to be friendly. Mrs. Netherton petted him. In a few minutes she reached down to pet him again and as she did she looked at him. "Why she said, in surprise, "This isn't the dog I was petting a few minutes ago." And it wasn't. That dog had moved on and another the same color but different looking had taken his place.

Linda Robinson, the little girl next door came over to see what was going on in the Seifert yard. She helps Mrs. Seifert grow her flowers so she naturally had to take part of the credit for the garden.

Fenced off right in front of the house is a comfortable nook for summer evening with lovely flowers growing all around, pretty white furniture and a lamp on a post.

Pinks seemed to be the favorite flower in the yard of Mrs. Ray Lippard, with a wide assortment of dazzling colors growing in two or three different places. There were sweet william, too, and cosmos. A rock garden with many kinds of flowers.

There were trees for shade and chairs for comfort. There was a red hammock swaying lazily in the breeze and as if to add a little more to the picture — there was mint for the mint julip growing in a big patch on the other side of the fence.

"There is my propagation bed" said Mrs. J. E. Bohon, 1211 South Carr, pointing to a bed on the north side of her house where she had starts of this and that growing. Mrs. Bohon is the kind of a gardener who likes to do her own starting. Sure, she likes to see a nice garden growing well, but she is most interested in what grows from the little seeds she plants. Last fall she planted her seeds, that is the last part of September which she says is the right time to plant. There were all kinds of perennials came out of those little seeds, gorgeous plants of delphinum, and everything else she planted but the foxglove — she only had one plant of foxglove — but it is a beauty. She plants the seed in a protected spot under her grapevines and the next spring she has plants. Her purple clematis with the Chatman Pink rose climber is quite a sight — and she started them both herself. She edged one of her borders with the little button feverfew that usually bushes out, thinking she would have a nice hedge for the border, but the feverfew decided it wanted to grow up instead of out and there she is with tall stately plants of feverfew about six or eight inches apart.

While Mrs. Bohon takes care of the flowers hubby plants and tends vegetables and he has a wonderful garden.

The garden of Mrs. F. I. Lawrence, 1000 West 16th, is a huge round bed that takes up most of the yard on the west side and the circle is cut off on one side by the fence. In it is found almost any kind of flower — peony bushes here and there, the gas plant, the crimson lily, annual poppies in shades of pinks and lavendars, sunflowers, the Sulphur Queen ismene lily, solomon seal, pansies, nearly any flower that grows and as you look you suddenly become conscious that this is more than a flower garden, there is sage, asparagus, tomato plants and other vegetables growing here and there in the flowers. There are other things in her yard Mrs. Lawrence is proud of, too, the bittersweet arch, the yucca the fernleaf sumac and the butterfly weed she dug up along the road, one orange and one yellow. The buckeye tree and the sweet gum tree are different.

A picnic area, complete, is hidden from view but you find it as you walk past the garden and through the large green archway.

It was only three years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wertz moved to 1715 West 14th and there wasn't anything there. Mrs. Wertz is one Garden Club woman who admits that hubby does the work, and they have done a wonderful job in the three years. Along the west side of the yard is a border of yucca plants between which is planted iris. There is a Paul Scarlet start-

Attractive Bible Garden at Home of the C. W. Smiths

Couple Also Has 'Wonder Garden' For the Children

By Hazel Lang
(Member of The Democrat News Staff)

Flowers grow in abundance in the yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, 1515 East 13th, for about a half block both west and south of the house, which is situated on the corner.

Two long stretches of peonies, one pink and one white, are at the west end of the garden, with the bushes close together and loaded with flowers. You could never miss the dozens and dozens of flowers sold by Mrs. Smith for Memorial Day.

"I've been selling flowers on Decoration Day for the past 33 years", Mrs. Smith said.

One section of the yard is in vegetables and that probably belongs to Mr. Smith, who has a small hand plow that he keeps busy running through the straight, even rows. He is a retired Missouri Pacific shopman.

The flowers are in rows, too, many of them. Long rows of lilies, thick as can be, and huge sturdy plants, some in bloom, some budded. There are patches of oriental poppies almost through blooming and annual poppies making bright splotches over the garden.

Masses of sweet william, vigorous growing dahlias, flowers from bulbs, seeds, roots; annuals and perennials; old fashioned flowers and new ones, and even a wide variety of wild flowers including the shooting star and Jack-in-the-pulpit.

Mrs. Smith has a vivid imagination. Many of her flowers have a meaning which she connects with Bible stories and hymns and in her Biblical garden she has put other things, too, that have a meaning.

Mrs. Smith pointed to the large green leaves of her canna plants. "They represent the Land of Canaan" she said. "And the gladioli tell glad story of Jesus' birth and over there is Job's tears."

Then she went on to explain that Job's tears had little drops that look very much like tears — some people, she said, string them like beads.

"There are the zinnias which mean youth and age," Mrs. Smith went on, "And the marigolds which have both the name of the mother of Jesus and the promised streets of gold in Heaven."

"Over there" said Mrs. Smith pointing to some plants not yet in bloom, "Are the cockcomb — remember Christ said that before the cock crows Peter wuld deny him thrice."

"Then," said Mrs. Smith, "There is the angel's trumpet; nictoma that represents sin; and the cup and saucer, you know the cup was mentioned by Christ as he prayed in the woods, 'O, my Father, if this cup cannot pass away, and I must drink it, then thy will be done' and again in the 23rd Psalm, "My cup runneth over.' "

Mrs. Smith went on along the sidewalk in front of her home pointing over the fence to the plants in her Biblical garden. Joseph's coat, the lily-of-the-valley, the sin spot foliage, the crown of thorns, the devil in the bush, Jacob's ladder, the touch-me-not, and many, many more.

Among the flowers she had little symbols of the Bible, the house built on the rock, a cross, rock of ages, a calf, a serpent, and many other things.

A delight to the children of the neighborhood and other children who hang on the fence and look over into Mrs. Smith's yard is her "Wonder Garden" and you wonder where she found so many things to put in it. Among this wide assortment of figurines, toys and other things are growing old-fashioned rose bushes, cactus plants, ferns, a real red violet, sweet william and dozens of other kinds of flowers. But all of the little objects setting there among the flowers have a meaning, for here again, Mrs. Smith has used her imagination and combined old nursery rhymes, characters, and songs with modern characters and songs. The children love the gay garden with her imaginary painted desert, the Boots and Saddle, the Old Lady in the Shoe, the monkey organ grinder, the sea shells, the petrified birds nest, the little cabin and they often bring her old toys and other things to put in her garden. Every-

The red rose that blooms in abundance on the white fence of Mrs. Curtis Howard, 623 East 16th, is the one she budded herself, a Crimson Glory budded on an old fasnioned climber. She learned budding as a little girl when her father budded fruit trees. (Staff Photo)

ed from a slip, a huge and beautiful hybrid delphinum, California moss, the Tally-ho rose and many others including magnificent lilies of 12 different varieties all filled with buds.

The east side of the garden of Mrs. Frank T. Armstrong, 725 West Seventh, is a garden built in three tiers, with columbine, crimson lilies, ferns, gladioli, roses and other things. In the yard, too, is a Southern magnolia, sweet william and across the back five trellises built together, each with a rose.

Mrs. H. E. Lindstrom, 1109 South Moniteau, has something outstanding in the way of lilies. Sturdy stalks that look as if they are all from one bulb — at least they are coming from the same place in the ground, of a regal lily that has over 30 buds on one stalk and 21 one on another. There is the Golden Fleece, too, the Orange Brilliant the Estate lily, the Olympic hybrid, ismene lilies and day lilies. She has the Royal Carpet sweet alyssum started from seeds and already in bloom and among her shrubs, the joy of her life, the double mock orange right by her bedroom window with its fragrance floating into every morning as she awakes.

Mrs. Linden L. Jones, 1901 South Osage, has larkspur in all colors, poppies and old fashioned spice pinks, corn flowers and hydrengas. Chinese forget-me-nots about to burst into bloom, and other flowers all over the large yard. She has a fig tree, to, a red twig dogwood, purple raspberries, Chinese lanterns and believe it or not — a money plant. Of course, the money isn't real money, but it looks like silver coins in the fall and is beautiful in winter bouquets.

Mrs. Courtis Howard, 623 East 16th, has a rather unusual hobby. She likes to bud roses — of course if it doesn't work, she says, you lose a rose — but if it does work you really have something. And we agree. She budded an old fashioned climber on a Crimson Glory and she has a rose of rare beauty, a climber simply covered with exquisite red roses. She budded a New Dawn on a climbing American Beauty and again has something special.

Mrs. Howard got the urge to bud roses through her experience as a little girl of helping her father bud fruit trees — her part was to carry the spoonful of sugar and she often was told to hurry, father had cut the slit in the tree and it was bleeding. He needed the sugar water and he needed it right now. She always has gum with her so if she sees an opportunity to bud she has the gum right there to help her do the job.

Mrs. Howard, also has an iris friendship garden, many other flowers and some pets, one dog and five cats. The cats are mostly white, part yellow, and you wonder how they keep so clean, then you see the dog licking them and you know.

The last place visited was that of Mrs. F. M. Nicholas, 12th and Marshall, whose garden is pretty well known. Rocks have been used in most every way, and they started with the clear little pool at the side of the house in which grow water plants. Then there are benches, birdbaths, boxes and many other things of rock and it would be much easier to list the flowers Mrs. Nicholas doesn't have in her garden — she has everything along the borders and the winding little paths that lead from one garden to another. Old fashioned flowers and new, a long strip of lemon lilies as yellow as the sun, canterbury bells, roses of all kinds, African daisies, hardy mallow with big red flowers that came from Texas, hardy begonias, the passion flower, Jack-in-the-pulpit, wild flowers, creeping phlox, holly and evergreen and the fern that keeps creeping. She started with two in front of her house but it spread all the way down one side, went under the walk and to the other side and is almost half way to the street, and is still going.

Somehow, if you like flowers, it seems as though those who missed the tour last Thursday missed a real adventure. True enough we all like the splash that is made in the spring by the bright bulbs, followed by the iris and then the roses, but we all have those. It is the new, the different, the unusual, even if they are not in bloom. The things that have grown from tiny seeds, been budded, slipped, or layered. Things that you wish you had a start of, and you wish you had a green thumb. Gardening is buying plants and keeping them growing but adventure is trying out new plants, trying to make them grow from seeds and roots and cuttings.

Gardening is a hobby that gets into your blood in the spring, increases with the weeks until the sun gets so hot it scorches everything, then it ebbs a bit and starts again with the fall flowers. How much it costs in money depends on the gardener, but one thing sure they never have to go far in search of fun — for it is fun — just in their own backyard.

Wide Screen and 3-D Project Audience Right 'Into' the Movies as Actors

Viewers Jump as Rocks Fall, Have Sensations of Players

By Carl McIntire
(News Editor of The Democrat)

Movies are getting gigantic, stupendous, colossal.

If that sounds like the flamboyant, bombastic and grandiloquent lingo of the industry that produces and shows the flickers in millions of cinema houses across the nation and around the world—it's intentional.

This week the movies made a believer out of this reporter. To a Missourian who "has to be shown", "seeing is believing".

We saw — and while what we saw was hard to believe, we were convinced.

This 3-D you are hearing about is the real McCoy — but even greater, in our humble opinion — is the new wide - screen projection, the vivid new color processes and the excellent new sound recording and amplification methods.

We Dodge Falling Rocks

Along with others in a vast audience at the Orpheum Theatre in Kansas City we actually dodged to keep from getting hit by rocks that were falling on the screen in an avalanche scene. We watched others get out of the way, down the middle of the center section, as a trombone player slid his slip horn slide right down through the audience. We jumped back, and so did a thousand others, to keep from getting nipped on the schnoz as a baton twirler tossed her baton, end forward, right out into the crowd.

Of course, it was all on the screen and there wasn't a living soul on the stage. But that's what 3-D does for you. You are right in the picture, or should we say the picture wraps itself right around you?

There's Depth to Pictures

There is depth to the pictures, too, just like looking back from your living room, through the dining room and into the kitchen. Its the same thing with real 3-D. The "flat picture" of the ordinary theatre screen will be a thing of the past one of these days.

But the wide screen has third dimension, too, and it also wraps the story around the theatre-goer right in his seat. He becomes a part of the scene and what happens to the actors and actresses also happens to him.

Plane Ride In Theatre

For instance, we took a plane ride there on a comfortable, upholstered seat in the Orpheum — and never left the theatre. We felt the thrill of a take off, experienced the odd sensation of flying about six inches above the water in a lake, felt the popping of our ears as the plane soared to the heights and then had that queer sinking tremor in our tummy when the plane nosed down suddenly and headed in for a landing. The tummy-tickler was almost as if we were going down five stories in a fast falling elevator. Yet, we never moved.

It was all because of the wide screen.

The camera had been set up in the cockpit of the plane and it looked out over the countryside as a pilot views what's ahead. The wide view presented in front of us made us feel like we were right there in that seat as a co-pilot and we had all the sensations the pilot has as he banks, turns, lifts and drops. It was really that real!

New Screen Very Wide

Wide screen employs just that. The screen on which the picture is shown is nearly three times as wide as it is high. The ordinary screens are almost square. The surface is concave; it is bent so the center section is two to three feet farther from the audience than the two ends.

The screen fills almost the entire front portion of the theatre and instead of looking at a small point in front of you, now you look ahead and at both sides all at once. The picture literally is wrapped around you — it takes in almost the full field of normal vision. That is what creates the illusion of putting you into the picture. The wide angle, the concave screen give depth to the picture and make it third dimension.

See Varied Demonstrations

We went to Kansas City as the guest of Joe Ruddick and the Fox Midwest Theatres for some special third-dimension and wide screen demonstrations. For the event the movie makers had made up special shorts that included parts of several pictures that are in the making, all of a couple of films and then some special "shots" that were especially for such demonstrations.

They were to picture to theatre men, news reporters and a few other guests just what third dimension and wide screen are all about.

We saw parts of "The Robe", which is not finished and will not be released until in October. (Its wonderful, be sure to see it). We watched a panoramic view of the New York skyline that made us feel like we were there on the barge from which the pictures were taken. We took the airplance ride already mentioned, and jumped when a race car plowed through the fence three feet in front of us during an auto race picture.

It was in "It Came From Outer Space" that we dodged the falling rocks of an avalanche.

38 Feet of Marilyn Monroe

The screen at the Orpheum is 38 feet long and 17 feet high and we saw Marilyn Monroe reclining on a chaise lounge — her head in one upper corner of the screen and her feet 38 feet away in the far, lower corner. That was in some "shots" from "How to Marry a Millionaire", another new film not yet released. The "teasers" we saw will make all of us return when the picture is ready for a full showing.

Then, in some other views, we got a glimpse of the new color process that offers more brilliant, easier to look at, truer colors than we've ever seen on a screen before.

And in addition we heard sound coming from all around the theatre —sometimes so real that we looked back down the aisle to see who was coming into the picture from the rear.

Sound Walks Across Screen

In most theatres today there is only one sound amplifier — right in the middle of the screen. In the new processes there are several behind the screen, at each side and in the center, and in addition there are other speakers at the sides and in the back of the movie house. So now the sound "walks" across the screen, comes in from the sides and even approaches with those who are coming into the scenes from the foreground of the picture.

There are many kinds of 3-D, several styles of wide - screen, different names for the various new sound systems and more than a few kinds of color. For that reason, we have not tried to get you all mixed up in this report. We saw and heard them all in the special showings and if you are interested further you can read the glossary we are providing along with this story. It will give you the differences.

Using Glasses Is Fun

We might add here for your information that the glasses you hear about in connection with 3-D are not always necessary. They are used only with true 3-D — and we didn't mind wearing them.

With the wide screen the glasses are only needed when the projection is in true 3-D. There are lots of pictures with depth illusion that do not demand glasses.

Without the glasses, you may be interested in knowing, the objects on the screen have the appearances of having halos around them. With every line having a halo, its rather confusing. With the glasses — little cardboard affairs that fit easily on anyone's head, with regular spectacles or without — the picture assumes depth the same as the old stereo pictures we used to look at through those stereoscopes.

Glossary of Terms For 'New' Movies

Here's a glossary of terms now being employed in the new motion picture industry:

3-D — (Third dimension) uses the standard sized screen with polarized coating, simultaneous projection of two strips of film through polaroid filters with increased light sources and requiring the wearing of viewers by the audience.

CinemaScope — is a panoramic screen process employing the distortion principle at point of photography and rectification at the point of projection. The rectifying lens restores the picture on the wide screen in a manner approaching the full normal vision of the viewer.

Extended 3-D — is the combined 3-D and extended 2-D process.

Cinerama — and various other multiple projector or large film processes are so complicated and expensive in filming and presentation that they will be restricted to road show engagements in metropolitan centers and then only for special pictures.

Sterophonic Sound — and all the other newer "traveling sound" systems employ the use of additional sound tracks on the standard motion picture film and the use of additional, strategically placed, amplifying speakers in the theatre.

Sedalia Gets First 3-D This Week With 'Bwana Devil' at Fox

Sedalia will get its first look at third dimension—real 3-D this week as the Fox Theatre shows "Bwana Devil" for four days, starting Wednesday.

This is a jungle picture advertised for you to "have a lion on your lap, a lover in your arms".

It will be shown on the regular sized screen and viewers will use the polaroid glasses which the theatre will furnish.

Another great midweek attraction at the 50 Hiway Drive-In Theatre will be seen in the new Alan Ladd thriller, "Appointment With Danger," also starring Phyllis Calvert and Jan Sterling. The program plays Tuesday for three days.

Parent Harmony Needed for Well-Adjusted Child

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How can you tell when a child is socially and emotionally well-adjusted?

One of the country's leading child psychiatrists, Dr. J. Louise Despert, replies:

"The well-adjusted child not only takes all the love and affection his parents and other adults shower upon him, but gives of himself as well. He is a child who capable of getting joy out of his activities and who is able to communicate this joy to others. He is a child who knows how to assert himself, though not to the point of destruction. He is one who lives in an atmosphere of love and harmony."

Dr. Despert, associate professor of clinical psychiatry and associate attending child psychiatrist at the New York Hospital - Cornell Medical Center, has just written a book, "Children of Divorce," (Doubleday, $3.50) in which she has recorded over 20 years of experience with disturbed as well as normal children. Not legal divorce but emotional divorce is the destroyer of children, says Dr. Despert:

"Countless more couples live out their lives and rear their children in the destructive climate of emotional divorce. Among the hundreds of unhappy children who come to the attention of a child psychiatrist, I have seen many whose parents had no thought of divorce. But I have never found one seriously disturbed child whose parents were happy, well integrated partners in a harmonious marriage."

During the last war, points out Dr. Despert, many children in England were sent away from their families to places of safety. Yet these children, deprived of the company of their parents were not as emotionally stable as those who remained with their families during the blitz. The blitz child was made to understand that the whole family was in it together. They would take what came along together. They'd fight through together. And out of this came children who were well - adjusted, happy in their parents' love and in living together as a family.

Childhood should be a time for learning gradually how to live as an adult in the adult world. The child's way of learning is by identification with the adults who have the greatest significance for him, his parents. She explains:

"Not so much the words they say, but what they do and how they feel, the way they face their own lives as adults, are most meaningful to him. Out of these parent images, he unconsciously creates his own attitudes, his acceptance or rejection of the responsibilities and privileges of adulthood."

Bachelor Finds Baby

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — A mother abandoned her baby in a parked car. The car owner, an embarrassed bachelor, took it to the police station. Police are seeking the mother. They explain that if she signs a release, immediate adoption of the baby can be arranged. Otherwise adoption will have to be delayed for a year.

$50,000 Damage Suit Gets Plaintiff $2

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A $50,000 damage suit here brought the plaintiff exactly $2.00.

A Circuit Court jury of seven men and five women yesterday awarded that amount to M. D. Lightfoot who had sued O. E. Jennings, a Springfield beverage dealer, for allegedly calling him a Communist.

Lightfoot's attorney, John Newberry, said it was the first time in Missouri legal history in which one person had been accused of calling another a "Communist."

The plaintiff charged that Jennings applied the name Communist to him in August, 1949, at a meeting called by a group laying plans for circulation of petitions for a bond issue to build a new power plant.

Jane Powell and MGM's talented newcomer, Bobby Van, dance in one of the gay numbers in "Small Town Girl," 'new Technicolor musical opening today for four days at the Uptown Theatre. The second feature, a gambling syndicate in ice hockey bribery, "White Lightning," starring Stanley Clements and Steve Broidy.

Public Library Notes---

Evaluations of Current Films Made Available at Library

Evaluations of current motion pictures are now given over the telephone to inquiring patrons by the reference department of the Sedalia Public Library. The evaluations, called "Joint Estimates of Current Motion Pictures," are distributed by the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, which reviews films from the standpoint of suitability for children and the family, and the type of entertainment the picture represents. The service has been praised by parent and educational organizations all over the country.

Each evaluation gives the screen credits, including the names of the producer, director and cast, a brief outline of the plot, and then an estimate of the picture's entertainment value in the opinion of the organizations reviewing the film. In case of disagreement, the opinion of the dissenting organization is also given.

At the Public Library the file of evaluations, going back for two years, has been made the responsibility of the reference department. One of the librarians on duty will locate evaluations for patrons in the library, or read them over the telephone.

Organizations evaluating the films are the American Association of University Women, Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation, American Library Association, American Legion Auxiliary, Children's Film Library Committee, Daughters of the American Revolution, National Federation of Music Clubs, Girl Scouts, National Council of Jewish Women, Protestant Motion Picture Council, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Optical systems used in modern street lighting not only secure more light from the lamp, but also direct the light at an angle to get greater pavement brightness.

Says Dairy Industry Should Stop Fighting Vegetable Oil Firms

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The dairy industry should stop fighting vegetable oil competition and prepare to do without so much government price aid, Don Paarlberg, special assistant to the secretary of agriculture, said yesterday.

Paarlberg told representatives of the St. Louis Dairy Council, the Farmers Club of St. Louis and the Agriculture Committee of the Chamber of Commerce that they should concentrate on improving services to their customers instead of fighting competition.

The following young people, who now have work in Kansas City, spent the Memorial Day holiday with their families: Miss Lavona Hughes, Miss Mildred Wilson, Loren Hughes, Donald Snelling and Oliver Heimsoth.

Lists Four GOP Deeds In Speech to Women

SAVANNAH, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Stanley I. Dale of St. Joseph last night listed four major accomplishments expected of the Republican Party by the American people.

In an address to the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs of the 6th Congressional District, Dale said the four objectives are an early and successful end to the Korean War, a strong army and navy, military and economic aid to our Allies and a reduction in taxes and federal spending.

Shooting War In West Virginia Hills

Mine Battle in Isolated Community Has Countryside Frightened

ALL-NIGHT WATCH is kept by striking miners at head of road leading to Widen, W. Va., mine when they're picketing. Here the young son of a miner, who joined pickets, naps by the fire.

WIDEN, W. Va. — On the high, wild hills and in the black valley shadows of this isolated coal mining community is being fought a savage and deadly war, details of which are virtually unknown to the outside world.

There has been murder. Men have been shot and lived to tell about it. Time bombs have wrecked automobiles. Cars have been riddled with bullets. Two railroad bridges and a power station have been dynamited to bits.

Telephone and power lines have been wrecked and a train has been fired on. Men have been beaten and a whole countryside so frightened that a local grand jury has termed it "a reign of crime and terror." But arrests have been few, and convictions fewer.

As things stand now the cases of 48 striking miners, all charged with murder in the slaying of a single man May 7, go before a Clay County grand jury June 2.

Meantime, state troopers have set up round-the-clock roadblocks on the route leading in and out of Widen. While one trooper examines your papers like he's hunting for termites, another frisks your car for weapons.

This same air of tension and distrust extends to the people who live in the area — tight - lipped Welsh, English and Scotch folk who came here years ago to work the mines and are now battling about it.

The men on strike are not picketing at the moment, and are scattered to their homes in the mountains. You go to a home perched in the wilderness on the side of a hill and the womenfolk tell you their men "ain't home."

Maybe they ain't—and maybe they just "ain't home" to strangers.

When they do leave home—and this goes for everybody in the countryside—they go in pairs or groups, and they go armed.

This latest outbreak in the historically strife - ridden West Virginia mine country is the result of a strike which began last Sept. 20 at the Elk River Coal and Lumber Co., reportedly the biggest non-union coal mine in the nation.

The majority of the more than 600 mine employes walked out charging, in effect, that the Widen League of Miners was company dominated and did not properly represent them although they paid monthly dues which were deducted from their pay by the check-off system.

So wildly contradictory have become the charges and counter charges between the strikers and the company, that even the people in the state capital at Charleston, only 65 miles from Widen, admit they "don't know what's going on up there."

That's understandable in the light of conflicting views held on the strike by official bodies investigating it.

A Clay County grand jury report last February put nearly all the blame for violence on the strikers—without naming them as such—and on the governor of the state and his various law enforcement agencies for not controlling the situation.

But the report said then Gov. Okey L. Patteson "by some understanding between the crowd (the strikers) and the governor, managed to keep order on election day last Nov. 4."

On the other hand, a special committee named by the governor to investigate the strike, took an entirely different view of things. Its report stated that, "it appears that there is as much violence on one side as on the other."

Actually the committee issued two reports. The more temperate one, issued by committee member John G. Fox, state attorney general, said in part:

"I am further convinced that there was a highly organized effort to convince the public that violence was running riot in Widen and to thereby bring pressure upon the officials of the state government to use the police and military strength of the state to break the strike."

The majority report of the committee, signed by Chairman Charles Sattler, state labor commissioner, accused forces who were opposing the strikers, of trying to "discredit" the committee, "discourage the inquiry," and "boycott" the hearing.

The committee recommended that another and more exhaustive inquiry be made by a legislative committee with powers of subpoena. Otherwise, the committee said, the situation at Widen "may appear to be submerged, but we would predict that it will flare up again . . ."

And flare up it did. At 4:30 a. m. on May 7, two months after the report was issued, mounting hatred and tension reached a violent climax.

An 11 - car patrol of company employes was driving down the road past the strikers' "headquarters," a cinder block cook shack about two miles from Widen, when the dawn stillness was shattered by sudden and thunderous gunfire.

When the shooting died down, Charles Frame, 29-year-old father of two children, lay dead with a bullet in his head. Three other company men were injured.

It was for the slaying of Frame that 48 strikers are charged with murder. Trying to determine who fired the death bullet will be the task of the grand jury.

But even if justice is done in this case, the atmosphere of force and violence which keeps Widen on edge will be far from cleared. The issues go too deep and the opponents are too tough-minded.

WAR-VICTIM'S FAMILY are Mrs. Hilda Jean Frame, daughter Patsy Jean, 5, and David, 3. Children's father, a company guard at the Widen mine, was killed in May 7 ambush shooting.

The Reverend Passmore is beginning to suspect members of the volunteer fire department of having a signal for someone to turn on the siren so they can run out of church if they don't like his sermon.

Conservation Group May Find Itself Out on Street

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The state Conservation Commission might find itself on the street without any office space under a bill rushed through the Legislature in the final hours Sunday.

Earlier the commission had weathered several legislative attacks on its powers. But in the bill appropriating $8,250,000 to it for the next two years is a proviso that none of the funds shall be spent for renewal or erection of a central office building for the commission.

I. T. Bode, conservation director, said he will ask the attorney general to interpret the limiting section. Bode thought it might be meaningless if it is held to be an attempt to legislate in an appropriation bill—something the lawmakers can't do.

Currently the commission rents quarters in several downtown office buildings. It also has an option on a proposed building site, obtained after it turned down space in the new Jefferson Building here.

At one period in the history of armored knights, it was customary to wear steel shoes with toes so long that the man could not walk in them, and the toes were attached after the knight was mounted.
